SEATON LETTER AGAINST TAX AID TO IDAHO POWER IGNORED BY ODM

By GEORGE H. HALL
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 28—Valuable tax concessions on two Snake river dams were granted by the Office of Defense Mobilization to the Idaho Power Co. despite a contrary recommendation by Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton, Senate investigators disclosed yesterday.

Seaton is expected to testify tomorrow before a Senate judiciary subcommittee headed by Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, about a letter he wrote March 11 to Arthur S. Flemming, former ODM director who turned over his post to the present director, Gordon Gray, March 14.

Letter a Surprise.

The letter, introduced into the hearing yesterday as a surprise was found by committee staff members in the files of the Interior Department, Kefauver said. It did not turn up in ODM files and Kefauver accused Gray, the witness, of trying to keep it to himself.

Gray replied the letter had been handed to him by Flemming on the day before Flemming left office and that, in connection with the committee inquiry, he had asked "a competent authority" whether it was a "privileged communication." He was informed yesterday that it need not be so considered, Gray said, and he then turned it over to the committee.

"After you knew we already had obtained a copy of it from Interior?" Kefauver asked.

"I did not know you had it," Gray replied.

Earlier Gray testified to what already is in the record, that the Interior Department on Oct. 25, 1955, recommended that the Idaho Power Co., a Maine corporation, be granted accelerated tax amortization certificates for its Brownlee and Oxbow dams, two of the three low dams scheduled for private construction in the Hell's canyon reach by the river. Advocates of a single high federal dam have been attacking the utility's three-dam project.

Seaton Argument.

In the letter, the existence of which, it was brought out, was unknown until today to Jacob B. Wycoff, chief of ODM's tax amortization branch, Seaton argued that Idaho Power had made its case before the Federal Power Commission when it was seeking licenses on the ground that it would not need fast tax write-off certificates.

Seaton quoted testimony given the FPC by T. E. Roach, Idaho president, and then said:

"In my view the record before the commission is clear that the company has never established any basis of need for the financial assistance provided by accelerated tax amortization. Furthermore, I am convinced by the record that the hearings before the FPC establish that these hydro-electric projects were not planned for the purpose of creating excess capacity in the company's system, which has been a critical factor in the granting of tax amortization certificates. Accordingly, I recommend that you deny issuance of the accelerated tax amortization certificates requested by the Idaho Power Co."

Asked why he had gone against the advice of a "delegate agent" (Interior Department engineers advise ODM on power matters), Gray explained that in his opinion Seaton's let-

BLAIR CALLS ON HOUSE GROUP TO END FUND TIE-UP

By HERBERT A. TRASK
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 28—Gov. James T. Blair urged a caucus of House Democrats today to resolve its diffirences with the Senate over the $500,000,000 appropriations bills before the mandatody end of the 1957 session at midnight Friday.

"The people want the work now," the Governor told the caucus. "Unless this difference is settled it will have a serious effect on the state's majority party. A half billion dollars is in the balance," he added. "I don't think there should be a special session. It is too costly."

Earlier today the Governor said "arrogance and ambition" on the part of Representatiev Thomas D. Graham (Dem.), Jefferson City, was causing the Senate-House deadlock on the record appropriations bills.

A new attempt to work out a compromise and break the stalemate was defeated in the House today, when the legislators voted 61 to 69 against a proposal to reconsider House action yesterday on Graham's motion to instruct House members of a join conference committee. When the House Speaker pleaded, "Let's do something or go home," he was greeted with shouts from the floor, "Let's go home."

At his press conference, the Governor said Graham had agreed late yesterday in a conference with Senate and House leaders to a proposal which would have ended the stalemate, but at the last minute changed his mind.

"It's gotten to the point where Tom Graham is just arrogant and determined to have his own way," Blair said to reporters. He added, "You know Tom Graham as well as I do."

The Governor pointed out that his efforts to settle the controversy over whether the joint committee, still to be appointed to iron out the differences between the Senate and House versions of the appropriations bills, shall be limited in its power or have "free and open" conferences, he has steered clear of telling either house what it should do.

He said he had just been try-

5000-MILE RANGE MISSILE MAY BE READY BY FALL

EL PASO, Tex., May 28 (AP)—The United States might be ready to launch an intercontinental ballistic missile by early fall, a government electronics contractor indicated yesterday.

Range of an intercontinental ballistic missile (I.C.B.M.) is between 1500 and 5000 miles.

James B. Wynn Jr., vice president of Century Electronics Co., said his firm is outfitting five ships with telemetry equipment for use in tracking the huge missiles in the missile range off the Florida coast. The ships, he said, will provide the government with sea-going tracking stations beyond the chain of islands stretching 1500 miles from the Air Force missile test center at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla.

Wynn, here for the 1957 national telemetering conference, said his company has been working on a rush program for the ships and will deliver the first two to the government "by the end of the summer."

RUSSIA ADVISES YOUTH: DON'T ENVY VISITORS' GADGETS

© New York Times News Service

MOSCOW, May 28—Soviet youngsters who will be hosts to youth festival here this summer have been told that the Soviet Union's great electric power stations are worth any number of wondrous cigarette lighters the foreigners may possess. So do not stare with too much enthusiasm, is the Communist party's advice.

Soviet youngsters have been told they will "surely be surprised by sharp combinations of bright colors in dress of European and American delegates."

Do not be in a hurry to blame foreigners, for such is their normal dress, the Communist party advises. Soviet youngsters will be shown "decrepit Moscow houses with reproach" they were told.

Only those who misunderstand the laws of hospitality will act as if they had been "convicted by evidence," says the party. Those who are patriots are advised to recall what Moscow was like before the revolution and point to great progress that has been made.

Sandstorm in England.

WEYMOUTH, England, May 28 (UP)—A sandstorm piled up drifts as high as 14 feet in the downtown streets of this south coast seaside resort last night. A 60-mile-an-hour wind whipped sand from the beaches through the town. Many cars and trucks were buried under the drifts.

FERRIS WHEEL QUITS, 24 PUPILS ARE STRANDED

Device Breaks Down at School Picnic — Firemen Called to Effect Rescue.

Twenty-four school children experienced an unscheduled thrill today when a ferris wheel on which they were riding stopped turning, leaving some of them stranded high above Carondelet Park.

Some of the children, all pupils at St. Thomas of Aquin Catholic School, began screaming when they realized their predicament. A cable leading from the wheel to the motor had slipped off a drive wheel.

Police and firemen were summoned to the park. Members of Hook and Ladder Co. No. 11 caught some of the more daring boys, who dropped from the lower seats of the wheel into the firemen's arms, and then raised a 65-foot aerial ladder to those stranded as high as 50 feet above the ground.

Teachers stood below and shouted words of encouragement to their pupils, counseling them to trust the firemen and to follow their instructions.

The captain then had to talk consolingly for several minutes to a small boy who appeared to be dubious about leaving his seat and trusting himself on the swaying ladder.

The last pupils rescued were Robert Scahill, 11 years old, 3743 Marine avenue, and Russell Britton, 13, 3700 South Main street. They were sitting near the top of the wheel and calmly awaited their turns.

Four firemen took turns climbing the ladder, which had to be placed in three positions to reach all the seats. Nobody was injured in the rescue operation, which lasted more than 30 minutes.

Capt. Smith said he and his men had to work slowly and carefully to overcome the children's fear of the ladder, which shook considerably.

The Rev. Grover Bell, assistant pastor of St. Thomas of Aquin parish, was warm in his praise of police and firemen for "the way they soothed the children and kept them from getting frightened."

Fireman John McCulloch reported he heard one complaint. A small boy, obviously disappointed at the turn of events, said: "Boy, I hope I get my money back, I didn't get my ride."

About 1500 parents and children attended the picnic. Few of those on the ground appeared to be excited by the ferris wheel incident. During the rescue the merry-go-round kept turning and playing its merry tunes.

Eleven-year-old James Boscia, obviously envious because he was not one of those rescued, expressed disappointment at the lack of excitement as the firemen worked on the ladder.

"They should have used a net," he said.

Passenger on Liner Snubbed, He's a Uranium Millionaire

SOUTHAMPTON, England, May 28 (AP)—Charles Steen, a Texan who struck it rich in Colorado uranium, said today the only nice people he met on his first Atlantic liner crossing were the stewards and waiters.

"Never before have I paid so much to be bored for so long," the 37-year-old prospector told a reporter who met Mr. and Mrs. Steen and their four sons aboard the Queen Mary.

"My wife and I were not spoken to at any time during the voyage by any other passenger," he said. "I got so desperate I tried to horn in on a bridge game, but was repulsed. The players were all Americans, too.

"Out where I come from, we have less formality and more hospitality.

"Of course, the other passengers didn't know who I was. If they had, they would have fallen all over themselves trying to make friends."

The reporter asked Steen about his success as a uranium prospector.

"Well, there are many wealthier people in the United States than me but I'm a millionaire all right," Steen replied, "and in pounds too." The British pound is quoted at $2.80.

Steen, who now lives in Moab, Utah, said this was the family's first trip to Europe.

U.S. ARMS PLAN IS REPORTED TO HAVE RUN INTO SNAG IN FRANCE

Stassen Leaves for Paris, Where Government Is Said to Oppose Implications of Subordinate Position.

LONDON, May 28 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen left unexpectedly tonight for Paris, where the new United States disarmament plan was reported running into trouble.

Stassen planned to inform the United States allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization of the broad new plan drawn up with the personal advice of President Eisenhower.

The United Nations disarmament subcommittee, which still has not received the new American plan, was recessed until Thursday to permit Stassen to attend a weekly meeting of the NATO council tomorrow.

Even before the new American plan could be submitted to the Soviet Union's delegate in London, reliable sources in Paris reported, the United States plan ran into strong French opposition with regard to one section: To restrict possession of nuclear weapons to the three powers which already have them—the United States, Russia and Britain.

France Reported Balking.

Foreign Minister Christian Pineau was reported preparing instructions to the French delegate in the London talks—Jules Moch—telling him that France cannot accept a subordinate position in world affairs such as this provision would imply.

France is not making an atomic bomb at this time nor does it have any plans to do so in the future. All of its nuclear program is directed to the peaceful uses of nuclear energy for industrial purposes. But it has insisted on having the right to manufacture atomic weapons if it desires to, it was said.

French government leaders felt parliament would never ratify any agreement which, in effect, excluded France from the circle of major powers.

One source said France would renounce the right to make nuclear weapons only if the three atomic-bomb powers agreed to destroy their atomic stockpiles.

Soviets Hail U.S. Pledge to Meet Russia Half-Way.

LONDON, May 28 (UP)—Moscow saw the "glimmering of a constructive solution" to world disarmament problems today in the United States promise to meet Russia halfway in working out their differences.

A broadcast by the Moscow radio said the Soviets would give "the most careful consideration" to practical proposals for a first step in reducing the world's arms and armies.

The broadcast gave the first direct Soviet reaction to the new American stand which United States Delegate Harold Stassen brought back to the London disarmament conference from his conferences in Washington.

Stassen, at yesterday's brief session of the United Nations disarmament subcommittee, did not present details of the new American plan. He pledged, however, that the United States is ready to meet Russia halfway on reasonable and safeguarded "first step" proposals.

"It looks as if there is a glimmering of a constructive solution of the problem," the Moscow broadcast said.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko talking at a reception in Budapest, was not so optimistic about disarmament as the Moscow radio.

"It would be difficult to forecast today how the disarmament talks . . . will end," he said. "We must, however, not be unmindful of the fact that in western countries, especially on the other side of the Atlantic, there is still more talk about armaments than about disarmament."

The Moscow radio, however, said "It looks as if the U.S.A. intends making the first step toward the Soviet stand."

EISENHOWER TURNS $216 IN GIFTS OVER TO TREASURY

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower last weekend sent to the Treasury $216 mailed in by Americans supporting his opposition to drastic budget cuts.

Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey yesterday wrote each of the donors personally on behalf of the President and said: "The money you sent has been placed in the general fund of the Treasury and will be used for the purpose you request."

In actual fact, the money cannot be used for any specific purpose. The right to designate how, when and where Government money shall be spent rests solely with Congress. The Treasury did not identify the donors.

ALDERMEN ARE WARNED BY POELKER TO ACT NOW OR ACCEPT BIG FUND CUTS

HE SAYS SLASH COULD BE 25 PCT. IN SECOND HALF OF FISCAL YEAR

Asserts Each Day's Delay Means That Much Less Revenue—Points to Heavy Fixed Expenses.

Comptroller John H. Poelker appealed to the Board of Aldermen today for prompt action to resolve the city's financial crisis, with a warning that funds for supplies and salaries might have to be cut as much as 25 per cent for the last half of the fiscal year if the aldermen do not provide additional revenue.

In a markedly conciliatory vein, Poelker told the aldermen that each day's delay in providing essential revenue would mean that much less revenue would be received, because the city already has passed the first month of the current fiscal year.

Poelker told the board that after deducting fixed charges of more than $16,000,000, including police department salaries, which must be paid, there would be only $43,193,000 of the proposed $59,635,000 budget for city and county offices and operations.

Deficit of $5,000,000.

If no additional taxes are passed affecting this year's revenue, there will be only about $54,000,000 in revenue available, leaving a deficit of about $5,000,000. This means, Poelker said, that the appropriations for purely city operations would have to be cut to $37,890,000, or about 87.9 per cent of the amount proposed as the minimum needed. The sum of $4,900,000 already has been spent in the first month of the current fiscal year that began last month.

If no additional revenues are approved and received by Sept. 1, the city might well have to reduce its expenditures, not by about 15 per cent but probably by about 25 per cent because any new revenues voted by that time would be effective only for the second six months, he continued.

Referring to the board's authorization of a citizens' committee yesterday to work out some solution to the fiscal problems, Poelker pointed out such a committee would require 30 or 60 days to come to any well-though-out conclusions.

Would Refuse Approval.

"After we pass July 1, we will soon be in our second quarter and the income from any gasoline or cigarette tax or other source will be diminished to the extent of one quarter of the year's collections," he said. "I urge you to give fruitful consideration to the financial problems facing our city. If the revenue is not raised, the only alternative facing me as comptroller is to refuse to approve warrants for payments of salaries and supplies."

At Poelker's request, Board President Donald Gunn introduced a resolution authorizing the Comptroller to honor "all requisitions for supplies and materials as well as salaries to carry on the necessary functions of the city until such time as a budget bill is passed."

The word "necessary" was introduced as an amendment by Alderman Wayman F. Smith Jr. The resolution was intended t osupplement an earlier formal resolution authorizing payment of salaries for the current fiscal year pending approval of the budget. The resolution passed without a dissenting vote.

Exchange With Harris.

In an exchange with Poelker, Alderman Alfred I. Harris (Dem.), Twenty-second ward, said: "The position of our board now is that we are waiting for some concrete proposals from the Board of Estimate. The longer you wait to give us these concrete proposals the greater the delay."

Poelker said, sharply: "The responsibility is now with the Board of Aldermen. The Board of Estimate has submitted its proposals."

Harris asked: "Do you mean the Board of Estimate is going to get stubborn like the Mayor?"

Poelker continued to insist that the problem was now "up to the aldermen," saying: "You have the appropriations bills before you. If you don't vote the taxes, you must cut the budget."

"What do you recommend?" Harris asked.

"I recommend that you pass the taxes," Poelker answered.

Gasoline, Cigarette Levies.

The Comptroller pointed out that the aldermen still have for consideration bills to increase the taxes on gasoline and cigarettes. These bills, pending in the aldermanic ways and means

W. GERMANY, U.S. AGREE TO PRESS FOR ARMS PACT

Adenauer and Eisenhower in Accord on Limited Agreement With Russia.

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower and West German Chancellor Adenauer agreed today to press for a limited disarmament agreement with Russia "under an effective system of international control."

The two men proclaimed this in a communique summing up three days of intensive talks on urgent international problems.

Mr. Eisenhower and the 81-year-old German leader agreed, the announcement said, that if initial East-West disarmament steps succeed they should be "followed within a reasonable time by a comprehensive disarmament agreement."

They warned, however, that any second-step big disarmament agreement "must necessarily presuppose a prior solution of the problem of German reunification."

Adenauer advised the President that he believed that agreement on a "first stage" arms reduction plan with Russia "might be an appropriate time" for an American-British-French-Russian foreign ministers' conference with Germany on the problem of German reunification.

The communique said that in the private talks which began Sunday, Mr. Eisenhower "assured the Chancellor that the United States does not intend to take any action in the field of international disarmament which would prejudice the reunification of Germany."

"He stated that the United States would consult with the Federal German Government closely on all matters affecting Germany arising in the disarmament negotiations," it continued.

The 1000-word declaration blamed "acts and policies of the Soviet Union." among them the deprivation of other peoples of their freedom, for existing international tension.

Mr. Eisenhower joined with

BERSERK SAILOR GIVES UP AFTER KILLING OFFICER

Wounds Two, Takes Hostages and Holds Off Captors for Six Hours.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28 (UP)—A sailor court-martialed for stealing a watch went berserk today, killed an officer and wounded two other men before he surrendered to the pleading of his mother and two chaplains.

His surrender came after he had spent more than six hours on the flying bridge of the Navy attack cargo ship Uvalde, holding another enlisted man as his hostage.

The chaplains talked to him for more than four hours. His mother, who was called from her home in nearby Marin City, boarded the ship later and joined in the plea to her son that he give himself up peaceably.

Clubs Sailor on Watch.X

The sailor, Jimmie L. Henderson, went on his bloody spree shortly after 6 a.m., first clubbing a sailor on watch on the head with a hammer, then taking his .45 caliber pistol and racing to the officers' quarters.

There he fired one shot into the head of Ensign Richard Harrison, of Grand Rapids, Mich., his commanding officer and presumably the officer who preferred the court martial charges against Henderson.

He next turned the gun on Harrison's cabin mate, Ensign Arthur L. Morris, firing one shot which pierced Morris's left arm and then went into his abdomen. Morris was in critical condition.

Henderson then ordered another enlisted man, at pistol point, to go with him to the bridge. There he holed up despite the threat of death from a cordon of sharpshooters.

The commander of the ship, Capt. Robert O. Beers, said the sharpshooters "had a thousand chances" to shoot Henderson, but refrained.

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1957.

PARIS, May 28—Party Giver Elsa Maxwell hasn't added to her popularity hereabouts by her book, "I Entertained the World."

Nor has she enhanced her prestige by her appearance in a Paris court in defense of the libel suit for $14,300 brought against her by ex-King Farouk of Egypt.

In her book she writes that in 1950 she received an invitation from Farouk to dine in Deauville. She replied by telegram that "I do not associate with clowns, apes, depraved people or evildoers."

Farouk claims he never received the telegram but considered the book's references to him insulting.

In the courtroom Miss Maxwell's lawyer sought to raise the discussion to the level of high politics. He compared her "affection" for France with Farouk's hatred. Farouk's lawyer retorted that French relations with Egypt would have been happier if Farouk had remained on the throne—a debatable point.

Miss Maxwell's defense was that Farouk lacks a sense of humor, that she pokes fun at herself and others as well.

Farouk's lawyer remarked: "It so happens that others don't like it, Madame."

24,000,000 Others Would Be Seriously Injured, Official Tells Congress Group Studying Fallout.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 28 — Eighty-two million persons killed and another 24,000,000 seriously injured were the theoretical casualties disclosed today as the calculated result of a hypothetical enemy nuclear bomb attack on the United States.

Charles K. Shafer, a United States Weather Bureau consultant assigned to civil defense, told a special congressional subcommittee on atomic fallout that the casualties were figured on the basis of actual weather conditions.

The totals did not reflect, however, the protective effect of shelters or the decontamination steps that could be taken.

250 Big Bombs Assumed.

The hypothetical attack assumed that 250 10-megaton bombs were dropped in 144 populations centers and military and industrial areas across the United States. One megaton equals the explosive force of 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

Half of the 82,000,000 deaths were assumed to be due to radiation. In addition to the 24,000,000 seriously injured, another 60,000,000 were considered relatively uninjured but suffering some radiation effects.

Under questioning, Shafer said the 250-bomb attack was based on an actual appraisal of "the enemy's" capability by 1960. Asked if he referred to Russia, he repeated that this was an appraisal of 1960 strength of "the enemy."

Differs With Dr. Libby.

Another Weather Bureau witness, Dr. Lester Machta, in effect contradicted a recent assumption by Dr. Willard F. Libby, a member of the Atomic Energy Commission, that delayed fallout from big bombs is eventually distributed throughout the world.

Dr. Machta said he concluded that the bulk of radioactivity that reaches the stratosphere becomes concentrated in the temperate zone of the Northern Hemisphere.

His support for this conclusion was mainly theoretical, but under questioning he told the subcommittee his finding also was based on classified information that reached him only last week.

The significance of this is that delayed fallout, even if injected into the stratosphere by a blast at the equator, would reach the earth in greater concentration in the United States and other countries of the same latitude than in the rest of the world.

Dr. Machta said the fallout in the latitude of the United States could be as much as three times the world average if fallout were uniform.

Effect of Rainfall.

Variation in rainfall can account for additional variation in fallout, but Dr. Machta estimated that these differences would be not more than two or three times for an area the size of a milkshed. He chose this area because strontium 90, one of the chief fallout products, gets into the human body by being deposited on grass which is eaten by cows and passed into milk.

Dr. Gordon M. Dunning, of the AEC's dicision of biology and medicine, minimized the hazard of fallout, even in the area around the Nevada test site.

The highest measured concentration, at St. George, Utah, in the 1953 test series, was less for a 24-hour period than the national average for an entire month from naturally occurring radioactive materials in the air that we breathe, he said.

An exception was a motor court called Riverside cabins, near Bunkerville, Nev., which is no longer in use. He said about 15 people there during the tests might have accumulated seven to eight roentgens if they had continued to live there indefinitely. This compares to a 50-roentgen cumulative maximum recommended for individual persons up to the age of 30 by the National Academy of Sciences.

Rates of Exposure.

Dr. Dunning presented detailed figures on the rates of exposure that would be received by persons at various distances from a bomb explosion and the protection that shelter would give them.

He concluded that persons well sheltered would receive less total exposure if they stayed in protected areas until outdoor exposure decayed somewhat than if they risked evacuation to a place outside the contaminated zone.

Representative Chet Holifield (Dem.), California, chairman of the special subcommittee, called Dr. Dunning's testimony "an almost conclusive argument in favor of adequate shelters."

Dr. Dunning said the AEC is working on a plan to test some atomic weapons underground so that all of the radioactive material "will be captured" and fallout eliminated.

The subcommittee recalled to the stand today Dr. W. W. Kellogg of the Rand Corp., which predicts fallout patterns under contract with the AEC.

Kellogg told the subcommittee yesterday such predictions require information from the Weather Bureau about wind speeds and directions at various heights, so that the probable path of atomic particles can be traced from the explosion cloud down to the ground.

No 'Clean' Bomb.

Leading atomic experts admitted yesterday that there is no such thing as a "clean" nuclear explosion—one that produces no radioactive fallout.

Eliciting of this information was hailed as a major achievement by Holifield.

AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss first mentioned the "clean" bomb last July 19 and since then proponents of continued testing of nuclear weapons have used the "clean" bomb argument to support their case.

The subject was brought up by Senator Clinton P. Anderson (Dem.), New Mexico. He interrupted a scholarly discussion of atomic physics by Dr. Alvin C. Graves, of the AEC's Los Alamos scientific laboratory, to ask whether a fusion, or hydrogen, explosion could be triggered in any way other than by first detonating a fission, or atomic, bomb.

The significance of the question is that the fission bomb always produces radioactive fragments, while the huge fusion bomb produces no radioactive fallout by itself.

Dr. Graves at first declined to discuss the matter, explaining that he would be glad to talk it over with the committee in executive session.

Holified objected that "as statements are made publicly that there is a clean bomb" the hearings should go into the question of whether such a weapon was, in fact, possible.

Anderson clinched the issue by reading a passage from a Defense Department booklet, not yet made public, on effects of nuclear weapons. The booklet says, "In order to make nuclear fusion reactions take place, temperatures of the order of 1,000,000 degrees are necessary. The only known way in which such temperatures can be obtained on earth is by means of a fission explosion."

Dr. Graves thereupon said: "There are some bombs that are dirty, and there are others that are dirtier." He made it clear that "complete cleanliness is impossible to achieve."

It says radiological warfare has been considered for some time, but before big bombs were produced this was impractical because of difficulties of producing, handling and delivering radioactive materials.

Booklet Quoted.

The booklet continues:

"The situation has undergone a change with the development of bombs having high fission energy yields. The explosion of such bombs at low altitudes can cause radioactive contamination over large areas that are beyond the range of physical damage.

"Consequently, they are, in effect, weapons of radiological warfare. Instead of preparing and stockpiling the contamination agent in advance, with its attendant difficulties, the radiological substances are produced by fission at the time of the explosion.

"Radiological warfare has thus become an automatic extension of the offensive use of nuclear weapons of high yield."

FOOD PRICES RISE, FARMER'S SHARE REMAINS SAME

WASHINGTON, May 28 (UP) —The farmer's share of the consumer food dollar for the first three months of 1957 was 39 cents—the same as a year ago—despite increases in both farm and retail prices, the Agriculture Department reported today.

An increase in marketing charges on farm-produced foods kept the farmer's share from getting any larger.

Marketing charges—the middleman's take—were 4 per cent higher in the first quarter than in the same period in 1956, the department said in its publication, "The Marketing and Transportation Situation."

Prices received by farmers for farm-produced food items were 5 per cent higher than a year earlier and retail prices paid by consumers were up 4 per cent. Higher prices for meat and meat animals accounted for much of the rise in consumers' and farmers' prices.

The department said operating costs of food marketing firms generally were higher in the first quarter than they were a year earlier. Hourly earnings of food marketing employes averaged about 5 per cent higher. Transportation charges were up and railroads have asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for further increases in freight rates.

HAITI COALITION CABINET CHOSEN BY NEW PRESIDENT

PORT-AU-PRINCE, May 28 (AP)—Haiti's leftist provisional President Daniel Fignole today named a coalition cabinet to help govern this strife-torn Caribbean republic. He described the appointees as "men of experience" who would assist him in dispelling what he termed "the spectre of civil war and anarchy."

Fignole said his government regards it as "a point of honor" to achieve peace and stability and that his rule would be that of "a true democracy."

Among the 12 named are two men who formerly served as Fignole's representatives on the recently ousted "executive council."

They are Leonce M. Bernard, secretary of the interior and national defense, and Seymour Lamother, secretary of the presidency and justice.

Dr. Joseph Butreau was named secretary of foreign affairs.

Change of Jobs Is Fatal.

INNSBRUCK, Austria, May 28 (AP)—Wilhelm Schaefer, a horsetrainer with the Tongi circus from Italy, decided to change jobs. He wanted to train tigers and lions instead. Today he entered the tiger cage between shows to get acquainted. Two tigers immediately mauled him to death.

U.S. CONSIDERS CUT IN AMERICAN FORMOSA FORCES

State Department Says Reduction Would Be in Military, Civilian Personnel.

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP) —A State Department spokesman said today the United States is "actively considering" a reduction in the number of American civilian and military personnel and their dependents stationed on the Chinese Nationalist stronghold of Formosa.

Officials said that obviously this consideration is one result of last Friday's anti-American rioting in which several persons were hurt and the Embassy and other United States offices ransacked.

In the State Department there is reportedly a strong feeling that the Chinese on Formosa deeply resent the number of Americans there and their higher living standards, big cars and good clothes.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said about 10,000 American citizens and their dependents are on the island. Those include 8500 with the Defense Department, Foreign Aid Administration, United States Information Agency or State Department.

The remaining 1500 are missionaries, business men and others not connected with the Government.

Military Cut-Back.

The Pentagon previously indicated it was going ahead with plans for a small reduction in the 3500 military personnel on Formosa. Plans call for a cutback of about 600 men, largely among Army personnel in the United States Military Assistance Advisory Group.

White reported that any cutback considered by the State Department would be in the 8500 government personnel and dependents rather than the 1500 private American citizens.

The reduction in force of Americans in Taipei and other Formosan centers, White said, has been under consideration "for some time."

The State Department report came as Secretary of Defense Wilson said the demonstrations on Formosa "highlighted the need for the United States to take another look" at the military aid program to Nationalist China.

Before Senate Committee.

He made the statement to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee after first declining to say whether United States aid to the Nationalist stronghold should be curtailed as a result of last week's outburst.

Under questioning by Senator Homer E. Capehart (Rep.), Indiana, Wilson said that the Formosa incident had "not made any big change in the reasons for our being" on Formosa.

He explained that the size of American military missions overseas, the scope of their activities and the volume of military aid to all aided countries was under continuous review.

Referring to what he called an "isolated incident" on Formosa, Wilson stressed his desire to avoid "pouring oil on a fire," saying, "It is in our best interests to stay (on Formosa)—up to a point."

That point could be reached, on Formosa or in any foreign country, Wilson cautioned "If enough people there didn't like us and wanted us to go home."

Accompanied by Radford.

The Defense Secretary, accompanied by the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Adm. Arthur W. Radford, appeared before the committee in support of the Administration's request for $1,900,000,000 for military aid in the coming year.

Wilson said the aid program has "paid dividends in security much greater than the cost" and that military assistance is "in no sense just a handout."

U.S. EXPLODES ATOMIC DEVICE TO OPEN TESTS

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev., May 28 (AP)—The United States exploded a brilliant atomic device in the desert darkness today, opening its summer series of Nevada tests.

The 10-kiloton device flared an unearthly light over the test center and a tremendous mushroom cloud erupted. Shot time was 4:55 a.m. This was the forty-sixth shot fired at this testing ground since 1951.

The power of the device is equal to the energy of 10,000 tons of TNT. This is about one-half the power of the bombs which devastated the Japanese cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in World War II. Bombs of more than 20 kilotons have been tested here.

The flash was seen in California, Arizona and Utah. Witnesses at most distant points said it was not as bright as the flashes of some previous tests.

Cloud Photographed.

As the blast went off from atop a 500-foot tower at Yucca flat, 70 miles northwest of Las Vegas, 31 planes streaked into the radio-active field to photograph the mushroom cloud and to track its path.

In observation posts ringing the test site were 200 military personnel. The test was witnessed by reporters from a site 11 miles away.

This explosion, delayed since May 16 by adverse wind conditions, was intended to provide the Atomic Energy Commission with information on radiation measurements, flash effects, and fallout.

The entire series, which will continue until Sept. 1 and will include more than 15 shots, is designed "to attain new knowledge important to the defense of the United States and the free world."

Fireball Above Ground.

The fireball of the explosion did not touch the desert floor beenath the disintegrated steel tower. This eliminated the great mass of radioactive dirt which in past tests has been sucked into the air.

Great emphasis is being placed in this series on reduction of fallout of radioactive material. Test Manager James E. Reeves said after the blast he was very pleased at the fallout pattern.

"Heavy fallout," he said, "was in the test area and only light long-delayed fallout will occur in off-site areas."

(At Tonopah, Nev., 100 miles north of the test site, Mrs. Minnette Crandall, wife of the editor of the town's newspaper, said Geiger counters "measured terrific activity." Her husband's paper has been sharply critical of the tests.)

As the mushroom cloud lost its shape and drifted lazily over the Nevada wastelands, helicopters buzzed over the landscape taking radioactivity readings. On the ground test personnel moved quickly in to check their instruments.

As usual, the AEC gave no indication of the nature of the device being tested.

Japan Expresses Regret Over Nevada Atom Test.

TOKYO, May 28 (AP)—Japan expressed its "sincere regret" over the nuclear test in Nevada today. A Foreign Office statement was issued less than 15 minutes after word of the test was received in Tokyo. It said:

"In view of the danger to the human body of radiation resulting from such a test, the Japanese government has taken necessary measures to reiterate its request to the United States Government for the suspension of the tests, and strongly hopes that fullest reconsideration of the United States Government be given to the above mentioned request."

Utilities' Propaganda Illegally Charged to Consumers, FPC Says

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 28—The Federal Power Commission has ruled that 59 private utilities illegally charged against consumers the cost of an anti-public power propaganda campaign, Representative Earl Chudoff (Dem.), Pennsylvania, disclosed today.

Chudoff, chairman, of the House subcommittee on public works and resources, which for more than three years has been checking on the efforts of private utilities to block federal low-cost power programs, said that the FPC rulings apply only to expenditures for two booklets issued in 1953, but that the findings would have far-reaching effects on much more ambitious programs undertaken by the private companies in intervening years.

He said that since the FPC ruling means that expenditures by the companies to fight public power cannot be legally charged as operating expenses for rate-making purposes, then it would be equally improper for the companies to deduct the propaganda expenses for income tax purposes.

"If such is the case," Chudoff said, "the companies involved may be liable for millions of dollars in back taxes."

He said he would ask representatives of the FPC and the Internal Revenue Service to appear before his subcommittee at an early date to discuss implementation of the agency's ruling.

The FDC ruling, forwarded to Chudoff at his request, dealt specifically with booklets titled "The Federal Power Program," and "Turn on the Light."

The manner in which the expense of these items was charged to operating expenses for rate-making purposes was disclosed last year in hearings conducted by the Chudoff committee.

While the amounts involved in publication of the two booklets, a total of about $30,000, is insignificant, Chudoff said that the rulings make it "obvious that the multi-million-dollar anti-public power campaign carried on by the electric utility industry in the past few years by television, radio, magazine and newspaper advertising has been financed through illegal charges against millions of consumers of electricity."

With respect to both booklets, the FPC held that:

"The subject of the booklet is to present the arguments against the construction and operation of electric power facilities by the Federal Government. In our opinion, this dispute of public power versus private power is a matter of public policy to be determined by the Congress and is a political controversy.

"Expenses in connection with the booklet are, therefore, political expenditures and are not properly chargeable to the utilities' operating expenses as the cost of rendering electric service. The charging of these items to operating expenses was contrary to the provisions of the commission's uniform system of accounts."

Among the companies named in connection with the improper accounting were the Union Electric Company of Missouri, St. Louis, which spent $2675.93 on the pamphlet "Turn on the Light" and distributed it to employes, consumers, newspaper publishers, business leaders and city government representatives; Missouri Power and Light Co., Jefferson City; Missouri Public Service Co., Raytown; St. Joseph Power and Light Co., St. Joseph, and Arkansas-Missouri Power Co., Blytheville, Ark.

Union Electric was involved in a rate case before the Missouri Public Service Commission in 1953 when it helped finance the propaganda drive.

HOUSE GROUP OK'S ALASKA STATEHOOD BILL

Provisions on Referendum and Fish, Wildlife Jurisdiction Are Removed.

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP) —The House Insular Affairs Committee today approved an Alaska statehood bill by a 24-6 vote.

Before acting, the committee knocked out of the bill a provision that Alaskans hold a general referendum on the question of whether they wished the territory to become a state before any of the admission machinery went into effect.

Also removed from the bill was a provision which would have delayed for five years after statehood the transfer of jurisdiction over fish and wildlife resources to the new state.

Both provisions had been written into the bill by a subcommittee which approved the measure 17-5 last week.

In other actions prior to the final vote, the committee defeated a proposal by Delegate E. L. Bartlett (Dem.), Alaska, which would have required any federal agency to obtain congressional approval before taking over 5000 or more acres of public land for Government purposes in the first five years after statehood.

The committee also deleted a subcommittee amendment which would have retained in the Federal Maritime Board after statehood its exclusive jurisdiction over common carriers operating between the states and Alaska or between Alaskan ports.

HENNINGS 'FINE,' DOCTORS SAY; SURGERY UNNECESSARY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 28 — Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr., who is under treatment at the naval hospital at nearby Bethesda, Md., for gallstones, is "getting along fine" and will not have to undergo surgery at this time, a spokesman for the St. Louis Democrat said today.

The spokesman said Hennings talked with members of his office staff this morning and informed them that his doctors had decided against operating now, though there is a possibility it may be necessary later on.

Hennings will remain at the hospital for several days, the spokesman said.

Report on Amendments Voted by Senate Is Rejected — Chamber Insists on Night-Time Differential Rate.

By EDWARD H. THORNTON
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 28—The proposed law to limit speeds of automobiles on Missouri's highways suffered a setback yesterday when the House refused to accept a conference committee report on amendments to the bill voted by the Senate. The House earlier had refused to concur in the amendments.

After rejecting the committee's report, the House, by voice vote, sent the bill back to a conference committee, instructing its conferees to insist on a night-time differential in maximum speeds and retention of the House's version of a section prohibiting excessively slow driving.

The conference committee had accepted Senate amendments to establish a speed limit of 70 miles an hour on divided highways at all times and 65 miles an hour on two-lane highways at all times.

As originally passed by the House, the bill would have limited speed on divided highways to 70 miles an hour during the day and 60 miles an hour at night. Maximum speed on two-lane highways would have been 65 miles in the day and 60 at night.

No Formal Meeting.

The House rejected the conference committee report, which was adopted in the Senate Thursday, after it was pointed out that the report had been prepared by Senator George A. Spencer (Dem.), Columbia, chairman of the Senate conferees on the committee, who then got other members to sign the report. No formal meeting of the committee was held.

The conference committee recommended that the House concur in all the Senate amendments and that one additional change be made, providing a 45-mile-an-hour speed limit in incorporated areas where local authorities do not fix speeds. The House rejection of the report was by a vote of 89 to 39.

The House repassed a bill requiring county superintendents of schools to make an annual report on the number of handicapped children in their counties.

The bill had been amended in the Senate to provide salary increases for the county superintendents because of the added duties. The increases range from $800 in first-class counties down to $400 in fourth-class counties.

Representative A. Clifford Jones (Rep.), Clayton, strongly opposed adoption of the Senate changes in the bill. But House members adopted the amendments and sent the bill to Gov. James T. Blair.

Jones on Pay Boost.

"Do you know what this bill, now that it has been rewritten into a pay increase bill by the Senate, would do in my county?" Jones shouted. "My school superintendent gets $10,900 a year now. This would raise his pay to $11,700.

"And what does he do? Nothing. He has no duties, but he thanks you. All this bill requires him to do for the additional pay is to write one letter a year to the State Department of Education giving information furnished him by the various organized school districts in the county.

"My school superintendent is a Republican, but I am against Republican loafers as well as Democratic loafers."

Representative Joseph W. Beckerle (Dem.), St. Louis, chairman of the House Committee on Public Health, which last week killed a Senate-approved bill to create a state department of public safety and fire prevention, said he plans today to seek to have the bill placed on the calendar for consideration, despite the adverse report of the committee.

Beckerle said Gov. Blair had asked him to try to get action on the measure, which the Governor had recommended following the fire Feb. 17 at the Katie Jane Nursing Home at Warrenton in which 72 persons lost their lives. The proposed department would have supervision over nursing homes, hospitals and all places of public assembly.

WELLSTON POLICE ARREST BELLIGERENT MOTORCYCLIST

Wellston police said Nelson was driving a motorcycle in the 6400 block of Lenox avenue. When asked for his license, Nelson became belligerent, and attempted to run down one of the officers, police said.

CITY BOMB SURVIVAL OF 60 PCT. INDICATED

That Is With Newest Type Shelters, Civil Defense Director Says.

Federal Civil Defense studies indicates that about 60 per cent of the people in the St. Louis metropolitan area would survive a 20-megaton nuclear blast provided the newest type bomb shelters were available, Brig. Gen. Francis P. Hardaway (ret.), St. Louis civil defense director, said today.

In the absence of such special shelters for the entire population, he said, the studies estimate that the survival rate would be only 10 per cent if a 20-megaton bomb were exploded and people simply sought refuge in basements of existing buildings.

He pointed out that the number of persons who might be affected would depend upon how much warning could be given of an impending attack, and emphasized that present civil defense plans involve a mass evacuation of the metropolitan area. He said the plan was regarded as feasible, because three to four hours of warning could be expected if the attack came via piloted aircraft.

The warning time would be reduced drastically if the hypothetical bomb were delivered by intercontinental ballistic missile, he added, but this weapon does not yet exist.

The federal studies of what might happen in the St. Louis area are based on the assumption that people have a 15-minute warning, sufficient to allow them to seek shelter but not enough to permit an exodus. It also is assumed that the bomb would explode in the heart of the area, in such a way as to have maximum effect.

If the population were protected by shelters of the approved type, approximately 756,000 persons would fall victim to a 20-megaton weapon, it was said. If the only protection were conventional basements, the casualty figure would be 1,701,000, by the federal estimate.

The terrific force of the bomb would knock down buildings within a radius of 14 miles from the blast center, an area that circumscribes practically every municipality in the metropolitan area on both sides of the Mississippi river.

In their studies, federal officials also sought to visualize the effect in St. Louis of a 60-megaton weapon, and the effect of four five-megaton weapons that were assumed to be guided missiles. Weapon sizes were selected arbitrarily and were not based on known existing weapons.

Hardaway pointed out that the type of bomb shelter contemplated in the federal report had not been constructed in St. Louis. Even if funds were available, he said, construction would take six to 10 years. Cost would be about $235 a person.

Under the circumstances, Hardaway said, evacuation is the only practical defense. He added: "The best solution is not to have a war."

TRUCK OVERTURNS, WORKER BURIED UNDER LOAD OF ROCK

Forest Fults, laborer, 689 River drive, Valley Park, escaped serious injury yesterday when he was buried under a load of small rocks which fell from a truck on a construction project at O'Dell avenue and South Kingshighway. Fults was treated at City Hospital for multiple abrasions and released.

The accident occurred when Ezell Blanchard, Negro, 916 North Elm avenue, Webster Groves, backed the truck up a ramp, which broke. The truck turned on its side and spilled the load of rocks on Fults.

Fults's entire body was covered except for one arm. Police said that workmen uncovered Fults's head in about 45 seconds and wthin about five minutes had freed him.

SAVINGS, LOAN FIRM ROBBED FOURTH TIME

Holdup Man Recognized as Same in Earlier Robbery.

The Roosevelt Federal Savings & Loan Association's north side office at 2132 East Grand boulevard was robbed yesterday for the fourth time in less than a year. On each occasion, Miss Sally Holliday, cashier, was present.

In yesterday's holdup, she was ordered by the robber to hand over $645. She recognized him as the man who took about $700 from her in a robbery last Nov. 12.

"You know what I want," the robber said, indicating he was holding a pistol in his pocket. After taking the money, he ordered Miss Holliday and another employe, Miss Norma Kuenkler, to go into a rear room and said: "Don't come out so fast this time."

He then fled on foot. In other holdups at the branch office, $792 was taken last Oct. 8 and $3000 last June 19. In one robbery, Miss Holliday, 23 years old, 104 Glen Garry road, Riverview, was shot with an air pistol.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said the robber had three finger tips on his right hand bandaged individually with adhesive tape. He had a thin-line moustache of recent growth and wore gray trousers, a gray jacket and a cap like those worn by chauffeurs. In the previous robbery, he escaped in a late-model white and blue automobile.

MARVIN MARSHALL CHARGED WITH TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS

Marvin Marshall, a former assistant circuit attorney, was charged by University City police today with careless and reckless driving, resisting arrest and blocking traffic in a complaint issued by Police Judge Thomas R. McGinnis of University City.

Marshall, 3733 Lindell boulevard, was arrested by St. Louis police at the request of University City police, who said they saw him speed through a stop sign at Midland and Olive boulevards about 10:15 o'clock last night.

In the complaint, they said they stopped Marshall's machine but that he refused to pull off the road, refused to accept an arrest notice and drove away. A hearing on the charges was set for June 8.

FOUND HANGED IN HIS GARAGE

Frank Badolato Sr. was found hanged yesterday in the garage at his home, 2816 Belt avenue.

A son, Frank Badolato Jr., said his father had been unemployed for six months and had become despondent. Badolato was formerly a foreman for the Viviano Macaroni Co., which was sold last September. He was 60 years old.

MERGER OF CITY, COUNTY CALLED IMPRACTICAL

Co-Director of Metropolitan Survey Says Move Would Not Be Desirable.

Complete merger of St. Louis and St. Louis county would not be either "realistic or practical," Paul G. Steinbicker, co-dircetor of the Metropolitan St. Louis Survey, which is studying problems of governmental co-ordination in the metropolitan area, said today.

Addressing the annual luncheon meeting of the St. Louis division of the Missouri Association for Social Welfare, he said "Merger would be a simple recommendation but not a desirable one." About 100 persons attended the meeting, held at Bishop Tuttle Memorial, 1210 Locust street.

"If people ask whether we are in favor of merger," Steinbicker, who is director of the department of Government at St. Louis University, asserted, "we must say, 'No.'

"Many cities in the county have a right to exist. They should not be swallowed up in a large government. Undoubtedly we will make recommendations for city-county co-ordination, but they may call for creation of some kind of district agency to handle metropolitan functions."

Steinbicker reported that the survey organization may delay announcing recommendations for governmental co-ordination in the metropolitan area until after the election on the proposed new city charter, which the Board of Aldermen yesterday set for Aug. 6.

Previous goal for recommendations had been late in July. Only report made by the group so far was a preliminary factual study issued last Feb. 16. That report said the St. Louis area was falling behind competing metropolitan centers and blamed a jumble of local governmental units with helping to obstruct provision of essential, area-wide services.

Steinbicker said an attitude survey in which more than 2000 city and county residents were questioned showed "traffic is the Number One gripe." He suggested traffic control might be assigned to a district agency if one is proposed.

"One of the most common complaints found about the city," he continued, "was that government is too far removed from the people."

Results of the sampling are being tabulated now and should be announced within a month, he stated.

Steinbicker said he expects recommendations will be made "defining, developing and refining" the role of the state in the metropolitan St. Louis area. Other fields in which proposals probably will be made, he said, concern relations between the city and county and governmental operations within each area.

The metropolitan study, financed by a grant of $300,000 from the Ford Foundation and McDonnell Aircraft Corp., was started last May. It is studying economic, sociological and political aspects of governmental co-ordination on a metropolitan basis.

U.S. Dollar Down in Canada.

MONTREAL, May 28 (AP)—The United States dollar was worth only 95 11-32 cents in Montreal bank quotations yesterday. The discount of about 4⅔ per cent was a record in local foreign exchange dealings. The previous record was 4⅝ last Friday. Before that the widest discount was 4½ per cent Nov. 16, 1953.

OZARK HIGHWAY CHANGES UNDER STUDY BY STATE

Bill Establishing Route Taken Under Advisement by Aldermanic Committee.

The controversial bill to establish a route for the proposed Ozark Expressway was taken under advisement by the aldermanic traffic committee today after the committee was told the State Highway Department was giving study to the feasibility of proposals for changes in the route.

Alderman James Geisler (Dem.), Tenth Ward, an opponent of the measure, which was allowed to die in two previous sessions by the streets and sewers committee, exhibited a letter he received from Rex M. Whitton, chief engineer of the State Highway Department.

Geisler had accompanied Whitton, Myer Ableman, urban area engineer for the highway department, Alderman Fred Haag (Rep.), Twelfth ward, and representatives of various civic and business organizations on a tour of the proposed route. A number of changes were proposed to the department officials by Geisler and others.

Dated last Saturday, the letter assured Geisler that "in the process of our field surveys we will investigate possible relocations, comparisons of cost and traffic service to determine if any changes are feasible." Whitton said that if the changes weer found to be feasible, they would be recommended to the highway commission and the United States Bureau of Public Roads.

However, Whitton added, "please don't construe any of the foregoing that we will recommend a change in our presently proposed location unless our detailed study of possible changes reveal the likelihood of saving homes and extending comparable service without introducing undesirable curvature or considerably increasing construction costs."

After hearing Ableman describe the route, the committee went into executive session. At the conclusion of the meeting Chairman A. J. Cervantes reported only that the bill had been taken under advisement.

Aldermanic Board President Donald Gunn sent the bill this session to the traffic committee rather than to the streets and sewers committee, which had killed it in previous sessions. Geisler, a member of the streets committee, tried yesterday to have the bill sent to his committee, but Gunn ruled his motion to that effect was out of order. The aldermen sustained Gunn's ruling, 22 to 7.

Specialists Give Tips on Police Handling of Racial Problems

Visitors Say Authorities Should Open Lines of Sympathetic Communications With Minority Groups.

Crises resulting from interracial tensions can be overcome if police departments develop programs to open lines of sympathetic communication with minority groups, three visiting police specialists on human relations agreed here tdday.

The specialists, who objected to being called "experts," were Robert Mangum, deputy police commissioner of New York City; Robert H. Scott, in charge of the youth division of the Lansing (Mich.) Department of Correction, and George Schermer, executive director of the Philadelphia Commission on Human Relations.

Mangum, a Negro who has degrees in sociology, law and public administration from three New York universities, said the New York police department overcame many of its difficulties with the Puerto Rican community there by assigning an understanding captain to the district in which most of the Puerto Ricans lived.

"The captain previously assigned to that district made no effort to understand them," Mangum said. "He did not speak Spanish and dismissed their language as 'gibberish.' He was a good policeman but was not the right man for that district."

Of Swedish Ancestry.

Mangum said the department found a captain, of Swedish ancestry, who had become personally interested in the Puerto Rican problem. The captain was assigned to the district. He met with Puerto Rican leaders, listened to complaints of "police brutality," counseled his own men on dealing with the problem, and soon had matters under control.

The new captain eventually arranged for Puerto Rican representation in the conduct of community affairs.

It is vital that police know the programs and characteristics of organizations such as the community council, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Urban League, the American Jewish Congress and parent-teacher groups, Mangum said.

New York police barely averted a full-scale riot involving a small Moslem group, he said, because nobody in the department was aware of the group and what was causing its difficulties in the community.

'Holding Up a Mirror.'

Speaking of problems of his own race, Mangum said: "There are good and valid reasons why many members of my race become involved in crime. But instead of citing these reasons I think it is high time our leaders begin holding up a mirror in which Negroes can see themselves and take action to improve themselves."

Schermer said the human relations problem is a "many-sided thing" which becomes more complicated as police departments get into it. He said one phase of this relationship, the handling of potential juvenile offenders, should be tackled with co-operation of the schools.

All police should be indoctrinated in human relations problems, he said, rather than establishing a specialized department to deal with it. Human relations experts should only be called on to outline policies and programs.

Scott said the police problem is to "bridge the islands" separating people who now understand little about each other. This can be done, he said, by opening up communications so people begin talking each other's language and by attacking tangible projects or problems, eliminating the vacuum.

Cites Michigan Project.

One project working successfully in Michigan, he said, is an after-school classroom program for juvenile probationers. Vocations are taught and the employability of the potential criminal is increased, thereby eliminating one of the chief causes of crime.

Mangum, Scott and Schermer yesterday addressed a meeting of high-ranking police officers and members of the St. Louis police-community relations committee in the police academy. Prof. O. W. Wilson of the University of California of Berkeley, a noted criminologist, also was at the meeting. He has been observing operation of the department in several visits here.

The visitors met today at the police board room with ranking members of the department, captains of three districts in which the police-community relations committee is operating and Robert Mack, a representative of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

At the meeting were H. Sam Priest, president of the police board; Chief of Police Jeremiah O'Connell; Assistant Chief Joseph Casey and Chief of Detectives James Chapman. The visiting specialists were scheduled to leave St. Louis later today. They will draw up recommendations to improve operations of the police-community relations committee at a later date.

St. Louisan Elected.

Herman Cronheim, 6227 Rosebury avenue, was elected treasurer of District No. 2, B'nai B'rith at the convention of the organization yesterday in Louisville. More than 500 delegates attended the sessions, which end today.

SOME AFFTON SCHOOL BUS DRIVERS STRIKE

Janitors Also Walk Out in Demand for Union Recognition.

Some drivers and janitors employed by the Affton public schools in south St. Louis county went on strike today, causing delays in transporting some pupils to classes this morning.

Picket lines were placed at the district's five schools, at a new school under construction and at a lot where school busses are parked in an effort to enforce a demand for a wage increase and recognition of the Building Service Employes Union as bargaining agent for the employes.

Because of the picketing, union construction men refused to work on two school buildings in the Affton district. Construction was halted on a new school at Valcour avenue and Weber road, and on an addition to Reavis Elementary School, 9700 Mackenzie road.

School Superintendent Charles J. Mesnier said supervisory personnel and others who did not join the strike were used to operate five busses this morning. Normally seven busses are used to transport 1600 of the district's 3200 pupils to and from school.

Mesnier said delays in getting pupils to school were minimized by the fact that many parents brought their children in family automobiles.

He said "about seven" of the 24 bus drivers, janitors and maintenance men employed by the schools remained on the job this morning. A spokesman for the employes said 19 drivers and custodial workers were on strike.

A representative of the strikers said the group asked that wages, which now range from $240 to $285 a month be increased to $300 to $325; the present 49-hour work week to be cut to 40 hours, and that vacation privileges be liberalized. He said the union received no response from the school district, although three requests were made.

Mesnier said the district planned to dismiss seven bus drivers and replace them with part-time employes next fall. He said the proposed move resulted from increasing expenses and objections by other unions to use of the drivers on maintenance work during summer vacations.

The school term will end Friday.

committee, would produce about $3,000,000 in revenue annually. 000,000?" Harris interjected.

Poelker stated: "Well, you've got a committee. I suggest you give this matter to your committee."

Poelker earlier had pointed out that the aldermen's failure to vote adequate revenue to meet the budget would have the immediate effect of preventing the city from employing temporary personnel for recreational purposes and additional hospital help.

"I am forced by law to be discreet in my interpretation of the resolution you have already passed," he said. "Today's resolution was for additional expenditures covering supplies and materials."

Some Ideas Discarded.

The comptroller said the Board of Estimate, in considering ways of getting additional revenue, talked about a charge for rubbish collection and the possibility of increasing levies against merchants and manufacturers, but discarded these ideas.

Poelker was asked about the feasibility of a suggestion that the aldermen pass an appropriation for a six-month or three-month period only, pending a search for new revenue. The Comptroller replied that he was not qualified to give a legal opinion on such a partial appropriation.

"In any event," he said, "such a budget would have to be on the basis of anticipated revenue. If there was an appropriation for half the year, the responsibility would remain of voting the necessary taxes later."

He agreed with Gunn's observation that a half-year budget would have to be based on one-half of anticipated revenue for the year. Hence, the amount of such a budget would be limited to one-half of $54,000,000 and not one-half of $59,635,000.

Gunn was authorized yesterday to appoint a citizens' committee to study the city's tax structure and make revenue proposals to take the place of the proposed 14-cent increase in the rate on real and personal property which the board defeated yesterday.

Gunn said he had not thought out fully the size of such a committee or who should be appointed to it. Such a committee would require time for its deliberations and meanwhile the city must have appropriations with which to operate the various departments.

Mayor Warns of Vetoes.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker has said he would veto any appropriation bills that were not accompanied by sufficient tax measures to finance the appropriations.

The board met again today and will continue to meet daily until the appropriation and tax measures are finally passed. When the board killed the property tax proposal yesterday, it also voted to sustain the Mayor's veto of another measure that would have doubled the 5 per cent tax on the gross receipts of public utilities.

Thus the deadlock between the city administration and the aldermen on the city's financial crisis continued, with cuts in city services and dismissal of hundreds of city employes considered imminent.

Since yesterday was the deadline under the city charter for passage of a property tax, any increase in revenue to meet the city's 1957-58 budget must come from taxes of other kinds.

Tucker's Comment.

Mayor Tucker said in a statement following Monday's session that the board's failure to act on the property tax measure had "magnified and complicated the city's financial crisis.

"If the board favors the appropriation bill submitted by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment it must initiate a new, or additional, tax sufficient to produce $1,928,000, which the proposed property tax rate would have raised.

"In addition, of course, the board must approve the proposed increase in gasoline and cigarette taxes, or substitute measures which will produce an equal amount of revenue.

"Though difficult, the board's duty is still clear. It must either find legal, feasible and equitable tax sources to meet the proposed budget, or it must cut the budget. The method by which it arrives at these conclusions is clearly the board's responsibility."

Alderman Raymond Leisure, Seventh Ward Democrat, offered a resolution to sell Columbia Bottoms, for which the city paid $1,800,000 several years ago for a proposed second major airport. The resolution called for the sale price of the land to be given to the City Treasurer for general revenue "in meeting the city's obligations."

Leisure agreed to table the resolution after fellow members of the board pointed out that money obtained from the sale of Columbia Bottoms would by law revert to the Airport Commission.

EISENHOWERS TO STAY IN CAPITAL FOR WEEKEND

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower plans to spend the long Memorial day weekend at the White House, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty announced today.

Hagerty had said earlier that the President and his wife probably would go to their farm at Gettysburg, Pa., on Thursday, Memorial day, and remain until Sunday afternoon.

However, he said today the Eisenhowers had decided against visiting the farm and would remain in Washington. Asked about the reason for that decision, Hagerty simply replied, "No reason."

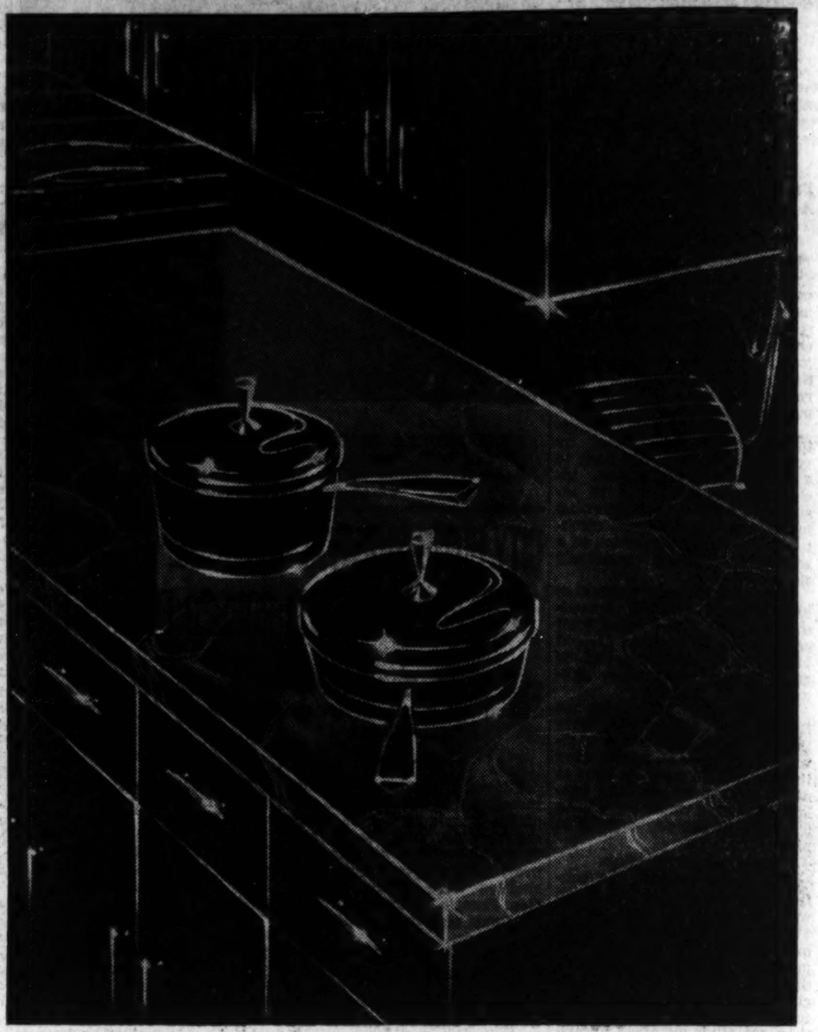
AMAZING ELECTRONIC FREEZER-COOKER

You'll press a few buttons a short time before you want dinner . . . the frozen meat and vegetables will be automatically removed from their individual drawers (left) and conveyed to the electronic cooking unit (right), where each will be cooked to its exact requirements, and then delivered from the oven . . . ready for your table. This remarkable device is already in existence and operating experimentally—many of its ideas will be in your electric range of the future.



COOKING ON MARBLE

Today's electric ranges and ovens in the wall may someday be replaced by a marble counter top that roasts the meat or bakes a pie. After a moment, it will become cool enough to touch and use as a counter or table. There'll be no electric mechanism visible to your eye, in this magical new way to cook.

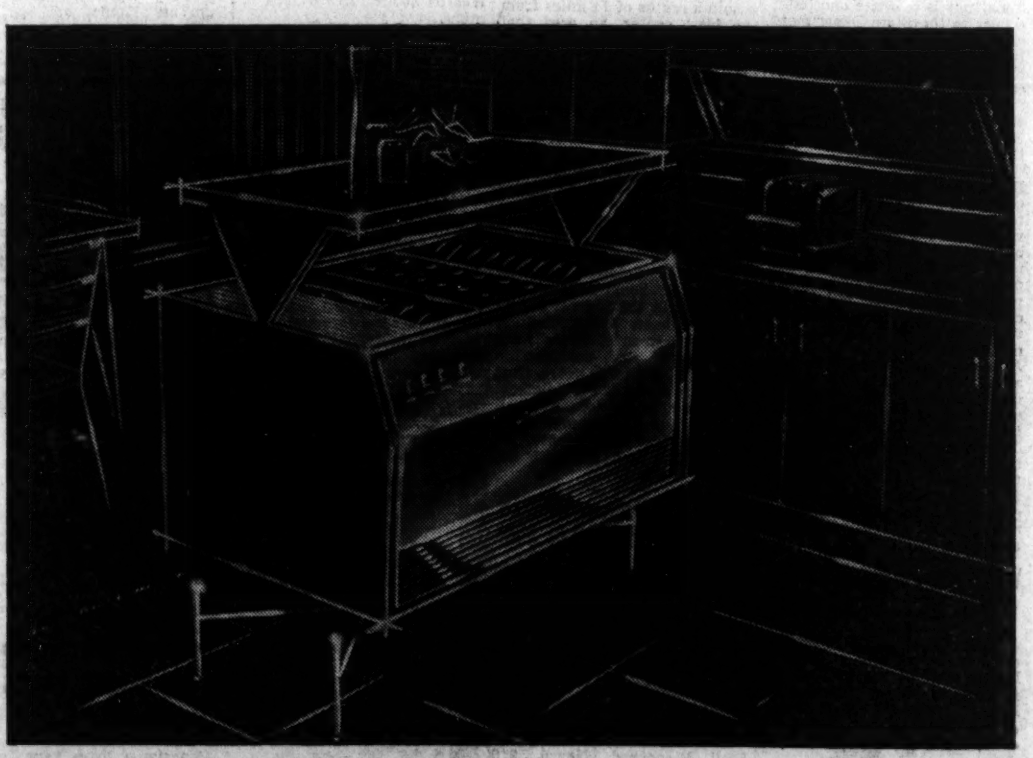
"Dream of the future" electrical appliances . . . you may be enjoying in the next 5 years

Sooner than you think, you'll be able to have all these "dream" electric appliances, and lots of others, too. Even as today's electrical wonders give you "world of tomorrow" living, even more amazing developments are being made ready.

For every use of electricity that exists now, at least two more are in sight to give you convenience as yet undreamed of. So isn't it apparent that living electrically is going to be even more pleasant and exciting in the future?

LIGHT-GIVING WALLS IN YOUR HOME

Self-lighting walls have been produced experimentally, and are installed in a few places today. The entire wall or ceiling is made of panels which glow with soft, luminescent light of any desired intensity, in colors warm or cool, gay or soothing.



DISHWASHING BY SOUND WAVES

The sonic dishwasher, now on the drawing board, will wash dishes cleaner than soap and water. It will use high-frequency sound, inaudible to the human ear, to set up powerful vibrations which will loosen and clean away all particles of food—and even germs themselves.

Adenauer

Adenauer in reaffirming that the ending of the present division of Germany "is a major objective of the foreign policies of the two governments."

"Germany must be reunited on a free and democratic basis by peaceful means," the announcement said.

"If the Soviet rulers really desire peace and relaxation of international tensions they can give no better proof than to permit the reunification of Germany through free elections."

The two leaders assured Russia that a unified Germany would be no threat to Soviet security.

On his part, Adenauer promised to proceed as rapidly as possible with West Germany's military build-up to its agreed contribution to the collective North Atlantic defense system.

U.S. Forces to Remain.

The United States renewed its intention of maintaining American forces in Europe, including Germany, "as long as the threat to the area exists."

Before his farewell conference with Mr. Eisenhower, Adenauer held a third formal session with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

The communique said all means, including "the most modern weapons of defense," must be available to the Atlantic pact allies to meet any attack which might be launched against them. This obviously referred to atomic weapons if deemed necessary to protect the North Atlantic area.

Meanwhile, Adenauer received a warm ovation from both members and visitors in successive appearances before the House of Representatives and Senate.

He told the Senate that West Germany's "alliance with the free world has become truly unbreakable."

Germany, he said, has rejected totalitarianism and dedicated itself to "freedom, peace and unity."

Adenauer said "only the establishment of an all-German government would permit the conclusion of a peace treaty" and added: "This would endow Europe with that just and enduring political order which today—12 years after the war—is still denied to it."

Address to House.

In his address to the House, Adenauer said his government follows with "acute attention and sympathy" United States efforts to achieve controlled disarmament.

He declared:

"In our strenuous efforts to make our contribution to the military strength of the alliance, we, too, have nothing else in mind but the defense of our liberty.

"On my word before God, nobody in Germany plays with the idea of using force or war, and this includes the use of force in the question of German reunification which we desire so ardently."

Adenauer arranged to call tomorrow at the Atomic Energy Commission to discuss tactical weapons problems with Commissioner Lewis Strauss.

A call on Civil Defense Chief Val Peterson also was fitted in to his last day so he could learn of the newest American planning to protect civilian populations in the event of atomic-hydrogen attack.

Before leaving Wedensday afternoon, Adenauer was to pay his usual visit to the National Art Gallery. In his four previous trips to the United States, Adenauer has always found time for this visit.

State Funds

ing to get them together so the bills can be passed before the session officially ends.

"This is a very, very serious matter," he said, "but I think somehow or other they will get together."

Graham hotly denied he had backed out of the agreement. On the floor of the House today, shortly after the session opened, he said:

"I have been charged with breaking an agreement with the Governor of this state, the Speaker of the House and the president pro tem of the Senate.

"One thing I have learned—when you are supporting one side of a question, do not go into conference with members of the other side unless you have someone to back you up.

"I did agree at a meeting yesterday to a conference, but I said I would ask that the conferees be instructed. When I came back into the House, I talked to several of you and I was advised that the motion (for a conference) should be double-barreled. That is what I did.

"If this is running out on an agreement, I shall have to plead guilty. But I did not agree to give a conference unless the conferees were instructed.

"I understand the Governor made a personal attack on me at his press conference. Is it arrogant to want this House, an equal body in my opinion with the Senate, to have something to say about appropriation matters? Is it ambition to want Missouri to have the pest possible government?

"If so I must plead guilty of both.

"There is no such thing as a free and open conference. This practice was not started in Missouri until 1949, when Senator (John W.) Noble (Dem.), Kennett, became chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee. I would suggest the Senate check the meaning of the word conference. They will find the definition is as was proposed in our action yesterday.

"If we are to bow to the Senate now we might as well forget appropriation committees. All I ask is that the Senate recognize we are a part of this government. If the Senate will not go along, I am in favor of passing these appropriation bills as the Senate amended them and let Senator Noble and his committee answer for cutting $6,000,000 from state hospitals and $1,500,000 from the state's schools."

When Graham concluded, a burst of prolonged applause from both Republicans and Democrats followed.

The House has been demanding a conference limited to consideration of the $13,770,000 in Senate cuts in House-approved allotments. The Senate has insisted on an unrestricted "free and open" conference, a system under which the joint committee can increase or reduce any item in the appropriation bills.

The issue came before the House again yesterday when Representative Joseph W. Martino (Dem.), St. Louis, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, made a motion that the House request the Senate to grant a "conference" on the disputed budget measures.

The motion left out the objectionable words "free and open." It would have authorized an unrestricted conference, however, because it placed no limitation on the powers of the committee.

Graham offered a substitute motion, under which the House members of the joint committee would have had only limited powers to act.

After extended debate, the House approved Graham's substitute 118 to 15 and ordered the plan sent to the Senate. All of this accomplished nothing, since the proposal was promptly rejected by Senate leaders.

Senator Floyd R. Gibson (Dem.), Independence, president pro tem of the Senate, declared the new House proposal was "completely unacceptable." He said the Senate would not accept it because it placed a restriction on the committee, in violation of the open conference system used for a number of years in the Legislature.

Senator John W. Noble (Dem.), Kennett, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, also opposed the Graham proposal, charging it would hamper efforts to bring expenditures into proper balance. He said it is necessary sometimes to increase some allotments and pointed out others would have to be cut to balance the budget.

The House was not told that the original motion made by Martino had been worked out shortly before the session began at a conference of House and Senate leaders, attended by Gov. Blair, in the office of Speaker Roy Hamlin.

Attending that meeting, in addition to the Governor, were Hamlin, Senator Gibson and Representative Graham. Gov. Blair and Gibson said Graham agreed to go along with the request for a simple conference. Gibson charged that Graham violated his pledge by offering the substitute motion.

Gov. Blair stood on the floor of the House, at the rear of the hall, as the House debated Graham's motion. When it had been passed, Blair remarked: "Looks like they want a special session."

Members of both houses returned to work ahead of schedule yesterday, the Senate and House recessed last Thursday until tomorrow, but the members returned earlier at the Governor's request.

The House corrected its journal to show that it recessed to Monday, instead of Wednesday. But the Senate did not meet, and will not hold a formal session until tomorrow. Senator Gibson said he does not think the Senate has any authority to do otherwise.

ter was not addressed to the criteria by which ODM must reach its decisions on tax write-offs. He said he accepted the department's advice that was directed to the pertinent criteria, in October 1955.

Grays Makes Three Points.

Gray made three points with respect to Seaton's objections:

1. Financial need is not a criterion.
2. The letter relied on 1953 testimony.
3. The excess power criterion was met.

The certificates were granted by Gray April 17, after the Supreme Court on April 1 cleared away the last legal obstacles. The Supreme Court ruled similarly again yesterday. Brownlee was certified for 65 per cent of its estimated cost of $67,138,240 and Oxbow for 60 per cent of its estimated $35,943,730 cost. The certificates permit the company to depreciate the property for tax purposes over a period of five years rather than a normal longer period. This results in a temporary loss to the Government.

Kefauver commented that it was "a strange thing" that ODM would go ahead in view of the Seaton position. In reply to a question by Kefauver, Wycoff, who was sitting at the long table near Gray, said this was the only such action by Seaton that he knew of.

Kefauver asked Gray whether he had gone any further with Seaton, and Gray responded that was getting into the field of relationships among officers of the executive branch of the Government and that he was not prepared to discuss it.

In a hearing by the Kefauver subcommittee a week ago Gray claimed "executive privilege" several times in declining to discuss his dealings with Sherman Adams, the assistant to the President, and other members of the White House staff on the Idaho power write-off.

Schnurr climbed to the flying bridge and succeeded in calming Henderson who apparently revolted against what he thought was "too stiff a sentence."

Later Father Schnurr was joined by Lt. J. G. Vern D. Jeffors, the second chaplain, and finally by the youth's mother. When Henderson finally gave in and climbed down from his perch he was hustled off to confinement.

TRUCK DRIVER GETS NEW CHANCE AT $64,000 ON TV

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—Al Einfrank, a truck driver who lost both $64,000 and his faith in people on a quiz show early this year, is getting another chance at the $64,000.

Einfrank is a $60-a-week truck driver in Los Angeles and a self-made expert on geography. Appearing on the "$64,000 Question" program, he got up to $32,000, gambled on the big question and lost.

That, he said afterward, brought upon his head a torrent of abuse from his relatives, who thought he ought to have taken the $32,000. For a while, he said, he thought his wife had deserted him as well.

However, it turned out that his wife had to remain with a daughter in Maryland longer than expected because of illness in the family there. Anyway, they have been reunited and now the 57-year-old husband is going on the "$64,000 Challenge" show.

3 HOUSES 111 YEARS OLD TO BE RAZED FOR HIGHWAY

Three houses that are 111 years old and a fourth that is 77 years old, all in the 900 block of Brooklyn street, are being razed to make way for the Mark Twain Highway, Dr. William G. Swekosky, a dentist whose hobby is the study of old buildings, reported today.

The property on which the two- and three-story brick houses are situated was originally owned by Charles Collins, who bought the land in 1845. The tract was adjacent to the Great Indian Mound, for which the city was nicknamed, Dr. Swekosky said.

The houses at 925, 929 and 931 Brooklyn were built in 1846. Original owners were a steamboat inspector, a ship carpenter and a school teacher and her husband, Dr. Swekosky reported. The house at 927 Brooklyn was erected in 1880 by a tavern operator.

GROSS U.S. PUBLIC AND PRIVATE DEBT $803,000,000,000

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—The American people at the end of last year owed a total of 803 billion dollars in gross private and public debt.

This Government - supplied figure, a record high, was announced yesterday. It averages out to about $4700 for every man, woman and child in the country.

The net public and private debt was figured to be 684 billion dollars, also a new high. It represents about $4000 per capita.

The gross debt includes money, which in effect, the Government owes itself. It would include, for instance, the 19 billion dollars in the Social Security trust fund. The Government uses such funds to pay its operating expenses, and borrows elsewhere to pay back the funds if and when necessary.

The gross debt also includes sums which subsidiary companies may owe to their parent corporations. These figures are not included in the net debt.

WOMAN IN GRADUATION AUDIENCE COLLAPSES, DIES

Firemen administered oxygen but Mrs. Burns, 63-year-old widow, was dead on arrival at De Paul Hospital. She felt ill and had gone to a washroom, where she collapsed.

CUT IN AIR RESCUE SERVICE

LONDON, May 28 (AP)—The United States Air Force announced today it is cutting its air rescue service in Britain by about 170 men.

The announcement said the action was part of a general reduction throughout the world which will reduce total "troop strength of the air rescue service from approximately 4500 men to about 2500."

2 PLEAD GUILTY OF $40,000 MOUND CITY BANK HOLDUP

Robert Ferrise and Arthur E. Kerner, both of St. Paul, Minn., pleaded guilty today to five charges growing out of the $40,000 robbery a week ago at the First State Bank of Mounds at Mound City, Ill.

United States District Judge William G. Juergens in East St. Louis set June 11 as the date for sentencing. In explaining the charges, Judge Juergents mistakenly said the maximum penalty on one charge was 20 years' imprisonment, instead of 25.

The error was discovered after Ferrise and Kerner had left the courtroom and had been taken back to St. Louis city jail. They were returned to the courtroom and re-entered their guilty pleas after the error was corrected. Ferrise and Kerner were caught when they tried to escape by boat across the Ohio river.

GEESE FRIGHTENED BY WATER

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP)—When it finally rained hard here, it was to much for a flock of 38 geese at the Chilocco Indian School.

The fowl were accustomed to the drouth-stricken lake-bed which had been dry. When it began up with water, the geese ran for the dry bank.

PACT SAID TO PUT HUNGARIAN CURB ON SOVIET UNITS

LONDON, May 28 (AP)—The Moscow radio said today Soviet troop movements outside their bases in Hungary would be carried out only with the approval of Hungarian authorities under a new agreement signed yesterday in Budapest.

The treaty also was said to provide that "Hungarian courts will deal with crimes committed by Soviet troops or members of their families."

The number of troops and the places where they will be stationed will be determined on the basis of "special agreements," the broadcast added.

Neither Moscow radio nor an announcement in Budapest gave the strength of Soviet forces in Hungary, which crushed last fall's anti-Russian revolt. They now are believed to total perhaps 150,000 men.

"The agreement stresses the temporary character of the presence of Soviet troops on the territory of Hungary," Moscow radio said, "also that this circumstance in no way infringes on the sovereignty of the Hungarian state and that Soviet troops do not interfere in the internal affairs of Hungary."

It said a commission made up of three Russians and three Hungarians would deal with disputes.

The Soviet Union has signed similar treaties with Poland, Romania and East Germany in the last six months.

Repeating a standard Communist propaganda theme, Moscow said the Russian troops were necessary in Hungary "in the present international situation, when there is an aggressive North Atlantic bloc, when West Germany is being remilitarized and revenge-seeking forces in that country are becoming more and more active, when the U.S.A. and other members of the North Atlantic bloc are keeping numerous troops and military bases near socialist states. . . ."

The agreement was signed by Defense Minister Georgi K. Zhukov and Foreigni Minister Andrei A. Gromyko for the Soviet Union and Defense Minister Geza Revesz and Foreign Minister Imre Horvath for Hungary.

A Hungarian announcement said the talks were held in an "atmosphere of cordial friendship and mutual understanding."

Speaking at the customary reception after the signing, Zhukov said the development of guided missiles had nullified the importance of Western bases around the Communist world.

Zhukov continued that "it is childish to imagine that the imperialists have given up their aggressive designs . . ." but that Western bases "have lost their meaning with the appearance of guided missiles and other rockets of great destructive power, speed and accuracy."

In another address, Gromyko was quoted saying the Soviet Union is serious in its desire for world disarmament.

© New York Times News Service

BELGRADE, May 28—President Jos. (Tito) Broz redefined Yugoslavia's position between the East and West yesterday. He said he wanted good relations with both camps.

Friendship with the United States, Britain and France should not preclude raproachment with the Soviet Union, he said. Improvement of relations with his eastern neighbors should not weaken his ties to the West, he added.

"We do not wish to have hostile relations with the West, but we do not wish to quarrel with the East," the Yougoslav chief of state said at the dedication of a new hydro-electric project in Macedonia.

"The West should not reproach us for that as we (and the Soviet bloc) have the same aim: The building of socialism," he added.

Calling on Soviet leaders to show the same tolerance, Tito declared that "nobody in the East should reproach us" for enjoying good relations with the Western powers. He said Yugoslavia had encountered no "special difficulties" in its dealings with the West that would have threatened its socialist system.

It was the third time in a week that Tito had spoken hopefully of ending the quarrel between the Yugoslav leadership and the Kremlin that flared up anew after the Hungarian uprising last October.

Neither side's dogmatic insistence on its own interpretation of the October events would have lessened the misery of the Hungarian people, he said.

He expressed satisfaction with this turn of events, stressing that Yugoslavia had much in common with its eastern neighbors.

"They build socialism in their own way and we in ours," he said.

The acknowledged ideological differences between Belgrade and Moscow over the separate roads to Socialism were not reasons to quarrel, the Yugoslav chief said. He added that time would show who had been right.

He also renewed his appeal for the prohibition of atomic weapons and of nuclear tests. The policy of peaceful co-existence is the only alternative to mutual destruction, he declared.

JUDGES SET UP SUMMER-TERM ASSIGNMENTS

Summer-term assignments designed to reduce the backlog of civil and criminal cases were announced yesterday by the circuit judges in their general term session.

Innovations this summer will include a judge sitting full time in the equity division, another assigned full time to the court handling juvenile matters, and two weeks of criminal trials. All 18 judges will have summer-term assignments, an unusual procedure.

The divisions of criminal court will be open for trials for two weeks, starting July 29, with Judges David A. McMullan and William E. Buder presiding.

Assignments for the three weeks starting July 1 are as follows: Civil assignment division, Judge Waldo C. Mayfield; equity, Judge J. Casey Walsh; domestic relations, Michael J. Scott; domestic relations and juvenile, Franklin E. Reagan; criminal assignment, Theodore McMillan.

For the next three weeks assignments will be: Civil assignment, William K. Koerner; equity, James F. Nangle; domestic relations, John C. Casey; domestic relations and juvenile, O. P. Owen, and criminal assignment, Robert L. Aronson.

Starting Aug. 12, Judge John K. Regan will be in the civil assignment division; Judge James E. McLaughlin in equity; William K. Killoren in domestic relations; Judge David A. Murphy in domestic relations and juvenile, and Judge Ivan Lee Holt Jr. in criminal assignment.

For the fall term, circuit judges will be assigned to the divisions in which they are now sitting, with the exception of the following: Judge Casey to civil assignment division; Judge Reagan to Division 17; Judge Mayfield to domestic relations and juvenile, and Judge McMillan to Division 6.

Presiding Judge Reagan announced he has appointed a committee of five judges to study the problem of preserving records of circuit court. He said the committee will seek to determine what to do about relieving congestion in the file room of the Civil Courts building and how to preserve the records in event of an atomic attack.

ADMITS KILLING HIS FORMER GIRL FRIEND WITH HAMMER

REDWOOD CITY, Calif., May 28 (AP) — Clare Van Horne, 46 years old, of London, Ontario, walked into a San Francisco police station yesterday with blood on his hands and coat and admitted he had killed Mrs. Nancy McLennan, 27, with a hammer as she slept at the home of her mother in nearby Menlo Park.

"She was my girl friend up to four years ago in Canada but her mother objected and I got burned over it," he said. "We used to go together, but then she came out here . . . I sent letters and she didn't answer."

She went to Lake Tahoe with friends Saturday nad, on returning at 11 p.m. Sunday, refused to talk to Van Horne—going straight to her bedroom.

Bus and Train Collide.

KING, N.C., May 28 (AP)—A double-deck Greyhound bus carrying 35 passengers collided with a Southern railway train at a crossing near here yesterday. The bus driver and one passenger were injured.

Man-that Mansfield!

SHE'LL DO ANYTHING FOR PUBLICITY!

In the past few months alone, not only has Jayne Mansfield been the subject of some 1,300 newspaper pictures and 122,000 lines of newspaper copy — she's become increasingly known as the most amazing show-business phenomenon in history! Now, in this exclusive Saturday Evening Post article, you'll read the inside facts, both zany and startling, behind this not-so-dumb blonde's fantastic climb to fame!

- about the wild merry-go-round of stunts that make up her daily life, both public and private—including such madcap antics as walking a tiger down Sunset Boulevard and taking baths in pink champagne to give herself a "skin jag."
- what the girl behind the publicity is really like—including her hilarious, and often astute, comments about cheesecake posing, life in general, and what she claims men really want in a woman.
- how publicity man Jim Byron masterminded Jayne's meteoric rise from an unknown Hollywood extra to top star in three short years—with a glitter-by-glitter account of the ascent.
- why newspaper men adore her—and why they give her an easier time than they do many pinup girls, such as Marilyn Monroe.
- what seasoned Hollywood producers and directors have to say about her acting talent.
- why she feels it's vitally important to capture the hearts of every pop, mom, grandpa and even child in the country.

You won't want to miss this fascinating, behind-the-scenes look at show business's jazzed-up Jayne! Be sure to read "She Will Do Anything for Publicity" in this week's Saturday Evening Post.

NEW WARNING ON LIKELY CUTS IN MAIL SERVICE

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower signed a bill carrying $3,192,000,000 for the Post Office Department late yesterday, but warned that it was not enough to maintain service without substantial cuts.

He said he would ask that Congress supplement the sum, which is for the fiscal year beginning July 1. He said he wanted the people "to continue to receive the postal service to which they are entitled."

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield said $140,000,000 would be requested. Congress, now in an economy mood, cut Summerfield's previous request by $58,000,000.

Summerfield and his civilian advisory board met with Mr. Eisenhower just before the President issued his statement.

The board, which includes business, industrial and labor leaders, said five retrenchment steps will be needed if the post office is not voted more money by July 1:

1. Reducing the days of delivering mail. Summerfield said this probably would mean the elimination of all Saturday deliveries.
2. "Closing hundreds if not thousands of post offices."
3. "Arbitrarily reducing the volume and possibly the types of mail handled.
4. "Cutting back the long-overdue modernization of many obsolete facilities."
5. "Foregoing the mechanization needed to handle increasing mail volume."

President Rowland Jones Jr. of the American Retail Federation said that if volume is reduced "it seems clear" that third class mail—largely advertising matter—will bear the brunt. Jones is a member of Summerfield's board.

Mr. Eisenhower backed Summerfield and his board's position in these words:

"It is clear, in view of the rising volume of mail, that the appropriation for the Post Office Department will be insufficient unless postal services are to be substantially curtailed beginning July 1, 1957."

The board said Congress has cut the Post Office Department budget to a point where it "will have less money next year than it has for this year—and yet it must deliver approximately 2,500,000,000 more pieces of mail."

The appropriation bill providing for the Post Office Department also carried $691,467,000 for the Treasury Department and $1,460,000 for the tax court.

Asked whether Mr. Eisenhower's agreement with Summerfield and the advisory board amounted to a call on the American public for support, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen: "This is the first call by the President."

He added that Mr. Eisenhower would "wait and see" whether another call is necessary.

Meanwhile, Summerfield announced he intended to increase charges for many special postal services over which he has control. The changes, scheduled to become effective July 1, would yield about $28,000,000 a year additional revenue.

Although the additional revenue would reduce the estimated postal deficit of at least $651,000,000, the money could not be used by the Post Office Department, which can spend only what Congress appropriates.

The increases proposed by Summerfield would cover special delivery, money orders, registry of mail, insurance, C.O.D. service, certified mail charges, special handling of parcel post, and other similar fees. He invited comment, to be submitted by June 15, on the proposed increases.

COLUMBINE ON TEST FLIGHT

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 28 (UP)—President Eisenhower's plane, the Columbine, arrived at Mayport carrier basin near here yesterday on a "dry run" in preparation for the President's visit aboard the carrier Saratoga June 6.

The President is scheduled to board the 60,000-ton aircraft carrier for a brief cruise to observe the Navy in action. The Columbine's trip here, according to the Navy, was to familiarize the pilot with the approaches to the landing field at dockside.

NIXON AND NEGRO LEADER TO DISCUSS RACIAL MATTERS

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—Aids said that Vice President Nixon has arranged to discuss racial problems with the Rev. Martin Luther King, Montgomery (Ala.), Negro leader, on June 13.

King, who met Nixon on the latter's trip to Africa several months ago, wrote the Vice President asking for an appointment to talk over racial matters. He suggested several days, of which Nixon selected June 13 for a conference here.

MISS ELLEN BROOKS JOHNSON ESTATE VALUED AT $700,405

The estate of Miss Ellen Brooks Johnson, daughter of the late James Brooks Johnson, St. Louis investment banker, was valued at $700,405 in an inventory filed yesterday in probate court. Miss Johnson, who lived at 5475 Cabanne avenue, died Feb. 24 at the age of 80. She had been active in church and club work.

Principal assets in the estate were stocks valued at $609,122, bonds $67,471 and cash $20,504. Her will, filed earlier, left $8000 in specific bequests to six relatives and the residue in equal shares to a brother, James Chester Johnson of New York City, and two nieces, Mrs. Elizabeth Clarke Lofgren of Cochituate, Mass., and Mrs. Julia Clarke Burch of Osterville, Mass.

FOUR INJURED FIGHTING FIRE AT WAREHOUSE

Five alarms and two special requests for equipment were sent in within the half hour after the fire was discovered by a passerby at 10 p.m. There were 20 pumpers, five hook-and-ladder companies, five turret trucks, the rescue squad, police cars, ambulances and auixilliary vehicles at the scene.

Fire Chief Hugh Lyon and five battalion chiefs directed the firemen, who poured tons of water into the long, two-story freight house. A portion of the roof collapsed, releasing dense smoke from burning furniture and cases of groceries in the building. Firemen used power saws to cut through walls in an effort to reach the center of the blaze.

Traffic in Broadway, west of the fire, was diverted. A large crowd of spectators, many of whom came from a nearby public housing development, gathered at the scene.

Fireman Raymond Lang, Engine Co. 40, was struck on a leg by falling cases of groceries and suffered severe bruises. Other firemen treated at City Hospital were: Theron Enright, Engine Co. 16, puncture wound of the right foot; William Rone, Hook and Ladder No. 7, back injury; and Harold J. Bryan, Engine Co. 28, smoke inhalation.

Origin of the blaze, which started on the first floor, was not learned. The fire was not declared out until 4 a.m. Two pumpers remained at the scene, pumping water into the debris.

FIVE SCIENTISTS HERE IN MOVE TO BAR ATOM TESTS

Five Washington University scientists are among the 27 original signers of a petition now being circulated at 100 American universities and calling for an international agreement to halt the testing of nuclear bombs, it was learned today.

Linus C. Pauling, Nobel prize-winning chemist of the California Institute of Technology, wrote the statement in St. Louis May 15 when he was at Washington University to address the Eliot Honors Day assembly.

Included among the original signers, who formed a sponsoring group along with Pauling, were Laurence H. Snyder of the University of Oklahoma, president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and Hermann J. Muller of the University of Indiana, both geneticists. Muller won the Nobel award in 1946.

The Washington University singers are the following: Barry Commoner, professor of plant physiology; Edward U. Condon, professor of physics; Viktor Hamburger, professor of zoology; Martin D. Kamen, associate professor of radiochemistry, and Dr. Carl V. Moore, professor of medicine.

Circulated at Colleges.

Pauling circulated the statement, which is headed "An Appeal by American Scientists to the Governments and People of the World," among several hundred scientists at various universities, with the request that they ask colleagues to sign. He is expected to announce results on or about June 3 in California.

The petitions are worded as follows:

"We the American scientists whose names are signed below urge that an international agreement to stop the testing of nuclear bombs be made now.

"Each nuclear bomb test spreads an added burden of radioactive elements over every part of the world. Each added amount of radiation causes damage to the health of human beings all over the world and causes damage to the pool of human germ plasm, such as to lead to an increase in the number of seriously defective children that will be born in future generations.

"So long as these weapons are in the hands of only three powers, an agreement for their control is feasible. If testing continues, and the possession of these weapons spreads to additional governments, the danger of outbreak of a cataclysmic nuclear war through the reckless action of some irresponsible national leader will be greatly increased.

'Disarmament Step.'

"An international agreement to stop the testing of nuclear bombs now could serve as a first step toward a more general disarmament, and the ultimate effective abolition of nuclear weapons, averting the possibility of a nuclear war that would be a catastropehe to all humanity.

"We have in common with our fellow men a deep concern for the welfare of all human beings. As scientists we have knowledge of the dangers involved and therefore a special responsibility to make those dangers known. We deem it imperative that immediate action be taken to effect an international agreement to stop the testing of all nuclear weapons."

When Pauling was in St. Louis, he estimated that bomb tests held thus far would ultimately cause the deaths of 1,000,000 people and cause the birth of 200,000 seriously defective children in the next generation.

Signers of the petition are professional scientists acting as individuals rather than as members of any faculty group or organization, it was said here. Signatures will be sought at both Washington and St. Louis universities.

BILL SIGNED INCREASING RECORDER OF DEEDS' PAY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 28—The salary of the St. Louis recorder of deeds will be increased from $6750 to $12,500 a year under provisions of a bill signed yesterday by Gov. James T. Blair.

The measure will become effective Aug. 29, but will not affect the income of Recorder of Deeds Anthony J. Denny during his current term of office.

Another bill signed by Blair permits the St. Louis Board of Education to use federal census figures for enumeration purposes, instead of making its own count each year.

ROSSELLINI SAID TO HAVE DECIDED TO BE DISCREET

BOMBAY, May 28 (AP)—Roberto Rossellini and his Bengali script writer are reported to have decided not to live so close to each other.

Count Vittorio Lavison, the Italian consul, indicated Rossellini plans to be more discreet in his relations with Mrs. Sonali Das Gupta, whose kin have been raising a cry over the reported romance.

As a start, Lavison hinted, they will give up their adjoining quarters in Bombay's Taj Mahal Hotel. Lavison discounted reports the Italian producer, husband of actress Ingrid Bergman, has been given a week to get out of India.

Rossellini has gone to Poona to do some more documentary films for the Indian Government. He has repeatedly insisted he and Sonali have only a business arrangement and has denied reports he plans to divorce Miss Bergman, who is in Paris. Sonali, 28-year-old mother of two, left home nearly a month ago to be near Rossellini. She asserted she would never return to her husband, Hari Das Gupta, an Indian movie director.

FARMER SAVED FROM MINE

HARLAN, Ky., May 28 (AP)—A searching party yesterday rescued a farmer from an abandoned coal mine where he had been lost for 48 hours.

"Gee, it's good to see the sunlight again," said Cantrell Owens after he was brought to the surface. Owens said he entered the mine Saturday seeking scrap copper and lost his way.

PRESIDENT SAYS BUDGET DECISION IS DISAPPOINTING

WASHINGTON, May 28 (UP)—President Eisenhower told his party leaders in Congress today that he was disappointed by their decision to fight for restoration of only one fourth of what he considered a "crippling" $1,274,000,000 cut in his defense budget.

Republican leaders replied that they had to face "realities" of the economy drive and this was the best they could do in the House. They promised a stronger and more successful effort in the Senate to beat down attacks on his defense money requests.

The discussion was at a special White House conference.

Reported 'Not Happy.'

House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, reported after the meeting that Mr. Eisenhower was "not happy" with the Republican's goal of restoring about $350,000,000 of the Appropriations Committee's proposed $1,274,000,000 cut in defense funds for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Senator William F. Knowland of California, Republican leader in the Senate, said, "The hope of the Administration is that if the House can restore this amount, that growing out of this action the Senate can restore substantial additional amounts."

Knowland said he would urge the Senate to avoid defense budget cuts that endanger "the muscle of our strength in the armed forces," but despite the President's renewed plea for support, the Senate Republican leader said he reserved the right to see whether some public works items in the defense bill could be postponed.

'No Alternative.'

Martin added that while Mr. Eisenhower wanted the full House committee cut in defense funds restored, he had "no alternative but to rely on the judgment of the Republican leaders in the House."

Republican leaders asserted prospects were excellent that the House would approve most if not all the money-restoring amendments, but as the House prepared to start voting today, opponents of any more money—mostly Democrats—refused to concede a dollar would be restored.

Republican sources said the amendments had been drawn with the help of White House aids and cleared at a high level. They would add $350,000,000 to the $33,541,000,000 recommended by the House Appropriations Committee to run the Army, Navy and Air Force in the 12 months starting July 1.

The proposed increase was increased to $350,000,000 by addition of $21,500,000 proposed in an amendment to give the Air Force authority to contribute to the development of a new navigational system called "vortac" at 667 civil airports in the United States. This amount had been cut from the Commerce Department budget for the Civil Aeronautics Administration because it was calculated as a military share of the project.

The amount recommended was $2,566,000,000 less than the Chief Executive originally requested. About half the cut represents "paper work" which the President has indicated will not jeopardize defense, but he has urged that the rest must be restored.

Criticism by Cannon.

By the Associated Press.

Chairman Clarence Cannon (Dem.), Missouri of the Appropriations Committee told the House in the defense debate yesterday, "There's too much money in this bill and too much is being spent the wrong way."

The bill's allotment of $300,000,000 to build an atomic-powered aircraft carrier for the Navy, Cannon said, "is a most absurd proposition—it wouldn't be afloat two hours after war was declared."

The President was reported to have passed word to Cabinet members and other top Government officials to beat the drums at every opportunity for the Administration's $71,800,000,000 spending program.

"What's more," says a White House official, "you haven't seen anything yet."

Eisenhower aids were contending the Congress was beginning to take a second look—and that the budget-cutting tide had been stemmed at least for the time being.

At any rate, the campaign to halt big cuts has been discussed by the President at Cabinet meetings and it now is rolling on an Administration-wide scale, it was said.

Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates Jr. told Senators today the Navy will have to curtail its programs for new ships and aircraft if House committee cuts in its budget are allowed to stand.

"Any cutbacks of ships or aircraft will impair our future military readiness," Gates told the Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

He asked for restoration of money to convert a seaplane tender to handle large new seaplanes and to procure "all weather supersonic aircraft."

NLRB LOOKS INTO BOYCOTT CHARGE AGAINST TEAMSTERS

Investigation of charges by eight St. Louis paper firms that Teamsters Local 688 violated secondary boycott provisions of Federal labor laws was begun here yesterday by the local staff of the National Labor Relations Board.

The union, it was contended, has induced employes of trucking firms to refuse to handle material for the paper houses during the four-months strike. Since the trucking firms are not directly involved in the strike it is alleged the action constitutes a secondary boycott. Substantiation of the charges could result in the filing of a formal complaint by the NLRB.

It was announced yesterday by the NLRB that the Teamsters lost an election, held last Friday, for designation as bargaining agent for employes of the Central States Paper & Bag Co., 5221 Natural Bridge avenue. The vote, it was reported, was 142 against and 66 for affiliation with the Teamsters. Forty-three votes were challenged.

Reappointed as Regent.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 28—Newton Waple (Rep.), Kahoka, was reappointed today by Gov. James T. Blair as a member of the board of regents of the Northeast Missouri State Teachers College.

Actress Collected Scandal On Wrist Watch Recorder

FRANCESCA de SCAFFA

LOS ANGELES, May 28 (AP)—Actress Francesca de Scaffa used a hidden wrist watch recording device to help her collect information and tips on film stars for Confidential magazine, the county grand jury was told, it was revealed yesterday when a 142-page transcript of testimony became a public document.

It was springled with such names as Ava Gardner, Kirk Douglas, Kim Novak, Desi Arnaz, Herb Jeffries, Sonny Tufts, Lizabeth Scott, Mickey Rooney, Anita Ekberg and Marilyn Monroe.

Filed in superior court, the transcript of secret hearings which resulted in indictments of 11 person included testimony:

That Confidential publisher Robert Harrison bought a recording device disguised as a wrist watch so Miss De Scaffa could record conversations.

That the Venezuela-born actress, former wife of Actor Bruce Cabot, earned $30,000 to $40,000 for her tips.

That a Hollywood prostitute supplied other tips and stories.

That the magazine was primarily interested in the stars' sex lives.

Several Are Indicted.

The grand jury's investigation of so-called scandal magazines brought indictment of Miss De Scaffa, Harrison and:

Mrs. Marjorie Meade, Harrison's niece and head of a firm the indictment said fronted for Confidential in Hollywood; her husband, Fred Meade; Michael Tobias of New York, Mrs. Meade's brother and vice president of her firm; Mrs. Edith Tobias, Harrison's sister and mother of Michael Tobias; Mrs. Helen Studin, another Harrison sister; Dan Studin, her husband, Confidential's circulation manager; Confidential editor A. P. Govoni; Robert Kable, head of the firm that printed the magazine, and Richard Cox, Kable's sales manager.

All, along with various corporations, are charged with criminal libel.

The transcript showed that the two chief witnesses were Howard Rushmore, one-time Confidential editor, and Ronnie Quillan, self-described Hollywood call girl.

The transcript disclosed:

Rushmore testified he went to the magazine in 1953 to expose Communism in high places. Then, he said, Harrison sent him to Hollywood where he hired two persons at $175 a week to supply material, but it was only matter of public record. He said Harrison "bawled me out."

Met With Miss De Scaffa.

"You went out there and spent a lot of money . . . and you hired a couple of people writing stories the (New York) Daily News or New York Times would use. This is not the kind of dirt that makes money."

Later, Rushmore said, he met a number of times with Miss De Scaffa, now in Mexico City where she was reported to have attempted suicide twice since the indictment. He said he talked with Harrison about her.

"At first he was very impressed because Francesca, through her husband, Bruce Cabot, knew a lot of people in Hollywood and had access to their homes," Rushmore said.

"She told us, in my presence, that she could get in almost any home in Hollywood.

"It even went to the point that Harrison bought a tape recorder that was attached as a wrist watch, so she could record conversations. She supplied many, many statements and signed affidavits. . . ."

Actors Robert Mitchum and Errol Flynn and heiress Doris Duke filed damage suits—"three of the 30 stories she supplied"—and Harrison became "quite perturbed," Rushmore related, and:

"He expressed the rather belated belief that this woman might be irresponsible. . . ."

EXPLOSION IN HAVANA KNOCKS OUT POWER

HAVANA, May 28 (AP)—A violent underground explosion eight blocks from the national Capitol building knocked out Havana's electric power today and caused widespread damage. Three persons were injured.

A city official said anti-government saboteurs were responsible for the 3 a.m. blast which daamged an ancient conduit for gas and electric lines. The government has accused opposition elements of setting off similar explosions in Cuba's capital.

Eight hours later the capital still was without power, and full restoration was not expected for 48 hours. Morning newspapers failed to publish. Electrically run equipment was knocked out and many buildings were so badly damaged that theer were fears the structures might collapse. Preliminary estimates of damage to the power company's installations alone ran as high as $250,000.

The company's employes had been striking for three weeks, but had reached a settlement with management and resumed work Monday.

CREDIT MEN ELECT OFFICERS

P. J. Wilder of the Century Electric Co. was elected president of the St. Louis Association of Credit Men at a meeting of the group at Hotel Statler, it was announced today.

Other officers are J. A. Flood of Monsanto Chemical Co., first vice president, and N. I. Ottinger of Cook Paint & Varnish Co., second vice president. The following were elected to the board: R. W. Mautz, V. A. McCalley, J. A. McCracken, T. G. Senn and Joseph Vallero.

$6,000,000 USIA FUND RESTORED BY CONFEREES

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—The Administration won a minor victory yesterday when a Senate-House conference committee voted to restore $6,000,000 of a $15,900,000 cut made by the Senate in funds for the United States Information Agency.

The $96,200,000 compromise on which representatives of the two branches agreed was still $9,980,000 below the House allowance and $47,800,000 less than President Eisenhower originally sought.

The money is to operate the overseas information agency for the fiscal year starting July 1.

While Senate conferees reluctantly agreed to increase the USIA this amount, they agreed to cut funds they previously voted the State Department by $8,200,000, taking $3,200,000 from the educational exchange program and $5,000,000 from department salaries and expenses.

Totals $562,891,293.

Senator Lyndon Johnson (Dem.), Texas, chairman of the joint conference, said the bill as tentatively approved late yesterday carries a total of $562,891,293 for the State and Justice Departments and the judiciary as well as the USIA.

This was $194,000 less than the Senate voted, and the Senate bill was $714,000 under the House measure. Rarely does a conference committee on an appropriations bill come up with a compromise carrying less than either house voted. The compromise is $102,758,000 less than the amount the Administration requested.

Johnson said final action on the bill was left open until conferees can work out language on the future status of the USIA. Final figures as to the exact amounts allowed for each of the departments are still being worked out.

In the Senate yesterday, Senator J. W. Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas, denounced what he labeled as "self-serving declaration" by agency officials that USIA operations would be crippled by the Senate's fund cuts.

No Justification.

Asserting that the Senate had allowed more money for the agency than it has had in three of the last four years, Fulbright said USIA "gave no justification for maintaining its present appropriations much less increasing them." He said last week's riots in Formosa raised the question whether present USIA programs are effective.

Senator Albert Gore (Dem.), Tennessee jumped up to say that when he visited Formosa several months ago, United States Ambassador Karl Rankin told him that just as effective work could be done with half of the more than 4000 Americans he said were on the United States payroll in Formosa.

WRIT LIMITS PICKETS TO 3 AT SHOOTING SITE

GUNTERSVILLE, Ala., May 28 (AP)—Three pickets paced quietly today at the scene of the construction project where two men were killed and six wounded in a burst of gunfire yesterday.

A court injunction against the United Mine Workers, District 50, limited pickets to three at a time.

Workers who ignored the picket line last week and whose appearance yesterday precipitated the gun battle did not enter today. Some of them were wounded and others were among the group being questioned by authorities.

Sheriff L. P. Dickson said pickets and non-strikers told differing stories of the shooting. Each side accused the other of firing the first shots.

Gulf States Construction Co., the firm building the project where the shooting occurred, filed a $250,000 damage suit against the UMW. The building is a feed mill to be operated by the Cotton Producers Association.

The dead were 22-year-old John Leroy Ward of Parsons, Kan., a non-striker, and the Rev. William Clinton Harrison, 38, a minister without a regular church, who was one of the pickets.

Pickets contended Harrison was shot to death beside his truck in the first outbreak. Thirteen bullet holes were found in his truck.

Five persons are being held in Marshall county jail. Ed Bonner, a union organizer, has been charged with carrying a concealed weapon. The others are being held without charge pending investigation.

Most seriously wounded in the shooting at the plant was Russell William Smith, an official of the construction company.

Others hospitalized were Glenn Mathis of Parsons, Kan.; William Humphrey of Kiowa, Kan., superintendent of construction, and Thedore Leon Doyle, 28, of Greenville, Miss. Two others were less seriously hurt.

Some construction workers had been picketing since May 20. They were seeking recognition of the UMW as bargaining agent.

Dallas Does Not Wait, Plans And Develops Districts for Industry in Advance of Demand

Buys Up Tracts, Installs Utilities, Rail Spurs and Roads, Even Builds Plants Before Tenants Are Lined Up—Countrylike Atmosphere.

By HARRY WILENSKY
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(THIRD OF A SERIES.)

DALLAS, Tex., May 28.

THIS CITY doesn't wait for industry to come to town. Building in advance of demand, Dallas has developed industrial districts which serve as magnets attracting firms from all over the country.

Buying up large tracts of land, installing utilities and railroad spurs, paving streets—sometimes even erecting plants—before tenants are lined up calls for venture capital on a big scale. Dallas has the private capital, as well as the people to make bold use of it.

The planned industrial district is not a new approach, but Dallas has expanded the idea into a dynamic concept unequalled in any other city. It now has 17 districts comprising 5300 acres, and plans for still another development of 90 acres have just been announced.

These industrial communities are made up of manufacturing plants, warehouses, offices, display rooms. Some of the districts are industrial parks with landscaped grounds, buildings spaced far apart, expanses of green and a countrylike atmosphere, yet most of the developments are less than five miles from the downtown business section. The qualities designed to make working districts as pleasant as residential areas are maintained by strict regulation. Other districts, however, are less exacting in their requirements.

No Bad Odors, Noise

Airlawn, the first project started in the late 1930s, and Brook Hollow Industrial District, one of the newest, permit no parking on the streets. Every building site provides parking space for both customers and employes of the industry occupying it. Buildings are set back from the street, with loading docks kept away from the front. No garish signs are permitted. There is no storage of equipment or materials in the open. Plants that would produce offensive odors, smoke or noise are barred.

The streets are broad and constructed with heavy-duty paving. Principal thoroughfares are divided down the center to speed flow of traffic in one-way lanes. Intersections are wide to make it easy for trucks to maneuver. Water and gas lines are "looped" to provide a second source of supply if one ever fails.

Brook Hollow, a 1200-acre wheat field only three years ago, now has 110 buildings. Most of the industries there lease plants, but some buy land and put up their own buildings. Three St. Louis firms—A. S. Aloe, the George D. Barnard printing house and Brooks Paper Co. — have facilities in this district.

Virtually all of the buildings are one-story structures with flexible floor plans. The developers know all about the advantages of conducting industrial operations on a single floor.

A number of speculative buildings bear "for lease" signs. One offers 36,000 square feet; another, 28,000; a third, 13,000, and there are smaller structures. They are put up by real estate firms, contractors and others seeking a profitable investment, and they do not stay vacant long.

Blocks Speculators.

To prevent speculators from tying up land and leaving it undeveloped for years, Wilbur C. Windsor Jr., developer of Brook Hollow, insists on the right to repurchase a site at the original price if construction is not started within a specified number of months. The land, originally acquired at $200 an acre, now sells for considerably more than $13,000 an acre.

Brook Hollow has some distinctive touches. Appropriately, the project has a street named Dividend drive which is flanked by Profit drive on one side and Currency drive on the other. There is a private club for executives of the district and a cafeteria for employes of tenants.

The largest planned center is Trinity Industrial District, which has 1850 acres reclaimed from Trinity river wastelands. The story of this development goes back to 1908, when Dallas was hit by a major flood. The disaster led to employment of George A. Kessler, one of the pioneer city planners, who made a comprehensive study of what Dallas needed to grow and prosper.

One of Kessler's recommendations called for changing the course of the meandering river — dredging a new channel half a mile to the west and making the Trinity flow between two levees.

To carry out this project, property owners led by Leslie A. Stemmons organized a levee district and voted a $6,500,000 bond issue. It was not until 1932 that the levees were completed. Income from sale of reclaimed acres was to retire the bonds, but in the depths of the depression there was no demand for land, and the bonds were defaulted.

Carried on By Sons

For years the land along the old river bed lay idle, but despite the pressing need for income Stemmons held out against indiscriminate leasing. He refused to let property go for beer parlors, dance halls, automobile wrecking yards and other uses that would have cheapened the area. He died in 1939 before his dream could be realized, but three sons have carried on the project.

The levee district went through reorganization, refinanced its bonds and finally began developing land in 1945. Today the Trinity Industrial District has 600 buildings, with $60,000,000 invested in land and improvements.

Diversion of the river has made possible other reclamation projects, including the Brook Hollow, West Trinity, Wyche and Inwood Industrial Districts.

The remarkable growth of Dallas has made old plans obsolete, and the city has turned to St. Louis planners for help in developing new ones. Harland Bartholomew, the St. Louis planning expert, made a series of studies which cost $100,000 and produced a master plan in 1943. Marvin R. Springer, who was trained by Bartholomew, came here in 1950 to become city planning director.

Dallas had two municipal airports—Love Field, which is used by the airlines, and Hensley Field, now under long-term lease to the Navy. Possession of the second field led to development of an aircraft industry here. The facility brought North American Aviation during the war. In 1948 Chance-Vought moved here from Hartford, Conn. This company now employs 17,000 people.

Bartholomew recommended that the city develop a third field, so Red Bird Airport was acquired. This serves private flyers and opens up still another industrial area, providing 200 acres for airport-based industries. The city is offering sites at the field under long-term leases, and is prepared to build plants financed by revenue bonds. The fact that such bonds are exempt from state and federal income taxes is not overlooked in the advertising.

Railroads Take Part

Railroads — the Katy, Santa Fe, Cotton Belt, Texas & Pacific, Frisco, Rock Island and Southern Pacific — have taken a hand in developing planned industrial districts in the Dallas area.

The churning activity has caught the attention of William Zeckendorf, New York promoter. In association with a Texas group he has organized the Great Southwest Corp. and has set out to develop 5000 acres at Arlington, midway between Dallas and Fort Worth. This huge project, 16 miles to the west in Tarrant county, is outside the Dallas metropolitan area, which is confined to Dallas county.

In industrial development there is no barrier between the city of Dallas and surrounding Dallas county. Most of the planned districts are within the city limits. A number were annexed by Dallas after development started.

The city has expanded its area by leaps and bounds since World War II. In 1940 Dallas covered only 45 square miles; now it embraces 236 miles. Texas law permits annexation of unincorporated territory by unilateral action, but if an incorporated area is sought, annexation must be approved by majority vote in both municipalities.

Only one incorporated area has voted itself into the city in the postwar period. This was Preston Hollow, which already was surrounded by Dallas. It comprised less than 10 per cent of the area that has been taken in.

Although Dallas is one of the key cities for the petroleum industry, growth has not been based on oil alone. Expansion has been on a broader base, with aircraft, motor vehicles and electrical machinery playing a big part in diversification. The industrial payroll jumped 205 per cent in the period from 1947 to 1954. In the last 10 years the area labor force has increased from 224,000 to 353,000, a gain of 57 per cent.

Dallas boasts that it has the fastest-growing downtown section in America. Like St. Louis, the city had virtually no vacant office space when World War II ended. Construction of one building started immediately after the war, the plans being ready and the builders waiting for the go-signal. Scores of other buildings have followed, and new skyscrapers still are going up every year.

No less than 6,000,000 square feet of floor space has been added in the downtown section since the war, and 3,280,000 more is under construction.

Debate on Limited Arms Cut Expected to Break Out Again

By JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON, May 28.

A SOLEMN DEBATE of fundamental importance has been going on here over the wisdom of compromising with the Soviets on a limited disarmament agreement.

This is in recess for the moment only because of President Eisenhower's insistence on making one more serious effort to break the arms stalemate. Such are the reservations that remain within the executive and legislative branches of the Government, however, that nothing short of an early acceptance by the Soviets of the Eisenhower plan is likely to keep the controversy from breaking out again.

Influential members of both the Congress and the key executive departments have grave doubts about making any more offers to the Soviets.

The Atomic Energy Commission is represented as feeling that any United States offer to postpone or eliminate tests of even the largest hydrogen weapons may put the United States at a great disadvantage.

Officials there point out that the Soviets can insist on keeping their scientific and engineering experts on the job, regardless of whether their work can be tested by large hydrogen explosions, whereas the United States experts are likely to disperse if tests of their work are postponed too long.

Some members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, particularly the chairman, Adm. Arthur W. Radford, believe that agreements with the Soviet Union are worthless, and that, in this field of disarmament, they are extremely dangerous.

Coincidentally, legislators from western states are warning the Administration against accepting the Soviet proposal for mutual aerial inspection over Siberia and the states west of the Mississippi. Consequently, Harold Stassen has been instructed to propose either that the open skies inspection be adopted only for the Arctic circle or for all of the United States and the Soviet Union.

Some of the western allies are unhappy about being left out of the current disarmament talks in London. Italy and the Benelux countries, for example, fear that they may be confronted by an agreement which they have had no opportunity to influence or negotiate.

Nevertheless, President Eisenhower thought that, since every policy, including the policy of merely going on with things as they are now, involves risks, the moment had come to put forward a limited compromise.

He is not, according to responsible officials here, proposing anything dramatic. He is said to be willing to consider postponing tests of large H-bombs for a limited period providing, in the meanwhile, the Soviets show some genuine evidence of implementing a sound inspection and control system.

He is said to be ready to agree to a military manpower ceiling, though the definitive studies of the disarmament problem have indicated that manpower agreements are easier to violate than agreements limiting the manufacture and use of modern weapons.

In addition he wants an agreement to limit the use of all future production of fissionable material to peaceful rather than military uses, and above everything, his major objective—affecting everything else—is an inspection system that will enable the United States to proceed in this field on the basis of verifiable facts and not just promises.

Nobody here pretends that these concessions represent anything but a start on the disar-

Eisenhower Helps Public Power Foes

New Appointments to TVA, AEC Will Further His Policy.

By DORIS FLEESON

WASHINGTON.

TIME and his power of appointment are helping President Eisenhower build new barriers against the expansion of public power. It is one area in which he has never departed from the tenets of orthodox Republicanism.

Both the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Atomic Energy Commission are involved in the moves which will bulwark the Eisenhower policy even beyond his own term of office. Through vacancies he is empowered to fill, he can insure the course of their direction, and all the signs and portents are that he plans to do so.

The TVA vacancy arose May 18 when the term of one of the three-man commission, Dr. Harry Curtis, expired. The President has already appointed the chairman, Gen. Herbert Vogel; with the naming of Curtis's successor, his appointees will have their first majority.

Adams and Senators Tussle.

TVA supporters are braced for a choice they will distrust but find hard to oppose. Their present understanding is that Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams is in a tussle with the two Republican Senators from the TVA area, John Sherman Cooper and Thruston Ballard Morton of Kentucky, over the nomination.

Cooper and Morton have vetoed some Adams suggestions and have put forward the name of G.O.P. Representative Howard Baker of Huntsville, Tenn. In this they have had the help of the President's unofficial Senate leader, Whip Everett L. Dirksen of Illinois, whose daughter married Baker's son.

Baker has a pro-TVA voting record in the House. Wary Democrats say he could do no other, being from that area; they expect him to be much more conservative on the issue when released from the direct pressure of the voters.

They would not expect to beat him for confirmation if the two TVA Republican Senators approved. But they hear also that Adams has doubts about Baker in the opposite direction and has suggested a name of his own for the place.

Argument to President.

The argument made to the President is that if he starts appointing Congressmen to jobs, he may have trouble re-

Senate Expected to OK Atom Pact but 'Deal' Is Suspected

WASHINGTON, May 28.

REFLECTING the somewhat improved position of the Administration following President Eisenhower's second appeal to the country for the main objectives of his foreign program, there is today a strong likelihood that the Senate will ratify the treaty making the United States a member of the proposed international atomic energy agency.

If current soundings prove to be correct, a disastrous blow to the President's prestige—not to mention America's position in the world—will have been averted. Two weeks ago it was anticipated that the treaty, on which the President has put the greatest stress, would be talked or amended to death. Along with the slashing of the budget, this would have reduced sharply the President's influence.

Both behind scenes and out front some intensive work has been done to persuade doubting and dissident Senators. Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, whose active opposition might well have doomed the treaty, finally said he would be satisfied if he could have written assurance that the treaty would not be in violation of the Atomic Energy Act.

How much significance the agency will have once it comes into being is another question. Reports have circulated of a "deal" whereby top Administration officials have given private assurances to Senators that joining the agency will not interfere with the Administration's determination to work out agreements giving American manufacturers the opening to sell private power reactors.

In his atoms-for-peace speech before the United Nations in December, 1953, the President proposed that nations with atomic resources "make joint contributions from their stockpiles of normal uranium and fissionable materials to an international atomic energy agency." Later he said this country would "make available" a fixed amount of enriched uranium.

According to the reported "deal," this amount will be forthcoming only on terms which the agency will be unable or unwilling to meet. Without genuine American backing, the agency would have little effectiveness even in terms of education and research. Those who suspect such a deal believe the Atomic Energy Commission would be used as a sort of sales agency for private manufacturers. Statements by W. Kenneth Davis of the AEC, ridiculing British power reactors, have produced an angry reaction as Britain and America vie with each other to sell atomic power plants to Japan.

But quite apart from the scope of the agency, Administration witnesses testified to the vital importance of the initial contribution such an agency would make in establishing at least the start of an international inspection system. It would be a contribution toward the "fourth country" development which is particularly important now that Harold E. Stassen is back in London empowered by the President to propose a disarmament agreement that would insure against any other nation developing atomic weapons.

"The time we have is dangerously short," Assistant Secretary of State Francis O. Wilcox said in a recent speech. "With the agency system other countries can be supplied with nuclear materials without simultaneously spreading the nuclear weapons threat. Peaceful development of the atom will proceed in the open, in the full light of day."

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the AEC took much the same line, arguing that if a control system such as that provided under the treaty were not in prospect it would have to be hastily invented. He stressed the difficult problem of disposing of atomic wastes with the danger of pollution spreading across international boundaries. Strauss has frequently been accused of favoring private interests and thwarting the peacetime development of the atom with Government assistance.

The ever-increasing concern over the atomic peril is one of the main themes in the London disarmament talks. Representative Chet Holyfield of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee is conducting hearings on the hazards of nuclear fallout. The Senate soon will debate the atomic treaty which the President has said is absolutely vital to America's role in the world.

Many Kinds of Special Skills Are Needed to Protect Your Estate

YOUR family's welfare will depend upon the arrangements you make for the disposition and management of your estate. It takes many different kinds of specialists to provide the services needed for your estate. It is unlikely that any one individual will combine all of these different skills.

Your estate must be administered in the Probate Court; estate and inheritance taxes must be adjusted; income taxes, determined and paid. If your estate contains real estate, the knowledge of real estate specialists is required. If it contains close corporation holdings, difficult problems of business management may arise. If it consists of marketable securities, the problem of investment management is of the utmost importance.

By naming St. Louis Union Trust Company your executor and trustee, you name not one individual to serve you, but a team—a team of skilled specialists. One department is responsible for administering your estate in the Probate Court. Another, for administering trusts. Our Real Estate Department is not engaged in the real estate business but manages the real estate included in trust estates. Close corporation interests are handled by a special department organized for their management.

By naming the St. Louis Union Trust Company as trustee under your will, the marketable securities in your estate will be under the supervision of our investment officers and investment department. Our Investment Department devotes its entire time to financial research and to the purchase, sale, and review of trust investments. We subscribe to the best available statistical services and supplement the data they supply by our own research. Our senior investment officers make frequent trips to confer with "top management" of more than 100 large corporations in which our trust estates have substantial holdings. Sale, retention, or purchase of securities is determined by our investment committees. When securities have been purchased for trust funds, they are not put away and forgotten, but are kept under constant scrutiny.

Name the St. Louis Union Trust Company as your executor and trustee and provide a team of skilled specialists to safeguard your estate and the financial future of your family.

Consult Your Lawyer
Your own lawyer should advise you on all legal problems pertaining to your estate. He should draw your will and any other legal documents needed to carry out your plans.

Statehood Has Been Earned

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I was greatly interested in your recent editorial, "In Justice to Hawaii." Having been born, reared and educated in Hawaii, I have often wondered what the general impressions of the American people toward statehood would be.

Since being in Missouri and having visited other parts of the United States, the few people that I have had any occasion to discuss statehood with have answered in the affirmative. Hawaii should become a state. People have asked why the delay?

Besides mentioning some of the fine reasons which were listed in the Post-Dispatch I have also said that the constant political wrangling, using Hawaii as a political football between the two parties of Congress, has been at the core of the delay.

Until this immature attitude is settled there will be no statehood. In fact it becomes more and more apparent to me that the hearings held over the years to determine whether Hawaii is "suitable" for statehood or not have turned into pleasure trips.

Let us cease using Hawaii as a political football to please the whims of immature men. Hawaii is not begging for statehood. If she were I would not support it. She would not deserve such a position in these United States, as far as I am concerned.

Rather, Hawaii has answered in cold hard facts the objections raised against statehood. Her record, open to all to evaluate, has earned statehood.

The average observer will never fully comprehend the thrill which my family and I experienced in 1956 when we voted for the first time for a Governor of Missouri and for a President of the United States.

DAVID K. KALEIKAU.

Squirrel in a Cage

I was amused by your sensible editorial on the "Anti-Missile Missile." The world's weapons development and armament race puts man in the position of a "squirrel running in a circular cage."

It seems to me that more effort and more money should be spent on devising and promoting a world system of law and order which will make it unnecessary for each nation to wear bullet-proof vests and carry side arms.

No Place for Children

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

If there is such a state as reincarnation, will the advocates of "No Children or Pets" return to earth as vegetables? These critters, methinks, are now in the state of vegetation, and will further deteriorate into a detested weed, if proffered another opportunity to make amends for their cruel, inhuman contribution to delinquency.

How can the powers that be look the other way while bolting institution doors on kids caught doing what they are forced to do — run the streets, gang up on street corners and/or watch TV and movies for the perfect crime to get even with an immature adult society for frustrations at their every turn?

Adequate dollars and inadequate sense are poured down the drain on improbable cures instead of on timely prevention of delinquency. We have a stiff penalty for monsters who contribute to the delinquency of minors. How is it that it has never touched property owners, be they perfect housekeepers or coddlers of flora?

These same critters will not rent to old people either. What are we supposed to do, drown all children, pets and people over 40 years of age? Say, that would eliminate some of the adult despotism at that! But, no, there are laws against that!

Smoke Screen

There never has been any public outcry over Ike's budget. What we have heard was the howl of a powerful, well-heeled, vociferous minority, pressing its attack through willing servants in Congress, and through a press which it largely owns or controls. The views of this greedy, short-sighted minority should not prevail.

Roadblock

Going west in Page boulevard after a strenuous drive, you cross Pennsylvania avenue, and then can relax a little as you cruise along a nice wide open street for home.

You sweep past Kiddie-Land, the Reardon Co., and on up towards Hanley Hills. But just over the hill of the overpass across the Rock Island tracks lies a monster. The same as a sleeping crocodile, it is waiting for an unwary victim.

Not until you can get over the rise, do you see the wide island put there by some engineer looking at flat paper. Already two black and white signs have been knocked flat in two weeks, cars damaged and people given gray hairs. Will it be necessary for someone to lose control of his car and die before the engineer looking at flat white paper realizes that a hill is here and changes need to be made?

NO ENGINEER.

The Aldermen Rampant

By its irresponsible conduct on Monday, the Board of Aldermen made a compelling case for the 7-7-1 legislative reform contemplated in the proposed new City Charter. The essence of that reform is the creation of an aldermanic chamber that will act responsibly for the good of the city as a whole.

At-large members of such a Board, accountable as they would be to the entire community, surely would have hesitated to push the city to the brink of a first-class financial crisis, as the present Board has done.

In large measure this has come about because of the spell cast by Alderman Alfred I. Harris and his "soak-the-utilities" demagoguery. This was the aldermanic "alternative" to the City Administration's reasoned tax program. It was full of holes and of extremely doubtful legality.

Mayor Tucker's veto of the Harris plan, and the failure of Mr. Harris to muster the 20 votes necessary to override—he actually got 18 votes to 11 against him—are all that saved the city a giant-sized mess. Even so, the city still is in a real crisis, for the Aldermen also declined to consider a property-tax rise that would have produced $1,928,000 of the $5,300,000 in additional revenue St. Louis must have if existing services are to be maintained.

Alderman Harris's "solution" now is an attempt to shift the responsibility to a citizens' committee on which the Mayor would be an ex-officio member. This is an unworthy and perhaps even an unworkable political trick by which Mr. Harris evidently hopes to take the pressure off himself.

We hope that the citizens' committee can help resolve the crisis, but meanwhile the Aldermen have forfeited the property tax increase. St. Louis ranks twenty-fourth out of 26 cities in per capita property taxes paid ($42.44 as compared with $189 in Boston), yet the Aldermen could not bring themselves to impose the modest increase needed to help pay policemen decent salaries and maintain a minimum of decency in hospitals!

The difficulty is that if Mr. Harris and his colleagues do not quickly provide for revenue to meet the needs, spending will have to be cut back immediately. Otherwise the city might run out of cash before the close of the fiscal year next April. And if that happens Mr. Harris and those who have stood with him will be responsible.

Not content with making a mess of city finances, the Aldermen also called for a "dog days" vote on the proposed new City Charter. Considering the marked advantage of the fall as the time for this important election, Mayor Tucker undoubtedly will veto the Aug. 6 date set by the Aldermen. He will be on firm ground.

The Mayor has recommended an election on Oct. 8. That would permit the necessary educational campaign on the Charter to be conducted in the last three weeks of September and the first week of October—surely a more practical period than the usually torrid days in late July and early August. It almost looks as if the Aldermen were out to frustrate the popular will on the Charter, not poll it.

No wonder so many St. Louisans are eagerly looking forward to the day the new Charter takes effect and a completely new, responsible Board of Aldermen takes office.

A TVA Board Candidate Loses

The White House's notification to Senator Cooper of Kentucky that Adolph Ackerman will not be appointed to the TVA board of directors is favorable so far as it goes.

Mr. Ackerman, a consulting engineer from Madison, Wis., was a largely unknown quantity except that he was said to be the candidate of Gen. Herbert D. Vogel, the Eisenhower-appointed chairman of TVA who has shown himself hostile to the social purposes of the agency he heads.

It is to be hoped that when a selection finally occurs, the choice will be made, not by Gen. Vogel, but by President Eisenhower, and that the nominee will have some affirmative qualifications to recommend him.

It is also much to be hoped that President Eisenhower will avoid any temptation to play politics with the TVA board vacancy by waiting until Congress recesses and then making an interim appointment.

The country ought to know fully what manner of man it is who takes the third post on TVA's directorate, as only a thorough inquiry in the Senate can show.

The Senate should exercise its right to pass judgment on the fitness of the appointee.

Triumph for Educational TV

The Illinois Supreme Court has upheld the right of the University of Illinois to operate an educational television station. This decision ought to end five years of attempted obstructionism by commercial broadcasters in Illinois.

While the court suit was brought by an Evanston restaurant owner and a Rock Island drug store, as "taxpayers," the university contended that the Illinois Broadcasters Association was behind the suit. The court found this contention "persuasive."

Two arguments were advanced by the plaintiffs: that the university could not legally finance a TV station from funds appropriated for general use, and that the school needed specific authority from the Legislature to operate a station at all. The State Supreme Court simply pointed to the impracticality of providing specific funds for every educational purpose in a great university, and then it said:

> It (TV) is one of the many activities incident to the management and operation of the university included in the single objective of maintaining an institution of higher learning.

In short, a modern university is just as right to use television for educational purposes as to use blackboards and chalk. That should be that.

A Warning in the Formosa Riots

A warning to be heeded lies in the report of United States officials on the anti-American rioting that shook Taipei last Friday. Most alarming of all is the information that the violence was "definitely organized," presumably by political forces anxious to make a deal with the mainland Communist Chinese.

The tenseness of the situation on Formosa is only superficially relieved by the prompt reassurances given by the Chiang Kai-shek government. How secure a position is the Generalissimo in when more than 30,000 persons can wreck the United States embassy and he has to fire three of his high-ranking generals? The nine distinct waves of rioters indicated discipline and organization. The men who carried special equipment for breaking into the fortress-like code room certainly were not just angry demonstrators.

This all serves to strengthen the reports from Americans on Formosa in recent months of fears that a coup might be attempted to turn Formosa over to Peiping. The island's strategic value to us has swung downward just as its liability to us has swung upward. We had better be thinking beyond the status quo.

As Mr. Stassen Returns

There can be no question that, as the London disarmament talks resume, the American representative, Harold E. Stassen, carries with him overwhelming public support for sober and serious negotiation of a first-stage agreement. Though the exact terms of his instructions remain secret, official briefing of newsmen indicates that American policy supports a significant arms limitation pact.

As the nation waits prayerfully for results from London, we need to remind ourselves of two essentials. First, it is clear that the negotiations may take time. Patience and fortitude will be necessary, both to avoid discouragement at temporary setbacks and to persist in the course we have chosen.

Second, it must be constantly borne in mind that honest negotiation requires give as well as take. Our country must be prepared to make concessions as well as to demand them; unless both sides yield ground in the interest of reaching common ground, there can be no success.

Secretary Dulles has indicated that a major objective will be to induce the non-atomic powers to sign an agreement under which Russia, Britain and the United States will remain the sole possessors of atomic weapons. This is a desirable objective, but the non-atomic powers are entitled to ask what their big neighbors intend to offer in exchange.

Certainly the big powers cannot go on producing nuclear weapons without limit, and testing new ones without limit, and expect other powers meekly to accept the status of have-not nations forever. If they would halt nuclear weapons development where it is, those nations which have already reached that level must be prepared to make some concessions in return.

It is good to know that with respect to "open skies" no rigid position has been adopted by the United States on the zones to be covered. Mr. Dulles has spoken favorably of starting with an Arctic zone, and there is talk of opening first to inspection the cap of the globe above the 66th parallel. Mr. Dulles has reiterated his support of the original proposal to open all American and all Soviet territory as well. We hope that he is also considering sympathetically the Soviet plan for inspection of a European zone. The historic avenues of conquest lie in Europe and no chance to bring them under open skies should be missed.

The circumstances of Mr. Stassen's return to London suggest that his rather than Adm. Radford's approach to the problem was upheld in the policy discussions in Washington. The country can be grateful for that. It is not constructive to start out by proclaiming that we cannot trust the Russians. They start out, no doubt, with a feeling that they cannot trust the West.

But the truth is that any nation will observe an agreement in which it has a vital national interest, and all nations today have a common interest in disarmament. The sensible course is to negotiate a pact which rests, not on blind faith by anybody, but on reciprocal concessions, step-by-step progress, and sufficient inspection to safeguard both sides against surprise violations.

The people of every nation yearn for relief from the arms burden. They yearn for freedom from fear and tension. A solemn responsibility rests on the negotiators at London.

Member in Good Standing

When these learned ones found Neanderthal's skull a century ago, says Dr. William L. Straus Jr. of Johns Hopkins, they saw what they wanted to see: a hideous face, fangs, a body bent forward in ape-like posture. Ignoring the large brain-pan, they allowed H. L. Mencken to give Neanderthal's name to anybody he wanted to read out of the human company.

But in doing so, they only revealed their closed minds, their inadequate scholarship and their inability to reconstruct skeletal fossils, says Dr. Straus. As a matter of fact, Neanderthal stood as erect as any Marine drill instructor—that is, until he came down with a bad case of crippling osteo-arthritis.

Describing a Neanderthal burial vault, Dr. Loren C. Eiseley of the University of Pennsylvania speaks in similar vein, declaring that those who built it are saying across 500 centuries:

> We too were human, we too suffered, we too believed that the grave was not the end. We too, whose faces afright you now, knew human agony and human love.

Welcome, Mr. Neanderthal, as a member in good standing of this bright-stupid, good-bad so-called human race. Sir, you almost assure us that we will survive even the bombs.

A Veto for 'Log-Rollers'

Unless he really approves of the old congressional confidence game of "log-rolling," why was Senator Knowland, the Republican leader, so quick and so flat in his opposition to President Eisenhower's appeal for the item veto?

Now that Representative Keating, New York Republican, has revived his proposal for a constitutional amendment which would enable the President to veto specific items instead of a whole appropriation bill, it is to be hoped that Senator Knowland will re-examine his position.

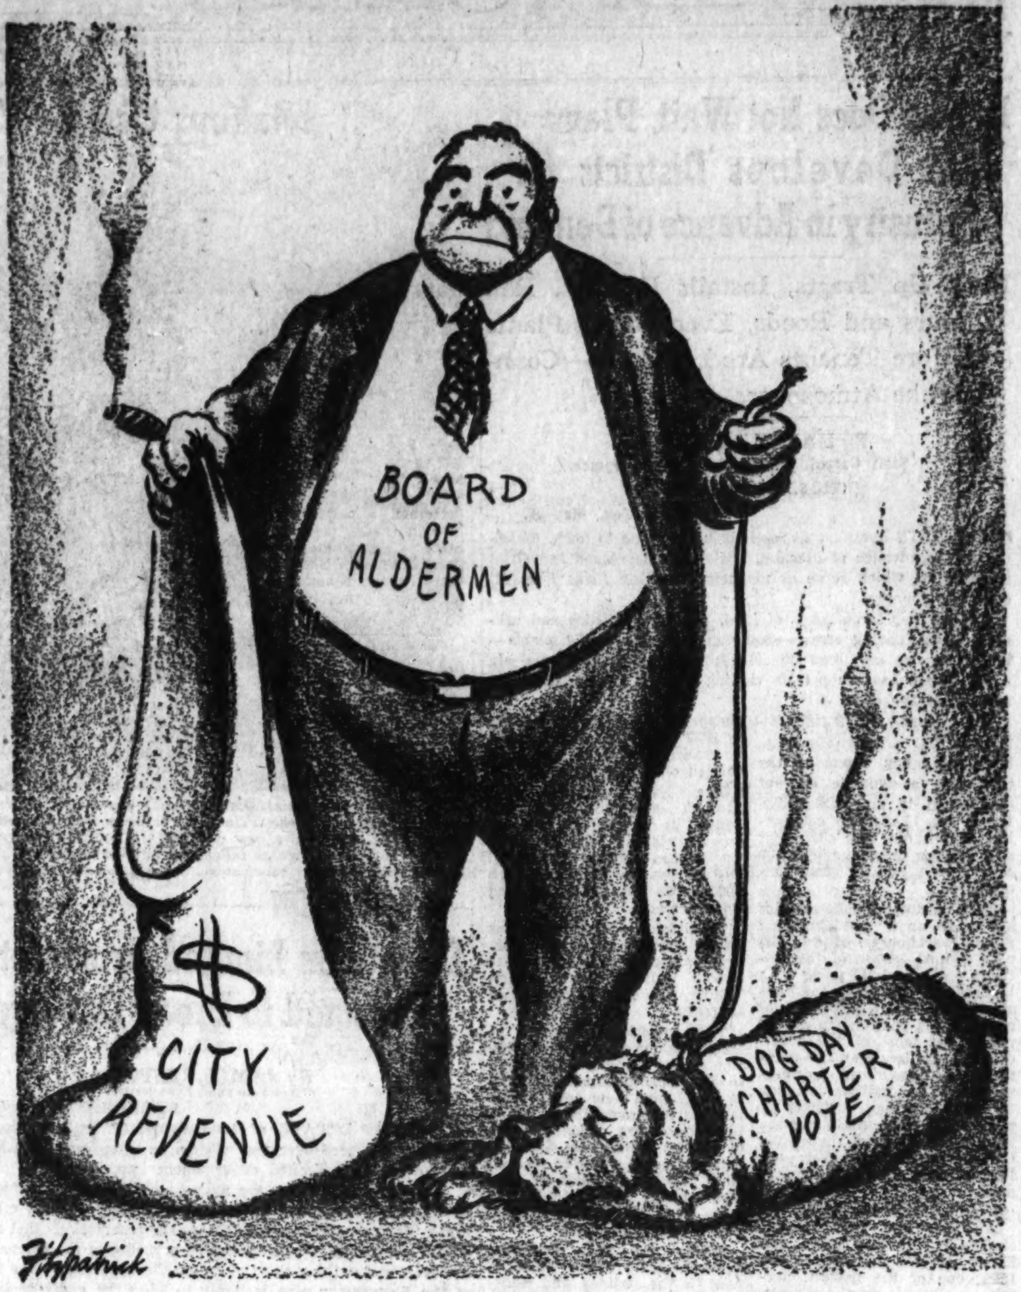
By banding together in support of their respective "home town" projects, the "log-rollers" saddle the tax-payer with the cost of many an undertaking which could not win approval on its merits. This "you vote for my bill, and I will vote for your bill" method is the easiest way of filling the congressional "pork barrel."

As the one official elected by all the people, the President is most free from special pressures. He is in the best position to distinguish between the necessary and the unnecessary, between what federal income allows and what it does not allow. Congress has—and should have—the power of the purse, but it should be guided by the President in avoiding deficits. And when such guidance is rejected, the President should have the power to call the matter to public attention with a veto.

The argument that the item veto would diminish the money-power of Congress simply is not true. Congress can always vote money over the President's veto. But it would have to approach a vetoed item with far more responsibility than is involved in "log-rolling."

There has been agitation for the item veto for decades. Indeed, the House voted for the reform in 1938, only to have it killed in the Senate. The late Senator Vandenberg was a strong advocate. So were Presidents Roosevelt and Truman. And last week President Eisenhower said, "If the item veto existed right now, I could easily do some serious expense cutting."

A number of states have recognized the logic of the item veto and have empowered their Governors to use it. Senator Knowland says what may be good for the states may not be good for the Government. Why not?



THREE GOOD REASONS FOR THE NEW CHARTER

The Mirror of Public Opinion

International Labor Organization meets soon in Geneva to consider world's problems with automation and atomic energy; will discuss effects of revolutionary techniques; unless processes are controlled, man may create a Frankenstein monster.

C. L. Sulzberger in The New York Times

PARIS.

The dizzy speed with which mechanical techniques are now developing leads many serious thinkers to wonder if they may not soon exceed human capacity to absorb them. Quite apart from permanent threats of nuclear war there exists a fear that peacetime civilization is itself exploding from within.

The twin forces of automation and atomic energy are racing to revolutionize production. Unless these processes are carefully guided they may eventually strain the entire fabric of society. In such a case man will at last have produced a Frankenstein monster.

Such problems, still looming but dimly, are to be discussed next month when the 77 member nations of the International Labor Organization meet in Geneva. The purpose of their conference is to analyze the implications, socially, politically, economically and industrially, of new productive methods.

David A. Morse, director general of the I.L.O., has prepared a lengthy report on the subject. This gives some indication of how immense may be the ramifications as nuclear energy replaces traditional fuels and machines take over jobs hitherto held by men.

It has often been assumed atomic power will enable backward nations to jump rapidly into the twentieth century by huge exploitation projects. But Morse points out the possibility that the gap between developed and underdeveloped lands may, on the contrary, be widened.

How, for example, can teeming India handle automation? Says Morse: "Particularly where under-employment and unemployment are a chronic and serious problem, technological change seems to complicate the problems of development and to threaten the whole structure of social stability."

Already mechanical devices have intruded into almost every aspect of wage-earning from managerial and white-collar position down to heavy labor.

Fourteen glass-blowing machines each operated by one worker, now produce 90 per cent of the light bulbs used in the United States.

In the Soviet Union a fully automatic plant makes aluminum pistons for heavy truck engines. No human hands intervene throughout the process.

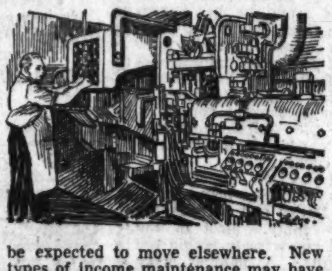
At one British refinery six men per shift can now distill five and a half million gallons of crude oil every day.

Morse warns that "as the pace of technological change quickens there is always a danger that the gap between the better-paid workers and the worst-paid workers within any one country will be widened." Some students have suggested that, as machines take over, men may drastically reduce their working hours. But, says Morse, "it can never be truly productive to have more people than necessary during any job."

He ventures the frightening prediction that "with time there will be no unskilled workers." Furthermore, white collar employment is menaced. Morse forecasts: "The displacement of the routine clerical worker by the computer. The greatest potential for automation lies in office work." Another development is that "with atomic energy and automation together the employer has increasing freedom in locating his plant.

What will men do with the leisure offered by machinery? What will be the effect on social security requirements? Says Morse:

"New forms of protection may be needed for older workers in stranded communities who cannot find employment there and who cannot reasonably be expected to move elsewhere. New types of income maintenance may have to be provided for workers moving or undergoing retraining."



Collective bargaining and union organization in the free world may ultimately be altered. Morse concedes: "Both union jurisdictions and internal union organization will be affected. It may mean a smaller number of unions, each with larger membership and increasing emphasis on industry-wide bargaining. The machinery of collective negotiation . . . may have to be overhauled."

The implications of these changes cannot yet be more than remotely understood. Morse himself argues it is probable over-all employment will not decline but will actually increase as production races forward.

This is hopeful speculation. But how will the imbalance be righted between advanced, automated nations and those still steeped in feudalism?

And there exists a problem even more fundamental. Thomas Malthus, an eighteenth-century economist, conceived the disquieting theory that mankind must eventually starve because population augments in geometrical ratio whereas subsistence augments only in arithmetical ratio. So far Malthus seems to have been wrong.

But what will happen when we find ourselves faced with another Malthusian puzzle? Supposing production totally outstrips practical absorptive capacities, that increasing idle men are unable to use up the leisure or products machines make for them? If the atom doesn't destroy us first, can automation eventually produce us into a state of stultification?

Hail to Daylight Saving

From The Christian Science Monitor

"Oh, to have an extra hour of daylight now that April's here!" seems to be a widespread wish, and one that was granted in 15 states and parts of some 10 others before April left. The vogue for moving clocks ahead in summer had a rather difficult time after its first introduction in the United States during World War I, but now it seems to be gaining in popularity every year.

The regions where observance is state-wide are mostly along the Atlantic seaboard, from Maine to Delaware. But California and Nevada have been added, and this year Wisconsin, Minnesota and Indiana will join the movement.

In Massachusetts the season has even been extended into October, which some consider debatable. Or if that be logical, they ask, why not start earlier in the spring? However that may be, one of the greatest conveniences is enjoyed (or at least a major annoyance avoided) when the change becomes uniform enough to be followed in railroad timetables.

MACHINES AND PEOPLE.

Those who fear that machines will replace people are reminded there was a time when it looked as though puppets were going to take over TV.

Here is both a study of and a satire on "motivational research" in advertising and selling. The exact definition of M. R., as its proponents call it with awe, is up for grabs. Loosely, it means a deep delving into the buyer's conscience, consciousness, subconscious, unconscious and, eventually, his purse.

In offering lots of information about M. R. gleaned from many interviews, Packard adds his own comments that often are hilariously funny. It is clear that in some segments of the advertising field a new firm is solidly entrenched — Freud & Associates. Its disciples are convinced that we are a nation of mixed up kids, who buy things not so much because we want them, but because we are motivated by problems of sex, hostility, frustration, insecurity and other inward oddities.

If you believe some of the M. R. people, most of the women exploring supermarkets are in a hypnoidal trance. This first stage of complete hypnosis is accomplished with skillfully designed labels, packages and displays. The more hypnotic the merchandise, the bigger is the hypo in sales.

Sex has much to do with sales, say the M. R. Muses. Most men would prefer convertibles, because of a suggestion of dalliance with dames, but they settle for sedans, because of a guilty fidelity to the little woman. Again, love conquers all.

More, chewing gum, cigarettes, outboard motors, fountain pens—well, you name it—all sell better with a subtle weaving of sex witchcraft into advertisements. Packard well might have entitled this chapter: Sex Raises Its Ugly Ad.

There are all sorts of other motivations under scrutiny in "The Hidden Persuaders." They are presented with a generous ladle of humor. For this reason the book's readership need not be confined to advertisers and agency people. Everyday consumers and customers will enjoy discovering what squirrels we mortals be.

ROLAND KREBS.

Champion of the West

JOHN WESLEY HARDIN, by Lewis Nordyke. (Morrow, 278 pgs., $4.)

"After watching John Wesley Hardin shoot down five armed and wildly firing men in about a minute, a cowman on the old Chisholm Trail remarked: 'With either hand or both hands at the same time, that boy can handle a pistol faster than a frog can lick flies.'"

With these words, Lewis Nordyke begins his definitive work on the life of the greatest gunman the Old West ever knew—a man who made Billy the Kid look like a rank amateur. He was deadly accurate with a pistol at the age of 9; by the time he was 18 years old he had already killed 27 men and at the time of his death at the age of 42, his total killings stood at 44.

Many things contributed to the paradox that was Wes Hardin. First, there were the time and circumstances of his birth. He was a minister's son, a descendant of worthy Texas pioneers, and he grew up with all the chivalric ideals of personal honor and the defense of home and womanhood.

Yet the turbulent disorder of secession, the War Between the States, and Reconstruction brought out in Wes Hardin a restless and a swaggering braggadocio that went looking for trouble.

Throughout the violent years of his life, Wes Hardin's reputation was as various as the people who formulated it. To many he was the most feared gunman and hunted man in Texas. To others he was a hero. To one, the gentle lovely girl who married him and stood by him till the end of her life, he was beyond reproach.

Eisenhower Ignored in G.O.P. Vote Bid

WASHINGTON.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY'S new national chairman—Meade Alcorn of Connecticut—seems willing to leave the care and feeding of "modern Republicans" and "modern Republicanism" to President Eisenhower.

Alcorn

As for him, he is going about the job of keeping peace among all other brands of Republicans, of whom, or you would so judge from his words and attitudes, there is quite a multitude. His job is to try to win Congress next year after two successive defeats and against odds which he confesses frankly are heavy. To do that, he relies heavily on "organize and organize and organize," as he puts it, and in the party organization upon whom that task will fall are many who might be described as old-fashioned Republicans. His desire is to appease these folks.

His inclination and that of national committee policy toward them comes out in "Straight From the Shoulder," the party publication that goes to some 400,000 party workers all over the country, which is being resumed with a May issue.

Room for Differences.

Urging the need of teamwork and of developing a pride of partisanship, he said nevertheless this didn't imply a "party of conformity" and added:

"The Republican party would dry up in six months if we had that. There's plenty of room for differences of opinion within our own counsels, but let's not be anxious to rush into print with them."

In this whole issue of the party organ you find not a word about "modernizing" the Republican party. Nor would you ever know that President Eisenhower is engaged in a big crusade to save his $71,800,000,000 budget.

Budget Cuts Stressed.

There is, it is true, a long, lead article—"Price of Peace is High, President tells Nation"—quoting mostly from the President's first television speech in his budget-saving campaign, but with emphasis on the defense budget.

Throughout the publication the impression is that the President and his Administration are working hard to cut the budget.

"Ike Suggests Spending Cuts" is the headline over an article about the Presidents' reply to Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn who had asked the President to specify where cuts might be made.

The President's explanation that $1,800,000,000 of new spending authority might be postponed was described as "in line with the five-year policy of keeping federal expenditures to a minimum consistent with national security."

Only in the next to last paragraph, almost as an afterthought, does the article mention the President's statement that the Administration would absorb cuts wherever possible, but where not possible it would ask the Senate to restore them.

Also featured is an article "Bridges Cites G.O.P. Record of Balanced Budgets," by Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate, Republican Policy Committee, who is never included in any list of "modern Republicans."

But the choice exhibit, and rich in irony, is an article by Representative Leslie Arends of Illinois, House Republican whip, which boasts of economies made by the House largely through Republican votes. What were these economies?

Not Supporting President.

They were cuts in President Eisenhower's budget for social welfare activities embraced in the Department of Labor and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

These cuts disturbed not only the President but Secretary of Labor Mitchell and Secretary Folsom. Both Cabinet members are trying to get these cuts restored by the Senate.

The Administration's social welfare activity is the keystone of the President's "modern Republicanism." Proudly, Representative Arends writes of the slashing of funds for such activity, thus:

"On each and every amendment to cut the proposed expenditure, a majority of the Republicans voted for the cut. The total of all votes on all amendments shows that 74 per cent of the Republicans voted for the reductions. In only two instances did a majority of Democrats vote for the cuts."

"Reduce Where Possible."

You have to keep in mind that these cuts were in the President's cherished social welfare program to appreciate the following bland observation by the party whip:

"In accordance with the wishes of President Eisenhower, we Republicans in the House are exercising our responsibility to reduce the budget wherever possible.

From all of which you can see how hard a job Chairman Alcorn has to try to please everybody in the party.

GERMAN PUBLISHER HERE, CITES GOALS

Says United Country Is Desire, but Isn't Worth War.

Although Germans want reunification, it is better to have a divided country than a third world war, Heinrich R. Heinen Jr. of Cologne, Germany, assistant publisher of the Kolnische Rundschau and Bonner Rundschau, said here today.

Reunification, he said, is not up to the Germans—the only solution lies with the two big powers. Germany cannot be reunited until tension is eased between the East and West, he stated.

Heinen, a participant in the foreign leader program of the State Department's International Exchange Service, was in the city under auspices of the St. Louis Council on World Affairs as part of a 60-day tour of the nation, observing newspaper procedures and the American way of life.

Germany desires reunification by peaceful means, but it must rearm in the interest of defense and only as a deterrent to war, Heinen declared. He said his country, twice defeated in world wars, is not anxious to become a big military power.

The German people, at the end of World War II, wanted nothing to do with political parties and since then have been reluctant to align themselves, Heinen said. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has made a big step in teaching the Germans that it is to their best interest to be aware of and participate in international affairs.

Chancellor Adenauer, who presently is in the United States reviewing international problems with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, hopes to take a clearer understanding of the atomic weapons problem and disarmament proposals to the German people when he returns.

Heinen said he doubted the 81-year-old Chancellor's influence had diminished, and predicted that Adenauer will win the September election in the German Federal Republic.

The German publisher said he believed the United States will make the first step in disarmament. He stated that it was his country's hope to become a stabilizing factor in Europe, and at the same time help the United States to be a stabilizing force in the world. Heinen, who come to St. Louis Thursday, left today.

DENTISTS ARE TOLD OF PATIENTS' HOPES

Experience shows that "the greatest single desire of a dental patient is to retain his teeth and have them look attractive," Dr. Maurice J. Saklad, a New York City dentist, told the ninety-second annual meeting of the Missouri State Dental Association yesterday at Hotel Sheraton-Jefferson. The meeting will last through tomorrow.

"This has stimulated dentistry to turn its attention increasingly toward the correction of malposed, malaligned, mutilated and missing teeth with full coverage of either porcelain, plastic, gold or their combinations," he added.

"It is our duty as practitioners to know of the various possibilities of treatment that can relieve a patient from the agonizing fear of inferiority, self-pity, discomfort and restore to them a sense of pride and peace of mind," Dr. Saklad said.

He added that fear of showing an unsightly dentition is one of the causes of defective speech. "Facial grimaces are often the result of voluntary immobility of the lip. And this in turn is the result of an unslightly dentition as well as a poor dentition."

"Thus the dentist must take time to listen to the patient's story, familiarize himself with the patient's problems along with his enviroment," Dr. Saklad continued. "Then he must consider all this when prescribing restorative treatment."

"Systemically weak persons are poor risks for the extensive tooth preparation that is so often necessary in restorative dentistry," Dr. Saklad added. "They show little protective pulp reaction and are prone to pulp degeneration."

Dr. Bates Hamilton of Richmond was installed today as president of the association for 1957-58, succeeding Dr. Max Kornfeld, 61 Ladue terrace, Ladue. Dr. Charles B. Holt, Springfield, Mo., was elected president for the 1958-59 term.

DEDICATION JULY 6 FOR TRUMAN LIBRARY

KANSAS CITY, May 28 (AP)—Plans for dedication of the Truman Library at his hometown of Independence, Mo., are complete and the ceremony will take ulace July 6, former President Harry S. Truman said yesterday.

Chief Justice Earl Warren will be principal speaker at the ceremonies. Asked at the press conference where he made his announcement whether the White House would be represented, Truman replied:

"For that answer, you'll have to ask the White House."

The ceremony was first set for May 8, then changed to avoid a convention conflict here.

Truman's private papers, more than 3,500,000 documents, will be transferred to the $1,700,000 library at the same time it is turned over to the Federal Government's care, The structure was financed by contribution.

Basil O'Connor, president of the Truman Library Corp., representing the 17,000 contributors, will present the deed to the property to Franklin G. Floete, General Services Administration head.

Accepting the Truman presidential papers will be Dr. Wayne C. Grover, archivist of the United States.

Other speakers invited include House Speaker Sam Rayburn, majority and minority leaders in Congress and Gov. James T. Blair of Missouri. Among those asked to attend are the governors of New York, Michigan, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Kansas, former President Herbert Hoover, and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Truman's predecessor.

why Ancient Age can say:
"IF YOU CAN FIND A BETTER BOURBON ...BUY IT!"
All we distill is Kentucky straight bourbon.
We know that bourbon of the finest quality requires choice grains. That's all we use. We know it calls for the greatest skill in distilling. The men who guide the making of Ancient Age are the most experienced in the industry. And it takes lots of time. That's why we wait six full years for careful aging to bring the quality ingredients to their peak of maturity.
And to safeguard the uniform quality of Ancient Age, we distill it at one place only . . . at the Ancient Age distillery in Frankfort, Kentucky . . . the heart of the bourbon country.
Nothing has been spared to make Ancient Age the greatest bourbon of them all. Try it tonight. After one taste, you'll understand why we can make the challenge: "If you can find a better bourbon . . . buy it!"

Musial Makes It Easy for Lindy; 4th Complete Game for Hurler

Redbirds Give Cubs Rush Act, Win, 6-2

By Jack Rice

The Cardinal farm system seems to amount to the McDaniel place, way out amid the cotton-bearing acres of Oklahoma. With two of the boys signed, and another coming along, there's no telling where the thing will end. It could end in a three-man Cardinal pitching staff, all of it McDaniel, and off results available today that's a good thought.

Lindy McDaniel, at 21 the eldest of the boys, pitched last night at Busch Stadium for the Cardinals, before 9127 persons who paid to get in, and before brother Von, who just had been paid $50,000 to come in and sign a Cardinal contract.

There was a moment in the first inning when Lindy seemed a little nervous, standing out there in front of baby brother with all that money looking on. Lindy set the family standard in September, 1955, when the Cardinals paid him $50,000. The 13-year-old McDaniel brother still on the farm ought to have a pretty fair guess by now at what he has coming to him, in another three years or so.

No Harm Done.

Tom Morgan led off for the Cubs against Lindy. Bobby didn't mean a bit of harm but in checking his swing at one of Lindy's pitches he accidentally hit a little of the ball with a little of the bat, and the baseball went skittering along the right side of the mound, looking for a soft glove to nestle in.

Lindy seemed slow to move. When he finally did move off the mound, a man could have bent two or three times to knock a boll weevil off a cotton blossom. The ball was halted, and thrown to McDaniel, but he was too late covering first.

Then Lindy walked Ernie Banks. Now, Ernie usually does mean to harm a baseball and it's no disgrace to walk him now and then. But it just didn't look good, with Von all fresh and eager to watch and learn, for Lindy to begin a game so. The thought was firm in Lindy's mind, too, for Bob Speake hit into a double-play, and Dale Long grounded to the second baseman, and there is no element of luck at all in such a pitching recovery by Lindy McDaniel, so help him Murry Dickson.

Double Play Pitch.

Dickson was invited to analyze McDaniel, after the Cardinals defeated the Cubs, 6 to 2, as McDaniel calmly pitched his fourth complete game. McDaniel's pitching is worth analyzing, because the staff's total complete-game effort only amounts to seven.

"He keeps the ball low, of course," said pitcher Dickson. "He makes them hit it into the ground. The only time he gets in trouble is when he comes up with the ball. He can make that double-play pitch, and it's no accident with him."

Dickson paused and found the compliment he was looking for: "He looks like he's been pitching for years," said Murry. "He has one of the best sinker pitches I've seen. He holds it like this—." Dickson held a baseball with the seams on the horizontal. "Only two seams catch the wind, and his success is in his wrist.

"He has a wonderful snap in his wrists; something like a man needs to throw a good screwball. It just comes natural to him. He can throw it three-quarter, or sidearm. Why doesn't everyone throw it then? Well, lots try, but they don't have his wrists. The last man I can remember who threw it as well was Al Brazle, but he always came just one way with it, and we could tell, because of that, what was coming. It helped spot his curve, too. This kid doesn't tip anything."

Goodbye to Rush.

McDaniel, the quiet one — meaning, now, the quiet one who was here first—had it made easy for him in the fifth inning last night. The Cardinals started making hits and stealing bases against Bob Rush. It put the Cubs starter to rest in the sixth inning, and perhaps he took with him, for good, the spring's steadiest rainy-day rumor: "Rush to be traded to Cardinals."

The conclusive fifth turned solidly Cardinal on a small thing. There was one out, and Eddie Kasko on first, and McDaniel at bat. Kasko broke for second and McDaniel swung valiantly—a third strike—trying to protect his runner.

Cal Neeman, Cubs catcher from East St. Louis, made a good throw to second, but only the bag was there. Shortstop Jack Littrell had dallied, and the ball went into center, and Kasko went to third. An error was "temporarily" assigned Neeman, but when the Chicago bench answered a query from the official scorer, the error was charged to Littrell. The Cardinals kept right on as if they didn't care much who got it. Don Blasingame singled home Kasko, and stole second, on Rush. Al Dark singled him home, and Stan Musial made further adventuresome baserunning unnecessary. He homered. That's all they needed to keep 'em happy down on the farm, in Oklahoma.

Khoury League No-Hitters.

Two Craig club youngsters pitched no-hitters in their Khoury League games, Sunday. Dennis Murphy, 9 years old, fanned 13 as the Craig Atoms defeated Boswell A.C., 28-0; Ronnie Hart, 10 years old, also fanned 13 as his Craig Bantams won from North Point A.C., 17 0.

Long Ties Score --- But Not for Long

On Jim Bolger's high-bouncing grounder to Al Dark, DALE LONG slides home safely ahead of Dark's throw to score the Cubs' first run in the fourth inning against the Cardinals at Busch Stadium. The tally tied the score at 1-1, but in the next inning the Cards broke out with a four-run splurge to assure a 6-2 victory. Redbird catcher is HAL SMITH, the umpire KEN BURKHART.

Scout Predicts Birds' 4-H Kid Won't Have to Be Farmed Out

By Bob Broeg

Von McDaniel, as healthy and as wholesome-looking as a 4-H champion or a blue-ribbon winner off the family farm, is a quiet, composed 18-year-old with two distinct advantages over most teen-age kids. He's got $50,000 and he's on a big league ball club.

The younger brother of Lindy McDaniel, second-season Redbird righthander who received a similar bonus two years ago, Von is frozen to the Redbird roster for the next two seasons.

Faster Than Lindy.

"I'd be willing to bet," said Scout Fred Hawn, who tracked down the brothers and camped on their Hollis (Okla.) doorstep, "that Von won't have to be farmed out, either, if he progresses as I believe he can. At 18—and his father here will agree — he's faster and even more promising than Lindy."

Newell McDaniel, the wiry farmer father of the two rangy athletes, nodded. He just had related softly that all 16 major league clubs had sought his middle son—he's got one who's pitching on the cow pastures at age 13, too — and that four teams were willing to pay more than the Cardinals.

"We allowed no bidding contest, though," the father said. "We wanted the same for Von as for Lindy, no more and no less. And if you had two boys, wouldn't you want them playing together?"

The senior McDaniel and his athletic sons—Von was all-state Oklahoma high school basketball star who turned down a scholarship at Kansas — have been Cardinal fans since the kids saw their first harvest. Lindy especially idolized the baseball memory of Dizzy Dean while Von most has admired the man who'll be his teammate, Stan Musial. Stan's boy, Dick, is only a year younger than the youngest Redbird.

Von McDaniel, three years Lindy's junior, is only a half-inch shorter and 10 pounds lighter than the 6-3, 190-pound Redbird starter. He's still growing after having powdered his pitches past Oklahoma high school rivals during a 21-1 season in which he allowed only 25 hits in 117 innings, walking just 17 and striking out 243. He batted .545 with eight doubles, seven triples and nine homers in the 22 contests.

Better Hitter, Too.

"Yeah," said Hawn, "he's even a better hitter than Lindy was. He's got the same unusual poise and control for a kid, and in pitching technique he reminds me of Bucky Walters."

Smiling, Redbird President August A. Busch Jr., who had officiated at a press conference at which Von signed, said he hoped the Cardinals had come up with a pitching combination like the fabulous brothers Dean, Dizzy and Paul.

Manager Fred Hutchinson, more realistic and planning to go slowly with the apple-cheeked boy fresh out of high school, using him to mop up temporarily, said he'd be satisfied if Von proved to be just another McDaniel. That would be promising enough.

Raiding of the Cardinal bullpen for a starting pitcher will go on again tonight, when the Redbirds start their relief ace, Larry Jackson, against the Cubs. Jackson's record is 5 and 1. His scheduled opponent is Moe Drabowsky (2-3).

Tonight's game has a curfew, No inning will start after 10:45 o'clock. This is done to enable the Cubs to be certain they'll catch a train for Milwaukee.

Stan Musial's frontal assault on the record books continued its impressive way. He had three hits — a homer, a double and a single after being an infield out his first and second times at bat—but this was incidental to the grander figures.

His two-run homer in the fifth made his lifetime runs-batted-in total 1500. Only 12 players have exceeded that. They are Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Jimmy Foxx, Ty Cobb, Mel Ott, Al Simmons, Goose Goslin, Rogers Hornsby, Tris Speaker, Ted Williams, Harry Heilmann and Joe DiMaggio. The homer was his 361st, tying him with DiMaggio at No. 7 on that particular list of all-time production. Next in sight is Ralph Kiner, with 369.

Lindy McDaniel's victory was his third. He has lost twice. His earned-run average has been dwindling handsomely. In his past three games, covering 23 innings, he has allowed three earned runs. The figure might have been two, but for a triple granted Frank Ernaga with two out and Cal Neeman on base with a double, in the Cubs' ninth. Ken Boyer, in center, and Joe Cunningham, in right, two infielders making rapid strides toward learning a new trade in the outfield well, couldn't collaborate quite well enough on Ernaga's hit to right-center. Cunningham almost had it, and then he didn't, and a run scored. McDaniel got Tom Morgan to ground out. Infield outs are the fashion for McDaniel pitching. Boyer's three catches were the only outfield put-outs, and he had only one of those through seven innings.

Iron Liege Hurt; May Be Idle 2 Months

CAMDEN, N.J., May 28 (UP)—Iron Liege, winner of this year's Kentucky Derby, has developed a slight splint on his right foreleg and may be out of action for two months, Calumet Farm Trainer Jimmy Jones said today.

Jones said the splint "has been building up for some time but there was no soreness in it until his race in the Jersey Stakes here Saturday." The three-year-old colt also won that feature race at Garden State Park.

"We'll just have to watch it and see what happens. These splints are funny things," Jones added.

Douglas Is Low Scorer In P.G.A. Golf Meet

Dave Douglas's one-over-par 72 won top individual honors yesterday in the Eastern Missouri P.G.A. tourney at his home course, the St. Louis Country Club. Frank Keller, Westborough, was second with 74. Rich Craden, St. Louis C.C.; Jim Fogertey, Sunset, and Eddie Johnson, Meadow Brook, were next with 75s.

69—Rich Craden, St. Louis C. C. and George Worley, Scott AFB (35-34).

Vote on Transfer Of Brooklyn Franchise Expected --- Wrigley

CHICAGO, May 28 (AP)—A vote on a franchise shift in the National League "is fully expected," Phil M. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs and vice president of the league, said today before entering a meeting of the circuit's directors.

Wrigley said, however, that the only vote that he knew of that was coming up involved the transfer of the Brooklyn Dodgers to Los Angeles.

"The only thing I know about talk of the Cincinnati Redlegs being shifted to New York and the Giants going to San Francisco is what I've read in the newspapers or heard on the radio," Wrigley said.

"The only thing that I know for sure is about Brooklyn."

Asked if he knew of any club owner who would be against voting for a franchise shift, Wrigley said that he was "not aware of any who would object to a move by Brooklyn." He added:

Wrigley earlier this year paved the way for a Dodger shift to Los Angeles by selling the Brooklyn Club the Wrigley Field in the California city, and the Angels club in the Pacific Coast League.

Los Angeles Expects Announcement in Two Days.

LOS ANGELES, May 28 (AP)—County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, a leader in the drive to bring major league baseball to Los Angeles, said today he expected an announcement within two days that the Brooklyn Dodgers would be here next year.

Hahn said he had talked by telephone with Walter O'Malley, general manager of the Brooklyn team, and while O'Malley couldn't be quoted, Hahn was convinced the announcement is planned.

At a supervisors' meeting this morning Hahn asked that the county engineer report soon on cost of an access road to Chavez Ravine, site of a proposed new ball park. The motion was approved.

Junior Bills Leading In District Golf Play

St. Louis U. High appeared on its way to its fourth straight championship yesterday after its four-man team finished the first half of the St. Louis District High School golf tournament with a lead of 304. Ladue was second with 318.

A 71 by the Junior Billikens' Joe Wolken was the best of the individual 18-hole scores and teammate Bill Cochran was next with 73. Bob Cochran and Bob Hutchins, the other members of the team, got a 75 and an 84 respectively.

Mercy is in third place in the team standings with 326, followed by University City with 327. Eighteen schools are represented in the tourney.

Braves Sign Pitcher.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 28 (UP) — Right-handed pitcher Florian Wittichen Jr. of Memphis, Tenn., has been signed to a 1957 contract with Corpus Christie in the Class B Big State League, the Braves announced.

BASEBALL by Bob Broeg

'Flag That Train, My Pitcher's On It!'

DURING an hour and 42-minute rain delay the other night at a Brooklyn-Cincinnati game, there was considerable pressbox discussion over whether Don Bessent, Dodger relief pitcher, would be included in the box score if the game did not resume. When play was halted, Bessent just had taken the mound for the last of the fifth, with the Reds leading 3-1.

The question became merely academic when the game finally was resumed and Cincinnati, which already had a short-order victory, cuffed Bessent and went on to a regulation-length triumph, 8-1. Jimmy Dykes, the droll little round man who coaches for the Reds, wouldn't let it rest there, though.

Someone remarked that it was a good thing the Dodgers had an open date the following night because the four Brooklyn players who refuse to fly—Carl Furillo, Junior Gilliam, Don Newcombe and Sal Maglie—had missed their late train because of the rain-delayed game.

"Suppose," said Dykes, puffing a cigar the length of Winston Churchill's favorite Havanas, "that Bessent was one of the guys who didn't fly. And since most of us were certain the game wouldn't resume, suppose Walter Alston had told Bessent to go ahead and take that 11:15 train.

"What would have happened when it came time to resume?" Dykes added with a grin. "The rule requires a starting or relieving pitcher to dispose of one batter before he can be replaced.

"Would Brooklyn have had to forfeit—certainly we would have had a bonafide protest—or would we have had to wait for Bessent to be flagged down somewhere en route East?"

Tebbetts' Talk Too Good for Own Good.

THE ONLY reason Cincinnati doesn't have Kirkwood's talented Al Smith, too, is because Birdie Tebbetts, managing Indianapolis, a Cleveland farm club, was too conscientious and too persuasive a few years ago, General Manager Gabe Paul of the Reds remembered.

"We had a deal all set with Cleveland, giving up Hank Foiles, the catcher now with Pittsburgh, for $20,000 or a satisfactory minor league player," said Paul. "Hank Greenberg agreed we could have the kid we asked for, Smith, but Tebbetts, who had the player, talked Greenberg out of it.

"The heck of it is," the Cincy G.M. concluded "that a month later Tebbetts was managing for us—and sorry he'd been so articulate."

H. Roy Hamey, Philadelphia's general manager, says the critical baseball following in the City of Brotherly Love has been smitten by the long-time stand-pat ball club's swing to younger players, such as Bob Bowman, Harry Anderson, Ed Bouchee, Jack Sanford and Don Cardwell. "There's so much interest, I wouldn't be surprised if we finished second to Milwaukee in National League attendance," Hamey maintained.

Three corpulent National League umpires—Bill Jackowski, Stan Landes and Dusty Boggess—reduced a combined 93 pounds last winer. Landes, who blows an official's whistle in the pro basketball league, dropped the most, 40 pounds. . . . When the Dodgers won five of seven in the West, it marked the first time Brooklyn has been over .500 for its first swing through the hinterlands since 1952. . . The lofty Reds waived Rocky Bridges to lowly Washington, but the scrappy, tobacco-chewing reserve infielder left behind an inspiring message pasted on the clubhouse mirror:

"Good luck to the best (censored) ball club in the National League!"

FRED HUTCHINSON has glowed over the recent success of Rene Bertoia, 22-year-old Detroit second baseman who was born in Italy. Hutch, then manager of the Tigers, persuaded the club to make Bertoia a bonus player in 1953. . . . Who hit three home runs in a game more times than any other player? Why, Johnny Mize, on five occasions. . . . The stitching on major league baseballs used by both leagues is now red. Remember when it was red and blue in the American League, red and black in the National?

On the subject of change-ups, Tom Ferrick, Cincinnati pitching coach, said he once saw Boston's Bob Porterfield lose the knack of throwing it for nearly a full season. . . . Tebbetts insisted the Reds could tell recently whenever Johnny Podres was going to pull the string, yet still couldn't hit the artful Brooklyn southpaw, who countered: "Baloney, that's only some of Birdie's high school psychology. He's trying to worry me." . . . However, Al Dark says there are times when Podres does tip off his slick let-up.

What's the fastest doubleheader you ever saw? The Cards and Pirates played one that began at 1:30 and ended at 4:50 in 1932. The opener went on hour and 29 minutes and Pittsburgh won, 7-1, and the 1-hour-31-minute nightcap was won by Dizzy Dean, 7-4.

3-Hitter By Scerba In Final

By Harold Tuthill

There's no mistake about it, this is the year for Suburban League teams. St. Charles recently won the Class L basketball championship and yesterday Ritenour High followed up the Pirates' big moment with its first state baseball title.

Lyle Fisher's Huskies, behind the three-hit pitching of husky Bill Scerba, a junior, defeated Ray De Greeff's well-coached St. Francis Borgia team from Washington, Mo., before a paid crowd of about 1000 at Fairground Park. And, by a coincidence, the final score was 4 to 0, the same tally by which Ritenour and St. Francis marched into the final victories over Beaumont and Brentwood, respectively. Beaumont won the championship a year ago.

Scerba Strong in Clutch.

To the gum-chomping Scerba goes much of the credit for pitching the Fishermen to the title. Although the Knights had men on in every inning except the first and last, the strong-armed righthander kept St. Francis from advancing past second. Scerba ended the game as he opened it—with a strike-out, his sixth of the afternoon. He issued only two walks in gaining his ninth victory against no defeats.

Ritenour's final record of 20 victories, two defeats, surpasses its 1953 high mark of 18-3.

In yesterday's final the Huskies made their move early to gain a two-run lead for Scerba.

Bill Allen opened the second with a walk off losing Pitcher Paul Wessel. Jim Marsden bunted for a sacrifice and was given credit for a scratch hit when he beat the throw to first. Aaron Franzen struck out. Ron Hunt tapped to the pitcher, but Wessel threw over the first baseman's head, Allen scoring. Bill Wessler walked, filling the bases. Marsden scored after Jerry Marting's sacrifice fly and Jack Tipton also flied to Jerry Heller for the third out.

An error paved the way for Ritenour's fifth-inning tally. Bob Butts reached base on a low throw by Bob Noelker and advanced to second as Scerba tapped to the pitcher. Allen rifled a run-scoring shot to center.

In the sixth, a clever piece of base-running by Ritenour's chunky catcher, Franzen, accounted for the final run. Franzen singled and was sacrificed to second. When St. Borgia was a little slow making the play, Franzen continued on to third.

Sacrifice Scores Him, Too.

"Running on a sacrifice hit like that is a favorite play of ours," said Knight Coach De Greeff, moaning. "We should have known better."

Franzen then rode home on Wessler's sacrifice fly to Jasper.

Although St. Francis Borgia lost, the team went farther in tournament play than any other in the history of the 23-year-old school, which has an attendance of 390. "About what Ritenour has in its freshman class," quipped De Greeff. The Ritenour enrollment is about 1250 in the senior high school.

Wessel's defeat was only his second in nine games and St. Francis Borgia finished with a final mark of 16-3.

The championship game was well-scouted by the major leagues and colleges. University of Missouri was represented by three, John (Hi) Simmons, Gerald Hedgepeth and Thornton Jenkins.

Six Winners Run in Same Cahokia Race

Six horses which have won at Cahokia Downs this spring, will face the starter in the six and one-half furlongs sixth race on tonight's eight-race program. They are Agnus Dei, Gallant Answer, Compensator, Ekin, Laydown and Sure Time. Others in the race are Judge Dan, Black Barney and Phil's Last.

In the five furlong eighth race, four previous winners will be in the starting field. They are Old Booty, Skin Junior, Ziggity and Miss Redbird.

Fancy Lea, Skygold and Hasty Reward in the fifth have been in the winner's circle, while Lewis A. D., Endicate and Blendon are seventh race starters which have won.

Former Miss Connolly Mother of Daughter

SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 28 (UP) — Former world tennis champion Maureen Connolly Brinker today became the mother of a 6-pound-9-ounce girl, her first child.

"Little Mo" is the wife of Norman Brinker, San Diego State College student and member of the 1952 United States Olympic equestrian team.

Mrs. Brinker retired from tennis 1954 following a leg injury suffered in an accident.

Morey Wins One Match, Reaches Fourth Round Of British Amateur Golf

FORMBY, England, May 28 (UP)—Dale Morey, highly rated American player, reached the fourth round of the British Amateur golf championship today when he won a second-round match and advanced on a default in the third round.

Morey, from Martinsville, Ind., had drawn a first-round bye. He gained a 4 and 3 victory over Ernest Crimes of England in his first action today.

As the field prepared to begin third-round play, it was announced officially that D. T. Dobie of Kenya, Morey's next opponent, had scratched, putting Morey into the fourth round.

Altogether, five Americans, including Jimmy McHale of Philadelphia and Frank Strafaci of Garden City, N.Y., won second round matches. Four United States players were defeated in this round.

In third round action four Americans survived and three were defeated.

Gene Andrews, former St. Louisan now of Pacific Palisades, Calif., joined Morey in the fourth round with a 3 and 2 victory over William Glennie, England.

Unsuccessful in the afternoon, however, was Strafaci, who became a 4 and 2 victim of Alan Bussell, 20-year-old Scot.

McHale had better luck. He continued the American advance with a one-up third-round triumph over Franco Bevione, Italy.

Master Sergeant Harold B. Ridgeley of Haverford, Pa., an unknown as far as American golf is concerned, gained the fourth United States victory in the third round, beating M. H. Edwards of Britain, 4 and 3.

Bevione, the Italian champion, was 3-up over McHale at one point, but missed a three-foot putt on the ninth hole and two-footer on the tenth which would have put him 5-up. McHale, given new life, sank a 22-foot putt on the eleventh, and Bevione then seemed to lose his superb concentration.

McHale chipped away at Bevione's lead, and won the match by halving the eighteenth hole after taking the lead on the sixteenth.

The weather was sunny and windy for the Double round that will reduce the field to 32 players.

In the morning Strafaci had beaten Cecil Beamish, Northern Ireland, 3 and 2, and McHale, shooting one of the best rounds of the tournament so far, trounced retired British colonel William Armstrong, 7 and 6.

Sandy Sinclair of Scotland beat Richard A. Roos Jr. of San Francisco, 4 and 2. Roos had impressed local observers during practice rounds, but could not match Sinclair today.

Defending Champion John Beharrell of England advanced to the third round with a 2-and-1 victory over his countryman, Theo Cowdy.

In the first major upset of the tournament, Gerald Micklem, veteran Cup player who recently was named non-playing captain of the British Walker Cup team, defeated Joe Carr of Ireland, 3 and 2. Carr had been one of the three co-favorites for the tournament, along with Morey and Arthur Walker of South Africa, at 5 to 1 odds offered by Britain's legalized bookmakers.

British Amateur

SECOND ROUND

Lt. Gene Eyler, Buffalo, N.Y., defeated Charlie Moore, England, 3 and 1.

Maj. David Blair, Scotland, defeated Frank Hedrick, Albany, Ga., 4 and 3.

THIRD ROUND

He'll Bowl Here

STEVE NAGY

STEVE NAGY, who has twice been named "Bowler of the Year," has been added to the roster of the Falstaffs for next season. He is the second national star to be signed. The other was Buzz Fazio, selected as team captain, last week.

Nagy was Bowler of the Year in 1952-53 and 1955-56. The former Birmingham (Mich.) ace has held the national match-game singles title and also won the A.B.C. doubles and all-events titles. He has a 203 average for 10 years of competition in the A.B.C.

The former member of the Pfeiffers of Detroit has rolled 1000 games in all-star competition in which he has compiled a 204 average.

Loeffler Quits Texas Aggies

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., May 28 (UP)—Ken Loeffler, head basketball coach at Texas A. & M. College, under fire from the Southwest Conference for alleged recruiting irregularities, resigned today.

Loeffler said he would quit on condition that he be paid the sum of $7,214.46 due him under his contract, which had about a year to run. A. & M. President, D. W. Williams, agreed to the terms and accepted the resignation.

Loeffler said his resignation "is in no way a confession of guilt of charges which have been made against me by the (Southwest) Conference."

Bears Defeat Harris, 14-5

With Don Polkinghorne, Dallon Maxvil and Don Kettlekamp each getting three hits, the Washington U. baseball team gained a 14-5 victory over Harris Teachers College.

It was the Bears' fourteenth victory against three defeats.

Elmer (Red) Koestner, one of the three Washington hurlers to get into the game, hit a two-run triple in the 15-hit assault against three Harris hurlers.

Remember? 5...15...25 YEARS AGO

1952—A score of 278 or 280 should win the Western Open here this week at Westwood, said Lloyd Mangrum. . . . Sal Maglie blanked Brooklyn, 3 to 0, for his ninth straight victory and second shutout over the Dodgers, prompting Leo Durocher to say enthusiastically, "This guy is even better than Old Pete Alexander. His curve is better and his fast ball is just as good, though it doesn't dip down as much. Like Alex, The Barber is a master of control and never quits thinking out there." . . . The Browns hadn't scored a run in 34 innings for Ned Garver, a 3-0 victim of Saul Rogovin and the White Sox.

1942—The University of Missouri announced that Memorial Stadium, saddled with indebtedness since it was completed in 1927, will become debt-free on July 1. A $70,000 profit in the Sugar Bowl helped.

1932—Rip Collins, young Cardinal first baseman, and Babe Ruth, veteran Yankee slugger, each hit his twelfth home run. . . . Bryan Winter retained his St. Louis district golf title by beating 19-year-old Bob Cochran, 4 and 3. . . . United States won the North American zone finals of the Davis Cup by taking three straight matches from Australia. Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn defeated Jack Crawford and Harry Hopman in the doubles after Ellsworth Vines Jr., beat Crawford in singles play.

Cathedral League Champion.

Final standings in the Catholic League showed Belleville Cathedral the league champion with an 8-0 record. Chaminade was second with 5-2, followed by Duchesne 4-4, Marquette 3-4, St. Francis de Sales 2-6 and St. John's 1-7. Cathedral won 20 of its 21 league games in all sports—football, basketball and baseball.

Miss Cantaline Repeats as WIBC All-Events Champ

DAYTON, O., May 28 (AP)—Anita Cantaline of Detroit, a former National All-Star champion, repeated the trick this year to become champion in the all-events of the Women's International Bowling Congress tournament.

Eleanore Towles of Peoria, Ill., is the winner of the singles event and Nellie Vella and Jeannette Grzelak of Rockford, Ill., are champions in the doubles event.

Miss Cantaline took all-events with a nine-game total of 1859. She and Mrs. Bowles, who won the singles event with 664, each earned $150 in prize money and a championship medal.

Mrs. Vella and Miss Grzelak, in winning the doubles event with 1218, received a total of $300 and a championship medal.

Miss Mary Harman of Cincinnati, won a special $50 prize for bowling 274 yesterday, the highest singles game of the tournament.

St. Louis bowlers did not crack the leaders in the individual events as the tourney closed yesterday.

Beaumont Nine In Three Loop Games in Week

Beaumont (6-0) will try to wrap up its Public High League baseball season with three games this week, the first this afternoon against Southwest at Fairground No. 6.

Other games today are Roosevelt vs. Central at Fairground No. 5 and O'Fallon at Cleveland.

McKinley meets O'Fallon tomorrow at Cherokee Park, so Beaumont would almost have to play Sumner then, leaving Friday open for the Beaumont-McKinley contest.

Beaumont's postponed game with Soldan most likely will be forgotten and not included in the final standings.

Cleveland and Roosevelt had their title hopes chilled yesterday, the Dutchmen losing to Central, 5 to 2, and the Rough Riders to O'Fallon, 9 to 8. McKinley also was cooled off by Southwest, 4-0, as Bill Wagoner spun a two-hit shutout.

Leroy Edwards also won a two-hitter for Central as teammate Rogers Robinson chipped in with a two-run homer.

O'Fallon won its game in the tenth after Don Chrisco led off with a single and stole second. There he was sacrificed to third and tallied after Ray Bladdick fouled to the first baseman.

DeAndreis C.A.C. Winner.

DeAndreis High School has been declared the winner of the Catholic Athletic Conference baseball championship by agreement of the principals and coaches of the six schools in the circuit. The group decided to accept as final the standings at the time the recent rains interrupted the schedule. DeAndreis won seven games and lost one during the conference season.

C.Y.C. Stars Will Have to Guard Mochan, Celtic Player With 'The Cannon-Ball Shot'

By Dent McSkimming

Among the many problems facing the local C.Y.C. soccer stars who play Glasgow Celtic here tomorrow night is the matter of contriving a defense against one Neal Mochan.

NEAL MOCHAN, inside left of the Glasgow Celtic soccer team, who scored all six of his team's goal in victories at Philadelphia and New York last Saturday and Sunday. He will try to add to his surprising goal total against St. Louis C.Y.C. players at Public Schools Stadium tomorrow night.

The advance publicity material sent from Glasgow covering Celtic squad members described Mochan as "The man with the cannon-ball shot," but did not single him out as the star of stars. More famous Bobby Evans and Bob Collins got many more paragraphs of praise. These two had been selected to represent Scotland in international competition; Mochan was listed as an alternate forward.

But, see what has happened in Celtic's games last weekend at Philadelphia and New York! Celtic beat Uhriks, 4-0, and defeated Hapoel of Israel, 2-1. All six goals were scored by Mochan.

If he lines up here at inside left, as he did in those games in the East, Mochan will be shadowed by young Ed Quigley, whose C.Y.C. league team was St. Pius. He'll be at right halfback for the St. Louis team. It's a fairly safe guess that Coach Bob Guelker will instruct his inside right, Hal Roberson, to play a deep, defensive pattern to help Quigley in his tussles with Mochan of the bullet shot.

While Mochan monopolized the scoring in the two recent games there is plenty of evidence that other Celtic forwards in tomorrow's game will be just as dangerous. Collins, for example, scored two goals for Scotland a week ago in its 3-1 victory over Germany at Munich. That may be more significant than Mochan's four against Uhriks.

The records show that Center Forward Billy McPhail has outscored all his mates through the Scottish League season. So, there's another threat. It looks as though St. Louis goalie Herman Valli may be a busy individual in the game at Public Schools Stadium.

The Celtic squad arrived at Lambert St. Louis Airport this morning and the two international selectees, coming from Madrid (Evans and Collins) were due later in the day. The squad will make Hotel Kingsway its headquarters, remaining until Thursday noon. It is due to fly to Vancouver for a Saturday night game.

Team manager Jimmy McGrory and some of his players will demonstrate soccer fundamentals at a clinic at Carondelet Park this evening at 7:30. C.Y.C. officials hope that all their league coaches and many players will attend as well as any other soccer players and team managers interested.

After a brief workout at Fraiground Park last evening, Coach Bob Guelker and his staff agreed that his players are as physically fit as hard training can make them.

Game time is 8:30 with two brief preliminary games involving kid teams.

Staunton Wins.

Staunton defeated Salem, 4 to 2, in an Illinois state high school baseball game at Staunton, Ill., yesterday.

Bowlers Awards Dinner.

The awards dinner of the Public School Playground Mothers Bowling Association was held today at the Kingsway Hotel. Harrison No. 1 won the team title, with Kennard No. 4 finishing second. Individual trophies will go to Earline Troup and Arline Stankus.

Arizonan Who Topped 15 Feet To Vault in Marine Meet Here

Leave it to the Marines to do a job thoroughly, once they put their minds to it. Last year they backed Ron Gregory, St. Louis's outstanding prep miler, with a trip to the Olympic tryouts and this year they are bringing the nation's outstanding high school pole vaulter here for the Olympic fund track meet.

The vault star is Jim Brewer of North Phoenix (Ariz.) High, whose best vault has been 15 feet, one-half inch. Just last week he competed with such standouts as Bob Gutowski, Bob Richards and Ron Morris and came off with a tie for third place at 14 feet, six inches.

Another prize landed by the Marines for their third annual carnival is Melvin Rogers, the one-man gang from Fairfax (Mo.) High who is an early choice to capture decathlon honors. In the Class C indoor meet last March, Rogers won four events and set meet records in two. He ran the 60-yard dash in a record 6.5 seconds and went 11 feet, 9¾ inches for a new pole vault mark. Rogers also won the high jump at 5-10½ and the broad jump at 20 feet, 10¾ inches.

Rogers, who attended the buffet supper last night at the Kingsway, will not go into action until Thursday afternoon when the decathlon events start. Brewer won't have to compete until Friday's night finals, because there will be no preliminaries in the pole vault.

Preliminaries at the Public Schools Stadium in some open events are scheduled today starting at 4:30 o'clock. No trials will be held in the pole vault, high jump and mile run.

William Sanders of Vashon is the only top man in two events. He ran 19.9 in the low hurdles and went 23 feet, 6½ inches in the broad jump.

Terry Turner's 9.9 recorded in the East St. Louis relays stood up as the best mark of the season in the 100-yard dash. Richard Byas of Crystal City, the Soldan flash's No. 1 competitor, has a best time of 10 seconds flat.

Leading the 880-yard run group is Gerold White of Centralia, Ill., the only one under two minutes. His best time was 1:59.2. Bob Hannekan of Union has the best time in the mile, 4:28.1, followed by Joe Schroeder of Granite City (4:34.9) and Wayne Imes of Vashon (4:35.1).

Fred Brady of Hadley is the speediest in the low hurdles, with 14.9, followed by Avondus Jackson of East St. Louis and Paul Knese of Chaminade, 15.1 seconds. In the highs, Sanders is No. 1 followed by Byas and Warren McKean of St. Clair, both clocked at 22.2 seconds.

BUENOS AIRES, May 28 (AP).

In addition, Juventus will have to pay Sivori $50,000 personally.

Kriegshausers to Play Chicago Junior Stars

Kriegshauser Junior soccer club departs tomorrow for Chicago where it will oppose a Chicago District all-star Junior team in an exhibition match Thursday. Manager Harry Desmuke said his team, western Junior champion, was selected for this game because of its victory over Chicago's Junior Schwaben team here about a month ago. The Memorial day game will be a feature of the Chicago Junior Sports day program at Winnemac Stadium.

Redlegs Gain 15th Straight Road Victory, Beating Braves

MILWAUKEE, May 28 (AP)—Winning on the road and hanging on to pocket extra-inning games may not guarantee Cincinnati a pennant—but it doesn't figure to hurt the Redlegs either.

The Redlegs, looking more and more like champs, combined those two knacks to finally knock off Milwaukee's slipping Braves last night, twice shrugging off blown leads for an explosive, five-run tenth inning that produced an 11-6 victory.

It was the first of the season for Cincinnati against the Braves, who had beaten the Redlegs seven in a row, counting one at the tail end of last season and it stretched Cincy's winning streak on the road to 15 games, just two shy of the major league record hung up by the 1917 New York Giants.

The Redlegs haven't lost on the road since April 21, when the Braves completed a three-game sweep at Milwaukee to hang a fourth defeat on then winless Cincinnati.

The extra-inning victory, the fourth of the season for the Redlegs, who have won every overtime session they've had to play so far, kept Cincinnati two games ahead of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who beat Philadelphia, 5-1, on Don Drysdale's two-hit pitching. Milwaukee, with seven defeats in 10 games, fell three and one-half games behind in third. The Cardinals, with Stan Musial 3-for-5, belted Chicago's Cubs, 6-2, in the only other game scheduled.

Athletics Drub Leaders.

In the American, the pesky Kansas City Athletics thumped first-place Chicago, 7-1, trimming the White Sox's lead to two games. The second-place New York Yankees wallcped Boston, 17-6, and Detroit pushed Cleveland into third, 11-5. Washington defeated Baltimore, 3-2, in 11 innings in completing a game suspended April 21, then shelled the Orioles, 10-6, in a regularly scheduled contest.

The Redlegs, only 10-9 in their own chummy Crosley Field, but 15-3 on the road, also got around to whacking Lew Burdette, the Milwaukee righthander, who had whipped the Redlegs nine times in a row since 1955. Burdette escaped defeat, however, with an eighth-inning home run by Hank Aaron and a ninth-inning shot by Del Crandall tying it at 6-all.

But Cincinnati hustled back to rock reliever Ernie Johnson, with a pinch single by Smoky Burgess scoring the clincher. Pinch-runner Hal Jeffcoat and Milwaukee's Johnny Logan got into a scrap when Jeffcoat slid into the infielder at third base, setting off a rush of players from both benches. Jeffcoat and Logan were thrown out, but the Redlegs added three more runs before the Braves could put down the uprising which gave Hersh Freeman the victory in relief.

To hear the players tell it, the fight between Logan and Jeffcoat was a typical baseball brawl — no punches were thrown.

Only Manager Birdie Tebbetts of Cincinnati would say he saw a punch land in the tenth inning of the Redlegs-Braves game.

The two combatants and those nearest the point of contact, third base, didn't feel or see any flailing fists. They apparently remembered that the National League office looks askance at this sort of thing.

Just One of Those Things.

"He didn't hit me," said Jeffcoat. "You don't see any lumps. Do you? It was just body contact. Everybody was trying to pull everybody apart. It was just one of those flareups. I don't know exactly what happened."

"I don't think anybody got in a punch," Logan commented. "It happened so quickly—that was it."

The Phillies got just two singles off Drysdale, both in the second inning as Ed Bouchee and Joe Lonnett connected for the run. Duke Snider's two-run homer broke a 1-1 tie and Gino Cimoli's two-run jolt wrapped up Drysdale's fourth victory—and Robin Roberts's sixth defeat.

The Athletics, fresh from a three-game sweep of the Tigers, got started against the Sox and Jim Wilson with Lou Skixas's seventh home run, added a pair of unearned markers and then bagged it with a four-run sixth that included a two-run single by Vic Power. It was Wilson's second defeat, while Alex Kellner worked a seven-hitter for his second victory and first complete game of the season.

Bill Skowron hit a two-run homer and two-run single for the Yankees at Fenway Park, where he's unloaded five of his six home runs this season. The Yankees had 13 hits, three of them two-baggers by Hank Bauer.

A double by Al Kaline, three walks, a squeeze bunt and a two-run single by winning reliever Paul Foytack brought the Tigers four runs in the seventh against loser Early Wynn, making his first relief appearance of the year.

Jim Lemon's home run won the April 21 completion for the Senators, who had led, 2-1, when the lights failed last month. Lemon then drove in four runs with a homer and sacrifice in the regularly scheduled game, won by Truman Clevenger, who hadn't managed a decision in 34 games with the Nats over two seasons.

Four Tie for Lead In Tri-State Trial

PITTSBURGH, May 28 (AP)—Two Western Pennsylvanians and a pair of West Virginians all shot even par totals of 142 to tie for first place and capture the four Tri-State sectional places in the National P.G.A. golf tournament at Dayton, O., beginning July 17.

A field of 43 competed over the 6373-yard par 36-35—71 Green Oaks course. Host pro Joby Conor had 74 and a sizzling three under par 68 and Art Doering of Pittsburgh Field Club, had a pair of 71s.

Veteran Rut Coffey of Moundsville, Va., turned in 70-72—142 and Mike Krak, new pro at Lake View Country Club, near Morgantown, W. Va., had the same combination.

Lew Worshman, who has been bothered by a bad back, picked up on the 35th hole after missing a short putt. He had 74 on his first 18 holes.

WHAT'S THE BIG ATTRACTION IN THE SOUTH?

WHY IS IT that industries of all kinds are being drawn to the Southland today from every direction? There are many reasons, of course. But we think the biggest attraction of all is an intangible thing, not easy to define...

It is the sincere hospitality with which the entire town greets a new industry in its midst, making the newcomer feel right at home.

It's the way the men and women of the community so readily adapt to the specific needs of the "new plant in town"... quickly and willingly learning new skills... eagerly giving a full day's work in return for a fair day's pay.

It's the friendly, unselfish spirit of men and women in all walks of life who are genuinely proud of their home town and want to help it grow and prosper in every way they can.

Time and again it has been shown that the people of the South don't stop at just wanting new industries to locate in their community. They work at it to get them—then go out of their way to keep them happy in their new home. This is the big attraction in the South. And all in the Southland benefit!

BILL WOULD BAR FEDERAL LOANS BELOW U.S. RATE

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—Senator Styles Bridges (Rep.), New Hampshire, quoted President Eisenhower as saying today the Administration was preparing legislation to block future loans by federal agencies at interest rates lower than the Government itself pays.

Bridges said Republican congressional leaders were told the proposed legislation would affect directly 2 per cent loans made by the Rural Electrification Administration and other agencies.

Bridges, who heads the Senate Republican policy committee, quoted Mr. Eisenhower as saying the proposed bill already had been approved by the Budget Bureau and now is before the Treasury for its review.

"It is indefensible for Government agencies to make 2 per cent loans when the Government itself has to pay an average of about 3½ per cent to borrow money," Bridges told reporters. "This 2 per cent rate was set by law at a time when the Government was getting its money at a much cheaper rate."

Bridges said some of the impetus for the bill came from a recent application by the Hoosier Energy Co-operative, Inc., of Shelbyville, Ind., for a $42,000,000 oan to build a generating plant.

Republican leaders were reportedly told at a White House conference with Mr. Eisenhower that the Indiana group proposed to build a plant which not only would supply REA subscribers but would sell power to private industrial concerns.

Bridges said there was discussion at the conference of the effect of permitting a REA plant to sell industrial power at a lower cost than competing plants could obtain it.

3 NATIONS ANSWER SYRIA COMPLAINT ON ISRAEL IN U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., May 28 (UP)—The United Nations Security Council today held its second session on Syria's complaint that Israel's construction of the Huleh bridge violates the 1949 armistice agreement and is a threat to peace.

Britain, Australia and Cuba argued that the council must support the finding of Col. Byron V. Leary (United States Marine Corps), acting chief of staff of the U.N. Palestine truce supervision organization, that the bridge was constructed for peaceful purposes and there was no justification for ordering its removal.

Iraqi Ambassador Moussa Al-Shabandar, opening the debate, said the issue "is really a test case to show if the council will condone further Israeli violations. . . . or will halt the drift toward further appeasement of Israel."

TELLS WHAT FLOOD PLAN FOR CITY WOULD ACCOMPLISH

The proposed St. Louis flood protection project would guard 2600 acres of concentrated industrial development and 800 acres of relatively undeveloped land against floods up to 52 feet on the gauge, Col. George E. White, Army district engineer, said in a speech yesterday.

Col. White addressed the luncheon meeting of the St. Louis Section, American Society of Civil Engineers, at the York Hotel. The 52-foot reading on the gauge was recorded in St. Louis's greatest flood, in 1844.

Col. White described the $131,000,000 project, which has been authorized, but for which only $500,000 for planning has been allotted by Congress. Funds needed to bring the planning to a point where the first construction contract can be let are sought in the budget now before Congress, he said.

mament problem, but as the President and Secretary of State Dulles see it, the important thing is to make a modest beginning rather than arguing endlessly for a perfect and total solution.

Dulles, who himself had serious reservations about making more concessions in this field, finally argued that the thing to do was avoid complicated agreements involving deep-seated European controversies. Concentrate on "the possible," he advised, for even a most modest beginning will be difficult to negotiate.

Consequently that is what Stassen has been instructed to do, and the paradox of it is that the Russians, apparently unaware of the difficulty of getting any agreement here on even a limited compromise, are still arguing that Mr. Eisenhower's plan does not go far enough.

As most observers here see it, the Russians have misjudged the disaramament problem. They have made great propaganda out of the unwillingness of the United States to agree to end the H-bomb tests in advance of a foolproof inspection system, but they are left with the arms race which is even more difficult for their weaker economy to carry than it is for the United States.

Moreover, the feeling here is that nobody but the President has sufficient influence to win consent here for even the most limited arms compromise with the Russians. He, and probably he alone, can stand out against the combination of Pentagon and congressional pressure against such an agreement. Even he will have difficulty in winning consent for another compromise if this one is rejected in Moscow.

Development of a new air-to-surface missile, the Bullpup, for use by light Navy attack planes against enemy supply lines was described in a speech today by Vice Adm. William V. Davis Jr., deputy chief of Naval Operations for Air, at the Aviation Writers Association convention.

The convention delegates, whose headquarters are at Hotel Chase, visited Kansas City today to hear Adm. Davis's talk and to inspect aviation installations there. Adm. Davis was to speak at the Muehlebach Hotel.

The Bullpup, developed by the Martin Co. of Baltimore, is a weapon about 11 feet long and weighs 600 pounds. It will be suitable for carrier-based Navy operations and shore-based Marine Corps use against such targets as tanks and truck convoys.

In his talk Adm. Davis said the missile is undergoing Navy evaluation and will be introduced as a service weapon to the fleet.

Conceived in Korean War.

"The Bullpup missile," he said, "is designed to be launched from any position outside effective range of enemy high-volume ground fire and to provide sufficient accuracy to destroy small targets without excessive sorties and expenditures of large quantities of bombs and rockets."

The Bullpup, he said, was conceived in the Korean war. Pilots, flying sorties against small targets, were harassed by enemy small arms and automatic ground fire.

The speaker also described missile launching from submarines, with which he said the United States now could reach targets in 90 per cent of the Eurasion land mass. Navigation developments now permit a submarine to pinpoint a target without surfacing "and deliver its missile with accuracy," Adm. Davis told the writers.

Sparrow III and Polaris.

He also touched briefly on the capabilities of the Sparrow III missile, described as having a speed in excess of 1500 miles an hour, and the Polaris. Adm. Davis described the latter as "unusual, small and lighter than other missiles, but just as good." Designed for launching from ships, the Polaris has a range of 1500 miles, the admiral said.

In a talk at Kansas City's new Midcontinent International Airport, 18 miles north of the city, Carter Burgess, president of Trans World Airlines, called for higher plane fares and strong national leadership "to keep the United States abreast of international aviation competition."

Speaking at TWA's new overhaul base, Burgess said his company was seeking military contracts for the overhaul of engines of military transport planes. The TWA president told the writers that such an arrangement could be financially beneficial to both the company and the Government.

TWO SMALL CHILDREN HURT IN SEPARATE AUTO ACCIDENTS

Two small children were in hospitals here today suffering from injuries suffered yesterday when they were struck by automobiles near their homes in separate accidents.

Joann Schneider, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silverius Schneider, 3223 Illinois avenue, suffered a fractured skull and other injuries when she ran into the street near her home and was struck. The car was driven by Charles Rodebaugh, 5534 Easton avenue, police said. She is in City Hospital.

Peter Williams, 4, son of Mrs. Alberta Williams, 4019 Aldine aevnue, was struck in front of his home. The driver, Sidney Wishne, 732 Westgate avenue, said he did not see the child, but stopped when he heard a thud against the side of his machine. Peter was taken to Homer G. Phillips Hospital suffering a fractured skull.

MISSOURI WOMAN, TEXAS MAN 'TEACHERS OF YEAR'

NEW YORK, May 28 (UP)—Mrs. Mary Field Schwarz of Independence, Mo., and Guy Bizzell, of Austin, Tex., were named "teacher of the year" today in the annual contest sponsored by McCall's Magazine and the United States Office of Education.

The two teachers, first co-winners in the six years of the award, will meet President Eisenhower at the White House today.

Mrs. Schwarz teaches third grade at Bristol school in Independence. Bizzell is teacher of speech and English at A. N. McCallum High School, Austin.

11 OF 12 MONTESI DEFENDANTS FREED

VENICE, Italy, May 28. (UP)—A three-man tribunal yesterday acquitted Gianpiero Piccioni and 10 of the 11 other defendants in the trial growing out of the death of a pretty Roman party girl.

The court refused to rule Wilma Montesi, whose half-nude body was found on a beach near Rome April 11, 1953, died an accidental death. It thus left the doors open for possible future prosecutions in the case.

The decision proved an anticlimactic finish to the scandal which rocked Italy and became a prime political football for the Communists and neo-Fascists.

Attilio Piccioni resigned as Foreign Minister when his son's name was linked to the affair. The elder Piccioni is now Italy's chief delegate to the United Nations.

The judges' decision, reached early today after some seven hours deliberation, came as no surprise. The prosecution itself had called for the acquittal of the three major defendants, the 35-year-old Piccioni, the self-styled "Marquis" Ugo Montagna, and former Rome police chief, Saverio Polito.

The jazz-loving Piccioni had been accused of manslaughter in Miss Montesi's death; the other two were charged with trying to cover up the facts.

All three were acquitted as were eight minor defendants charged with false testimony and withholding information.

The only person convicted was model Adriana Bisaccia, who was given a 10 months suspended sentence for "fabricating a crime." She was found guilty for telling police she was drugged and kidnapped by a mysterious group she hinted was led by Montagna.

UNITARIAN CHURCH OFFICERS

Elmer W. Pounds, 6719 Oleatha avenue, has been elected president of the board of trustees of the First Unitarian Church, 5007 Waterman avenue, it was announced today.

New Stadium in Shanghai.

HONG KONG, May 28 (AP)—Shanghai's race course, once the finest in the Far East, is getting its capitalistic face lifted. The Peiping radio says a new stadium big enough to hold 6000 spectators was opened on part of the course. It is flanked by indooor gymnasiums for wrestling, boxing and other sports.

BECK IS SUBPENAED BY NEW GRAND JURY

SEATTLE, May 28 (AP)—A subpena ordering Dave Beck to appear before the King county (Seattle) grand jury was served on the international Teamsters Union president yesterday.

The subpena, one of 15 issued by the newly impaneled jury, directs Beck to appear June 17 when the jury opens a full investigation ~~of the~~ Teamsters Union and some of its leaders.

The jury was called by the King county superior court bench last March after the Senate rackets committee, in public hearings in Washington, heard testimony as to possible misuse of Teamsters Union funds by Beck and other leaders.

Beck took the Fifth Amendment more than 200 times in two appearances before the committee.

Grand jury investigators served the subpena on Beck at his home. Special grand jury prosecutor William F. Devin said earlier Beck had agreed to accept the subpena.

Newsmen who accompanied the investigators to Beck's home said the husky union leader appeared in his shortsleeves at the door, accepted the papers and firmly closed the door. He made no comment.

placing them with other Republicans and also will be under pressure to appoint many others to federal judgeships, valued for their life tenures.

Two Atomic Energy Commission vacancies also are coming up. Here the policy issue is whether the Government must help finance development of peaceful atomic power. The joint congressional atomic committee has legislation to this effect now pending. AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss is adamantly opposed, and Strauss alone of the commission, which is supposed to consist of five equals and no principal officer, has the President's ear.

Unquestionably TVA has lost much of the general support in Congress it once enjoyed. The real fight will come on the Strauss suggestions to the President for the AEC vacancies.

U.S. Developing Acute Shortage Of Brainpower in All Fields

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON, May 28 (UP)—The United States is developing an acute shortage of brainpower.

Government officials report that the national deficiency in "creative" talent, which first showed up in science and engineering, now extends through the whole range of business and professional skills.

It is reflected in the $100,000,000 a year that industry is spending on "executive development" programs . . . in the frantic scramble for technological specialists of every kind . . . in the feverish efforts of many small towns to attract a resident physician . . . in the empty pulpits of thousands of churches . . . in the lack of qualified teachers at every level of education from kindergarten through the university graduate schools . . . in the starting salaries of $4000 a year and up that are being offered to this year's college graduates.

Demand for Leaders.

Officials emphasize that the demand is not merely for more trained specialists but for "real leaders."

"In practically every single occupational field," said Seymour L. Wolfbein, manpower chief of the Department of Labor, "we find a great need for people at the top levels of knowledge, skill and creativity."

How did a brainpower shortage develop in the nation which has the most extensive public education system the world has ever seen?

One explanation is that the unusually low United States birth rate of the 1930s is now being reflected in the number of young people who graduate from college into business and the professions.

Another major reason is that technological progress and economic growth have tremendously increased the nation's need for highly trained personnel. Labor Department studies show that we got along with 4,200,000 professional and managerial workers in 1910. This year we have about 12,000,000, and by 1975 we will need an estimated 18,000,000.

Although the number of trained specialists available for these jobs has risen steadily and sharply in recent years, the rise has not been fast enough to keep up with demand. For example, the National Science Foundation reports that the number of engineering graduates this June will be 34,000, an increase of 7000 over last year. The demand for new engineers this year is estimated at about 65,000.

Effect of Automation.

Antomation has reduced the need of some industries for unskilled labor, but it has created a brand-new type of manpower shortage. We need, right now, about 150,000 more people who know how to operate electronic brains.

Another reason for the brainpower shortage is the failure or inability of thousands of promising students to complete their education.

Many Government officials and educators are appalled by United States Office of Education figures showing that only about half of the high school graduates who rank scholastically in the top quarter of their class go on to college. The other half, who could profit equally well from higher education, quit school to take a job or get married.

Decrying this "needless waste of a large part of the finest talent in each generation," Senator Joseph S. Clark (Dem.), Pennsylvania, recently introduced a bill to provide $100,000,000 a year in federal scholarships for bright youths who can't afford to go to college.

Another appalling statistic from the United States Office of Education shows that 40 per cent of all high school students drop out before graduation.

In an effort to plug this great "leak" of potential brainpower, the Federal Government is currently enlisting the aid of newspapers, broadcasting stations and civic groups in a nationwide campaign in August to persuade high school students to "stay in school."

Higher Earnings.

One point which will be stressed in this campaign: The average high school graduate can count on lifetime earnings at least $50,000 greater than the average "drop-out." (The value of a college degree in terms of lifetime earning power is estimated at more than $100,000.)

Those who conclude that more and better education is the only answer to the brainpower shortage immediately run into the fact that one of our most serious shortages is in teachers, particularly highly-qualified teachers who can serve on college faculties or teach science and mathematics in high school.

"Teachers are the seed-corn for all the rest of the professions," said Elvis Stahr, executive director of President Eisenhower's Committee on Education Beyond the High School. "The teacher shortage is the key to the whole problem."

The supply of trained teachers for elementary and high schools has been gradually increasing in recent years, partly as a result of improved teaching salaries. The United States office of Education estimates that the "net deficit" of qualified teachers was reduced from 180,000 in 1956 to about 140,000 this year.

Higher up the education ladder, colleges report extreme difficulty in attracting and holding top-flight men for faculty posts.

"Gifted teachers are deserting the college campuses in droves to take the much higher salaries that are dangled before them by business and industry," said Dr. Herman B. Wells, president of Indiana University and chairman of the Educational Policies Commission.

Wells noted that his commission has urged an "emergency drive" to double college faculty salaries within the next 10 years.

Unless this is done, he said, "we will have second-rate teachers for the oncoming generation of college students.

"Then we will really have a brainpower shortage."

HOUSEWIFE SEEKS CANCER FUNDS IN COLORADO HILLS

CONIFER, Colo., May 28 (UP)—A young woman is making a lonely journey on horseback across the rugged Colorado hills for the Cancer Crusade.

Mrs. Barbara Wilson is riding through Jefferson County to ask isolated ranchers for contributions. This is the third year the young housewife has made the 75-mile trek through sparsely settled mountain country some 8000 miles above sea level.

Barbara expects to visit at least 25 families this year.

Starting point for the trip will be the 60-acre ranch Barbara and her husband, Bob, own in Conifer. She rides alone on the crusade now, but in 1960, she has promised to let her two sons, age 5 and 8, ride with her.

This year, the town has set $22,000 as its goal. "We'll make it," Barbara said, "but we've got to ride fast and hard to collect the dollar bills in them thar hills."

NEW STOCK SETBACK, THEN A LATE RALLY

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, May 28 (UP)—Stocks met support in the late trading today after another decline had reduced prices in the main list.

(Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 1.49 points lower at 497.72 at the close. The 20 rails rose .06 of a point to 145.10, while the 15 utilities dropped .16 to 74.04.)

(Standard and Poor's 500-stock index closed .09 of a point lower at 46.69. The 425 industrials were off .12 at 50.02, the 25 rails off .07 at 30.08 and the 50 utilities off .05 at 34.03.)

At the lows the industrial average was at a new low since May 9, the decline mainly attributable to losses of 1 to more than 2 points in a few key issues. Du Pont, off more than 3 at its low, regained nearly all the decline.

Rallying tendencies, accompanied by light turnover, helped bring several other issues back from their lows.

The early decline was smaller than yesterday's and also was on dull trading.

Several issues fell a point to more than 2 points, but these stocks were outside the group making up the averages. The drop was seen as an adjustment in the general list after a prolonged rise from the year's lows set on Feb. 12.

Douglas Aircraft at its low was off 4 points. Corning Glass, last week's sensation when it rose 20 points, was down more than 5 points at its worst.

There were several strong spots, including Brunswick Balke, Underwood, and International Business Machines, up 2 or more. The last rallied smartly after a drop to a new low. General Tire, International Salt, Lukens Steel, and Reynolds Metals rose a point or better.

The Associated Press reported that of 1,174 issues traded, declines outnumbered advances by 540 to 373. There were 13 new 1957 highs as against 67 new lows.

Volume totaled 2,070,000 shares compared with 2,290,000 yesterday.

SCRUGGS SHOWS $1.32 A SHARE FOR 9 MONTHS

Scruggs Vandervoort Barney Inc. reported nine months earnings of $939,161 equivalent to $1.32 a common share on sales of $47,402,315, compared with $888,144 or $1.23 a share on sales of $46,340,771 for the comparable period last year.

The sales increase amounted to 2.4 per cent and earnings 5.7 per cent.

Directors declared the regular 15 cents a share common stock dividend, payable July 1 to record June 19.

Latest News From World Of Business

WEST VIRGINIA PULP & Paper Co., earnings for the first half of fiscal year 1957 dropped 36 per cent from like period last year, while sales dipped three per cent, the company reported. Earnings for the six months ended April 30 were $5,846,000 equal to $1.13 per share, compared with $9,129,000 or $1.79 a share in the corresponding period of 1956. Sales amounted to $92,988,000 compared with the all-time peak of $95,555,000 for the first six months of fiscal 1956. David L. Luke Jr., said the decline in earnings reflected in part the extent of the cost-price squeeze being experienced generally in the paper industry.

Luke also said a market lull had reduced operating ratios of several of the company's six mills to as low as 85 per cent of capacity. A third factor, he said, was the inability of the Mechanicville, N.Y., mill, due to market conditions, to regain full momentum after a four-month strike which carried into the current fiscal year.

PRICE OF SILVER dropped ½ cent to 90⅞ cents Tuesday, marking the first change in the metal's price since last October, when it rose from 91 cents to 91⅜ cents. Trade sources said the cut was due to an excess supply caused by a considerable cut in the amount of silver taken off the market by foreign buyers. Domestic demand is still good, these sources said.

EARNINGS OF HOUDAILLE Industries, Inc., in the first half of 1957 are expected to exceed the $1,286,000, or 85 cents a share, in the first half last year, President Ralph Peo reported at the annual meeting.

NORTH AMERICAN AVIATION, Inc., declared a regular quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share on 8,017,077 shares of capital stock, payable July 8 to record June 24. The company, now in the third quarter of its fiscal year, declared dividends of 40 cents a share in the first and second quarters.

MAY STORES CO. QUARTER SALES A NEW RECORD

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—The May Department Stores Co. had record first quarter sales and prospects are for "a continued trend upward in sales over the balance of the year," Morton J. May, chairman, reported at the annual meeting.

May said sales for the three months ended April 30 amounted to $111,619,000, a gain of 2.6 per cent over the $108,772,000 in same quarter last year. He reported net income was expected to show an increase over the $2,424,000 or 36 cents a share in the first quarter of 1956.

He said sales should be favorably affected by the opening in the fall of two major branch stores at West Covina, Calif. and University Heights, Cleveland, Ohio. May also noted the company's Akron store, the M. O'Neil Co., has new branches this year in the acquisition in February of the Erlanger Dry Goods Co., Canton.

Stockholders elected one new director—Frank W. Clark Jr., an executive of the company in Los Angeles.

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—The bond market was lower in quiet trading late today. Industrials staged a mild rally to recoup most of their earlier losses. Rails, utilities and investment quality issues continued on the downside.

U. S. Government bonds were steady and quiet over-the-counter.

Steady retreat of corporate bond prices has sent the interest rates for top grade new issues past the 5 per cent level.

Latest blow to reeling underwriters is the slow sale of $70,000,000 of New York Telephone Co. bonds, rated triple-A, on a 4.4 per cent yield basis. The coupon rate of the $50,000,000 of Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. mortgage bonds out today is 5¼ per cent.

The latest issue of the treasury's short-term bills sold at a price equivalent to an average yield of 3.245 per cent—a sharp rise for the second consecutive week. Last week a similar issue of 91-day bills sold at a rate of 3.122 per cent.

AIR CONDITIONING OUTLOOK

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP).

THE AIR CONDITIONING INDUSTRY enters its big selling season with hopes of setting its eighth straight sales and output record. Its two chief fears: A cool summer and a continuing lag in home building.

As for profits—that troublesome problem of recent years—the remaining companies and dealers in the field hope for better days.

Sam Dawson

In the fast-growing postwar years the industry went through the usual stages of attracting more newcomers and making more coolers than there were customers to go around. Inventory gluts and price cutting led a number of makers to drop out. Survivors say that present inventories of about 500,000 room cooling units in high but manageable.

TOTAL RETAIL VOLUME in 1956 for industrial, commercial and home air conditioning came to three billion dollars. Industry spokesmen hope for at least $3,500,000,000 this year. The air-conditioning and refrigeration institute puts sales of room units at 1,600,000 last year and central cooling systems for homes at 150,000 units. It looks for a record this year for central cooling, but admits the disturbing dip in home building is a factor.

It believes the dip will affect cooler sales less than it does kitchen and laundry appliance sales because the coolers still have a less than saturated field in older homes.

Cloud Wampler, chairman of Carrier, estimates some 250,000 of these central systems should be sold this year. And he hopes to double his own firm's unit sales volume of room coolers.

THE INDUSTRY AS A whole hopes to sell two million room coolers. Hot Point Co. officials say the trend is toward bigger room cooler units, and add that pre-season sales are running 25 per cent ahead of last year.

Central cooler systems are attracting more competition. Fedders-Quigan and Philco have entered the field. General Electric stresses a new lower cost unit. Whirlpool and Worthington have new units easier to install. Airtemp division of Chrysler offers a new three-horsepower central unit it says can be installed for $1000 or less.

Servel is coming out with an air conditioner that uses a flame of fuel oil to heat the home in the winter and cool it in summer.

Technicians work at making air conditioners smaller, cheaper and quieter. They also are perfecting them to control odors, remove bacteria, block smog, and foil allergic substances. In the industrial field—one of the biggest in terms of sales volume — scientists are working on devices for spot cooling where heated processes are involved.

THE INSTITUTE SAYS that purchases should get a break this year because 22 manufacturers of room units have agreed to publish capacity ratings of their products in terms of British thermal units (the amount of cooling capacity needed to lower the temperature of one pound of water by one degree at sea level).

This gives the buyer a standard of comparison, instead of the confusing ratings by horsepower, tons, or evaporation equivalent formerly used.

The industry is also working hard to raise the efficiency and bring down the cost of heat pumps—devices designed to provide maximum heating or cooling with minimum use of electricity.

STRIKE HELD THREAT TO MISSILE PROGRAM

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE, Fla., May 28 (UP)—The Air Force said today that unless a week-long Teamsters' strike at the top-secret guided missile test center here is called off immediately the missile program will be sharply curtailed.

"Survey of our testing schedules . . . clearly indicate that a further loss of construction man hours . . . will seriously hamper our future testing operations," said Col. W. E. Elder, acting commander of the test center.

"These operations will progressively fall behind schedule unless the construction programs are resumed immediately. The corps of engineers has informed us that their construction schedules here are of a 'crash nature' and do not provide for cushion of any kind," Elder said.

Some 500 teamsters walked out a week ago after civilian contractors on the base refused to extend them union recognition. In addition, 2000 other civilian employes refused to cross picket lines, bringing to a standstill all construction work at the base here and the nearby Cape Canaveral missile launching site.

The delay in testing could affect the program for launching the first man-made earth satellite, scheduled for some time in the next year, as well as the testing of the Jupiter, Snark and other high priority long-range missiles.

MACMILLAN DEFENDS WEST'S NUCLEAR TESTS

LONDON, May 28 (UP)—The West's nuclear experiments have preserved peace since World War II, Prime Minister Macmillan told Parliament today.

Macmillan, a target of criticism by the Labor opposition, church and other groups for ordering Britain's first hydrogen bomb explosion two weeks ago, defended his policy with flat statements that Britain will continue testing nuclear weapons as long as it sees fit.

"I regard the nuclear power of the free world as having at least preserved peace in the period since the war and as our greatest protection, and that it should not be abandoned without corresponding reductions in conventional armaments," he said.

"I welcome any initiative, in which we shall play our part and the U.S. Government are playing their part, which may lead to a proper solution of these problems."

GRAINS IRREGULAR ON CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, May 28 (AP) — Grain futures, which had lost ground on persistent liquidation during the last three sessions, steadied on the Board of Trade today.

Wheat, corn and oats showed fractional gains at times on buying which apparently was a technical reaction because of the sharp downturns. Clearing weather in the corn belt was a bearish influence in that pit, but buying by cash houses and local traders aided a recovery movement.

July soybeans were up more than a cent at times on buying by processors and export houses. New crop contracts were somewhat weak due to the improved weather, but climbed at times because of the strength in the July delivery.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

MERCHANTS EXCHANGE, May 28—Cash grain market Tuesday: Wheat receipts 2 cars, 1 sold; corn 47 cars, 6 sold; oats none.

Sales were: Wheat—No. 3 Red Garlicky, $2.06½. Corn—No. 1 Yellow, $1.36@138; No. 2 Yellow, $1.36@1.38. Sample Grade Yellow. $1.30½.

GENERAL 13A

Emily Post Says:

Upon the death of a friend you should go at once to the house, write "With sympathy" on your card and leave it at the door. Or, you write a letter to the family. In either case you send flowers, addressed to the funeral of (name of the deceased) or to the nearest relative. The latter method is preferable, if the relative is a friend. But the former method is followed if the deceased alone was known to you.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES 94

Outstanding Opportunity
Exclusive Distributorship
Exclusive Managerial Rights for St. Louis Area

For a man with a successful sales or business background, we have an opportunity we believe you will agree to be second to none in ease and pleasure of handling and in the unusually large, steady profits to be made in proportion to the small amount of capital required

Dozens of successful operations in various areas of the United States will substantiate our statements.

Our National organization, highly rated and with an exceptional record of accomplishment, trains, guides and assists each man or organization selected for the purpose of assuring that each new area of operation secures the same maximum volume and profit as areas already established. The areas to now be opened are among the best in the nation.

$2,500 to $10,000 operation capital required, depending upon size of territory allocated.

Even our smallest territorial allocation should bring in a profit of from $15,000 to $25,000 the first year with a steady repeat business increasing potential profits year after year and with initial investment tied up for only a few months. For full information call for appointment, Mr. Heston at CE 1-1400 or write Box W-108, P. D.

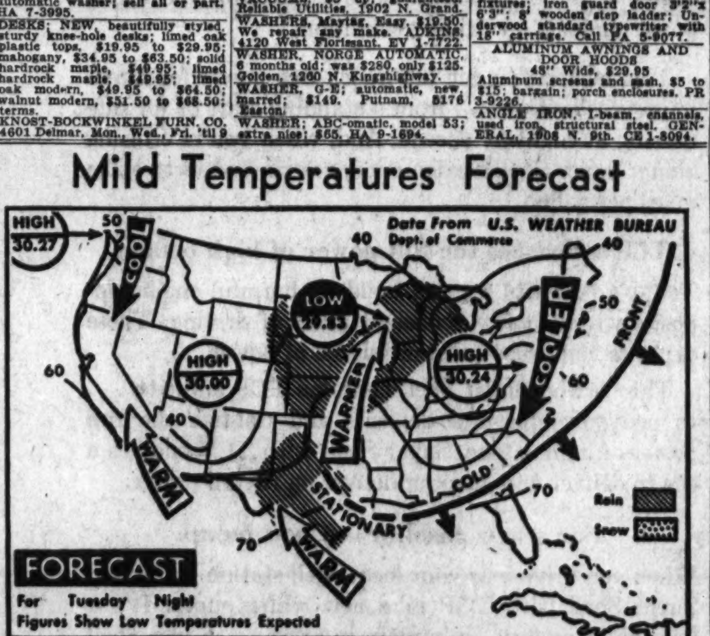
Mild Temperatures Forecast



FORECAST
For Tuesday Night
Figures Show Low Temperatures Expected

Increasing cloudiness and continued mild temperatures were forecast for the St. Louis area through Memorial day by the Weather Bureau today. However, there is no rain in sight, the Bureau added.

Temperatures will reach into the low 80s during the day through Thursday, with lows in the early morning in the low 60s.

Most of the nation reported clear to partly cloudy skies this morning, with the exception of light rain along the Southern California coast, and a few scattered thundershowers in eastern North Dakota. Overcast was confined to an area reaching from Iowa northward into Canada, and to the plateau states of Utah and Nevada.

Heavy rains were reported in Texas during the night. San Antonio received 4.22 inches, Laredo reported 2.84 inches and Corpus Christi received 1.74 inches.

High temperatures over the nation yesterday ranged from 103 at Thermal, Calif., to 41 at Duluth, Minn. Lows this morning varied from 25 at Fraser, Colo., to 82 at Burrwood, La.

In Missouri high temperatures yesterday were from 77 at West Plains to 69 in downtown St. Louis. Lows this morning ranged from 47 at Union to 62 at Kansas City.

BIDS & PROPOSALS WANTED 286

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

Sealed proposals addressed to The Curators of the University of Missouri for construction of Women's Dormitories and Cafeteria Building at Kentucky and Maryland Avenues, Columbia, Missouri, for The Curators of the University of Missouri, hereinafter called "Owner" in accordance with plans, specifications and contract documents, which were prepared by Hellmuth, Obata & Kassabaum, Inc., 315 North Tenth Street, St. Louis 1, Missouri, will be received at the office of the Business Manager of University of Missouri, Room 116 Jesse Hall, Columbia, Missouri until 11:00 a.m., Central Standard Time, June 18, 1957 and will be publicly opened and read aloud at 11:15 a.m., Central Standard Time at the Jesse Hall Auditorium. Any bid received after closing time will be returned unopened.

Cashier's check, certified check, or acceptable bidder's bond payable to Owner in an amount not less than 5% of largest possible total for bid submitted, including consideration of additive alternates, must accompany each bid as a guarantee that, if awarded contract, bidder will promptly enter into a contract and execute such bonds as may be required.

Attention is called to fact that rates of pay for labor and mechanics engaged in construction of project will be not less than prevailing local wage rates for similar work as determined by Board of Curators, University of Missouri, and approved by Housing and Home Finance Administrator, and further in full compliance with any State wage law that may be applicable.

Separate contracts may be awarded for each of following general subdivisions of work and as set forth in Proposal Form: (1) General Construction; (2) Plumbing; (3) Heating, Ventilating and Air Conditioning; (4) Electrical Work; provided however, that in event a bid combining subdivisions of work is accepted, a single contract will be awarded for work involved in subdivisions of work combined in bid.

By virtue of policy of the Board of Curators, and by virtue of statutory authority a preference will be given to materials, products, supplies, provisions, and all other articles, produced, manufactured, made or grown within State of Missouri, only when same can be secured without additional cost over products and services from other states. By virtue of policy of The Board of Curators, preference will also be given to firms, corporations or individuals doing business as Missouri firms, corporations or individuals, all things being equal.

Owner reserves right to reject any or all bids and to waive any or all informalities.

Plans and specifications may be examined without charge at the office of the Director of Construction, University of Missouri, 401 East Stewart Road, Columbia, Missouri and at office of Hellmuth, Obata & Kassabaum, Inc., 315 North Tenth St., St. Louis 1, Missouri, and may be procured from either of above addresses upon a deposit of $25.00 as guarantee for safe return of plans and specifications.

All bids may be held 45 days unless sooner returned by Owner.

Shell Oil Company
Announces a New Grade of Gasoline, the Successor to Shell Premium

Super Shell

with TCP

It is the most powerful gasoline __any__ car can use

The automobile industry is producing the most powerful cars ever offered the American public . . . cars with higher compression engines that require a more powerful gasoline in order to deliver full performance.

What's more, cars with still higher compression ratios, even more power, are planned for the years to come.

Clearly then, a more powerful grade of gasoline had to be made.

An entirely new grade of gasoline

The Shell Oil Company now introduces an entirely new grade of gasoline, Super Shell with TCP*. This gasoline not only meets the critical power needs of the highest compression automobiles—but, at the same time will give cars which have used premium-grade gasolines better performance than ever.

Super Shell with TCP is higher than "high test," even more powerful than Shell Premium Gasoline which it replaces.

Here's how this is possible. Shell is America's largest maker of gasoline for commercial aviation. Aviation gasoline contains special power ingredients such as benzene, xylene, toluene. They pack more energy into a gallon of gasoline than anything else you can use. A high concentration of these aromatics gives Super Shell its built-in "power pack."

What can Super Shell do for you?

This means you get full knock-free power for maximum acceleration . . . from a standing start or for safe passing at highway speeds. And, when you're cruising along, Super Shell's extra energy is converted to extra miles per gallon.

TCP unleashes the full power of high octane

Today's powerful engines build up harmful engine deposits within a few thousand miles of driving. These deposits can cause substantial loss of power.

This is why Super Shell contains TCP additive . . . to neutralize harmful deposits and unleash the full power of high octane. Super Shell with TCP enables a car to deliver and keep on delivering its full power.

For a new gasoline—a new pump

When you drive into your local Shell station you'll find Super Shell with TCP in a new white pump. It's a bargain in quality—a bargain in price . . . Super Shell is the most powerful gasoline any car can use!

*Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research.

FIRST OF NEW ATOMIC TESTS

This ball of fire, about 900 feet in diameter, formed a moment after the Atomic Energy Commission exploded a nuclear device at 4:55 a.m. today in Nevada, beginning a new series of tests. The device was exploded from the top of a 500-foot tower and was photographed from a distance of 11 miles. It was the forty-sixth shot fired at the Nevada testing grounds since 1951 and its power was equal to 10,000 tons of TNT, which is about half the power of the bombs that were dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki in World War II. The flash was seen in California, Arizona and Utah.

A Frenchman's View

By Art Buchwald

PARIS.

WE'RE always interested in talking to Frenchmen who have just been to America. The latest one we talked to, who had just returned from a visit to New York, was French playwright Jean Pierre Gredy. M. Gredy told us: "I never realized there was a social caste in America until I went there."

ART BUCHWALD

"How's that?" we asked him.

"Well, it seems to be based on the show 'My Fair Lady.' The lowest caste, you might call them the untouchables, are those who have never seen 'My Fair Lady.' Then just above them are those who have seen it, but not with Rex Harrison. Then there are those who have seen it only once, then those who have seen it twice, then those who have seen it three times, the next highest caste is those who saw it on opening night and the highest caste of all is those who saw 'My Fair Lady' and didn't like it. I knew 'My Fair Lady' was a very important show in New York because everyone who came over from the United States brought a record with them as a gift for me. But I hadn't realized how much a part it played in the life of a New Yorker.

"THE FIRST WEEK, everywhere I went, people asked: 'Have you seen "My Fair Lady"?' I had the excuse that I had only just arrived in the United States. But after you have been in New York a week and still haven't seen it, people start to talk. It was very embarrassing for me to admit I hadn't seen it, and when people stopped talking to me I decided it was time to do something about it. So I went to the box office to buy a ticket. I stood in line for three hours, and finally I said I would like a ticket for the following week. The man in the cage stared at me as if I was crazy. He said he could give me one for June 6, 1959.

"I didn't know what to do. Then I had an idea. I have noticed that every time an American has difficulty in France he whips out his American passport and this seems to solve the problem. So I thought maybe this would work in America, and I whipped out my French passport and showed it to him. But the man in the cage said if I didn't move on he would call the police.

"THE NEXT WEEK was pure hell. Everywhere I went it was the same question. Finally, I asked a dear friend what to do and he said he knew a producer who would get me two seats if I gave him the North American rights to all my plays for the next 15 years. I was tempted to do it, but then I found someone who knew someone who knew a kind man who loved France and would sell me a ticket for $75. I immediately bought it.

"The next best thing to seeing 'My Fair Lady,' I discovered, was saying you were going to see it, and having the ticket to prove it. Once I had the ticket I was able to revive countless friendships.

"As the big night approached I became more and more excited. I couldn't eat the day of the event. At last at 6:30—I had been dressed since 4:00—I hailed a taxi and said: 'My Fair Lady.' The taxi driver was very impressed. He told me he had taken a fare to 'My Fair Lady' on opening night and the other taxi drivers were very jealous of him.

"WHEN I ARRIVED, a huge crowd was already standing in the lobby. It was like a scene before midnight mass at Notre Dame. People were very quiet and respectful, as if they were going to church. There was a great fraternal spirit among all of us. I had the feeling I was going to get the Legion of Honor.

"I went inside. People were all seated in their seats and, although it was an hour before show time, everyone was waiting to applaud. A girl came down the aisle selling programs and we were all so pent up with emotion we started clapping our hands and screaming 'encore.'

"There was an empty seat next to mine and everyone kept looking at it, wondering what had happened. Then the lady sitting on a seat down explained to the people around her that the seat belonged to her husband who had just died that afternoon, and she hadn't been able to find anyone to take his place because all his friends were at the funeral home. We all sympathized with her. It seemed such a shame to waste a seat.

"AT LAST the curtain went up. We all sat back, but no one in the theater could keep his mind on the show. They were all thinking about the next day, when they would call their friends up and tell them they had seen 'My Fair Lady.'

"During the entr'acte we wandered around the lobby nodding at people we didn't know. They kept nodding back. It was as if to say: 'We're all in this together.'

"As the final curtain fell, I rushed out to run over to Sardi's to tell all my friends I had seen the show. I though they would congratulate me and buy me a drink and, perhaps carry me on their shoulders around the restaurant. But all they said when I told them I had seen 'My Fair Lady' was: 'How many times?'

"New Yorkers, I'm afraid, are very blase people."

Soft-Soap Treatment

By Ruth Millett

QUESTION for the woman: That soft soap you use to make your dealings with others easy and pleasant—are you using enough of it on your own husband?

The question is prompted by all the letters that come to this column from women who can't seem to get along with their husbands.

It's surprising how many of these women seem to have a "I'm sick and tired of putting up with this or that" chip on their shoulders.

WHEN they list all the things they have done to try to change a situation or to turn a disagreeable husband into a pleasant companion, they never mention trying soft soap in any form. They seem to feel they are above using on their husbands the soft soap they don't in the least mind handing out to others.

If a working wife is willing to soft soap her boss, why should she object to using the same brand of soft soap on her husband in order to keep him feeling important and pleased with himself? If a housewife is willing to soft soap everyone from her butcher to the members of her favorite woman's club in order to get tender steaks or a club office, why isn't she willing to cater to her husband's need for feeling important?

IF A WOMAN instinctively knows how to make a dinner partner throw out his chest and start telling her his accomplishments, why doesn't she use the same technique on the man she has chosen for a lifetime partner?

If a woman defers to a man's judgment, laughs appreciatively at his attempts at humor, admires his accomplishments, listens with complete attention to every word he speaks, she can get him into such a pleasant frame of mind that she can put across a few of her own ideas—without his noticing.

This being so, why should any wife be stingy with the soft soap when she is dealing with a husband?

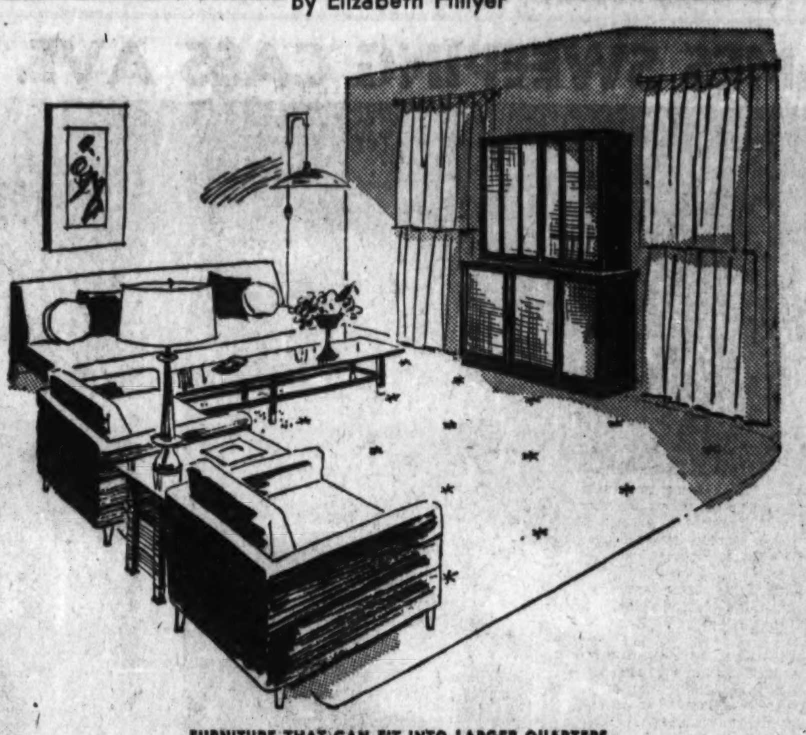
Living Room That Looks Ahead

By Elizabeth Hillyer



FURNITURE THAT CAN FIT INTO LARGER QUARTERS.

There isn't a thing in this bride and groom living room that can't be moved into another room later. When the young married couple leaves it's first all-too-close quarters, their new living room can be all new if they want it to be, with no left-overs from this one with the possible exception of the lounge chairs.

The lounge chairs will still be the favorite furniture for the second living room if they're chosen correctly. Lounge chairs—not a sofa—should be chosen first. No living room can be the deeply satisfying room it should be until there's a chair apiece in which to relax in perfect comfort for long hours. Each chair must fit the person who's to occupy it most, which usually means ruling out pairs of identical chairs. The groom's chair, proved by his sit-down tests to be wide and deep enough and pitched correctly for him, is probably wrong for the bride. Hers by the same tests, is too small for him. But chairs styled alike can be had in measurements that vary enough to fit each of them.

THE FIRST SOFA is a bed, bolstered to shorten seating area, that removes to the extra bedroom or to the combination television-guest room when there is one. It's bought with future sleeping comfort in mind. The simple, long coffee table in front of the sofa might be changed for something more imposing in coffee tables later; but it has talent as a bench to take a new stand in front of any big window or to fit the end of a bed.

A smart, tall cabinet gives the living room the key piece it needs for style; but it can go as it is in the dining room to come or separate its top and base to be used otherwise. Low cabinets have even more adaptability—very many are styled for any room in the house to include the bedroom.

The hanging fixture as well as the lamp is movable, and the curtains in tiers are easy to fit to windows in other sizes. The rug in a simple all-over pattern is the kind that looks well in any room and can be cut smaller for another floor.

Secrets of Charm

Signposts of Age

IS MIDDLE AGE CREEPING UP ON YOU?

IS middle-age catching up with you? Tiny lines around the eyes and a few gray hairs suddenly appear overnight.

Perhaps you have been neglecting yourself. You know the mistake which many mature women make. They rely on a permanent as a cure-all.

It's the day-to-day care that is the secret for keeping lovely and young. When you look lovely, your years are a matter of no importance.

USE a cream around your eyes, including the lids, nightly. There is no underlying layer of fat here; that is why this part of the face wrinkles first. When your hair starts to turn gray, make the most of it. But, it is perfectly all right to conceal. Many women tint their hair for social or professional reasons. On the other hand, there are many past-40 movie stars like Barbara Stanwyck that have let their hair go completely gray.

Whatever you do about your hair, always keep it well-groomed and healthy. Buy a good, natural bristle brush and use it daily. You'll be so pleased and really amazed at the improvement, not only in the health of your scalp, but in the beauty of your hair.

Full-Skirted Dresses

Full-skirted chiffon dresses have been designed to meet warm weather fashion requirements. The bodices usually are of the shirtwaist type, the sleeves brief and the necklines convertible. Chiffon skirts with contrasting bodices also are noteworthy. The vogue of white chiffon with black linen continues to be one of the featured combinations. Beige chiffon is being used extensively, and a silvery gray shade also is among the pale tones for summer.

How to Make Friends as Teen-Ager

By Elinor Williams

WHERE can 'teeners have fun (everybody needs friends and recreation) when they can't have it at home or at school? You know the wrong places to look for it—in gangs and in public places. This boy wants to know the right places to make friends and how to go about it.

Q.—"DEAR ELINOR: I have no way to go out socially. I am a sophomore (boy) in a high school that has only one dance a year, no other social events. Many of our parents won't let us have parties or a group of friends at our homes. They say, 'It's all right, but do it somewhere else.' I can't have a group at my home because we live in a small apartment on the third floor. 'Y' dances and activities are an answer, but I am in the dark on how to start making friends at the dances. Can you help me?"

ANSWER — Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. dances and activities are a good answer. There might also be 'teen activities in your church and Sunday school. The "secret weapon" in getting acquainted at these activities and dances—or anywhere else—is to attend regularly. The more you go there, the sooner people get used to seeing you, begin to consider you "one of the crowd" and are friendly.

Forget yourself and you'll forget to be shy. Be friendly and interested in others; it may be hard for them to make new friends, too. Speak to and talk with boys and girls standing or sitting near you. If there's an adult present introduce yourself to him or her, and he or she will introduce you to others.

When you ask girls to dance, tell them your name and they'll tell you theirs . . . Chat with the boys. You'll soon find out which ones you like best for real friendships, but be pleasant and friendly to everybody and you'll soon be popular and have fun. After a while, plan to see some of them in other places besides the "Y" . . . possibly a movie date or one at a time at your home and at theirs.

Popularity Of Canned Minced Clam

By Edith M. Barber

NOT everyone appreciates the delicious flavor of one of our best shellfish—clams. This is natural as, unless you have been brought up on the east or west coast, you may not have tasted clams until later in life.

Clams in the shell may be available occasionally in other sections of the country, but are generally expensive. This is one of the reasons why canned minced clams have been so well accepted. They make an excellent soup and can be used as an ingredient of a dip. We also like them for sauteed cakes or fritters.

The Eastern clams are known as "soft shell" and "hard shell." The former are used for steaming or frying and also for stews and chowders. The latter, which may be called cherry stone or littleneck, are most often served raw on the half shell. The razor clam of the Pacific coast, especially in the northwest, is much larger and from it we obtain the canned minced clams that give so much flavor to many dishes. Only the tender portions are used and much trimming is required before the remainder is minced for canning.

The minced clams mixed with cottage or cream cheese have become very popular as an appetizer. The only difference between a dip and a spread is the thinness of the mixture, and this depends upon the amount of juice mixed with the cheese.

Clam Spread.

Open one seven and one-half ounce can of minced clams and drain, reserving juice. Soften two packages of cream cheese, or one-half pound of creamed cottage cheese, with one teaspoon paprika. Add as many clams as the mixture will take without getting too soft. Pile in bowl, sprinkle with minced parsley and serve on tray surrounded by an assortment of crackers.

Olive-Clam Fritters.

Ingredients: Three-fourths cup ripe olives, chopped, two eggs, beaten, one can (seven and one-half ounce) minced clams, undrained, one and one-half cups fine cracker crumbs, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, two teaspoons grated onion, two tablespoons melted butter or margarine, one tablespoon finely chopped parsley, olive tartar sauce.

Combine one-half cup olives with all ingredients except the sauce and let stand five to 10 minutes to thicken slightly. Drop by large spoonfuls into hot shortening, flattening slightly. Cook quickly until both sides are brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve hot with olive tartar sauce, made by adding remaining chopped olives to one-half cup mayonnaise, two tablespoons chopped dill pickle and one tablespoon chopped green onion. Yield: Four to five servings.

Arthur runs in and out, in and out all day long,

Arthur's mother just sighs
Floors can be beautiful! Even with children. And muddy feet. And spilled milk. And scampering pets.
Of course, keeping floors nice is work. How much work depends a lot on the kind of wax you use.
We recommend Butcher's. Not because it's shinier. Or easier to apply. Or less likely to scuff. Frankly, it isn't. But it is quite different.
For Butcher's is a self-polishing, waterproof, washable, heavy-duty, all-purpose wax.
This mouthful simply means that with Butcher's, you don't have to worry about your floors. They pretty much take care of themselves.
Spills, for example, wipe away without leaving marks. Scuffs disappear with a light buffing. Dirt washes away without taking the wax with it. Your floors stay clean and bright. You don't have to wax so often.
... even with an Arthur running in and out all day.

BUTCHER'S is recommended for linoleum, for asphalt, vinyl and rubber tile, for terrazzo and composition floors. At most leading hardware, paint, linoleum, variety and department stores.

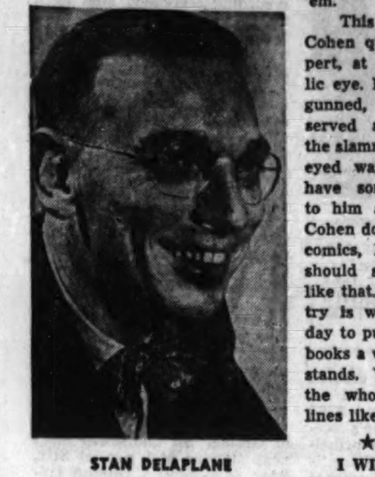
A Low Blow

By Stan Delaplane

SAN FRANCISCO.

THE comic book industry got racked back considerably the other evening. Mr. Mickey Cohen took to the TV waves and gave them a public brushoff.

"Crime comics?" said Cohen primly. "I never read 'em."



STAN DELAPLANE

This is a low blow. Cohen qualifies as an expert, at least in the public eye. He has been shotgunned, bombed and served a short spell in the slammer. In our starry-eyed way, we journalists have sometimes referred to him as a gangster. If Cohen does not read crime comics, I don't think he should say so in public like that. The comic industry is working night and day to put some 0,000,000 books a week on the newsstands. You could wreck the whole business with lines like that.

I WILL HELP the industry all I can. I read crime comic books. I read paperback novels by Mickey Spillane which are kind of criminal and kind of comical, too. It is rather interesting that both of these Mickeys have hit the sawdust trail for religion lately. And yet seem to be far apart on their thinking. Spillane is the Boswell of that indestructible private eye, Mike Hammer. What a man! Mike flings blondes around like they were confetti. He shoots them. He slugs them. He flings them off skyscrapers so they squash in the streets. He is mighty careless with blondes.

Does Mr. Hammer slip her a pin? She should pin it up temporarily until she gets somewhere with a needle and thread. Does he stand up and shield her with his napkin like a gent? No, sir. Hammer flips out his gun and plugs her in the brisket. Whammo! Mickey Cohen may not read this. He is missing a lot.

COHEN DID NOT SAY what he did read. He simply bum-rapped the crime comics and let it go at that. He is showing interest these days in the work of evangelist Billy Graham. When the gendarmes picked Cohen up recently in Chicago, he was amazed. Amazed and hurt. "I got religion," he told them. The Chicago police were amazed, too. Nobody had ever pleaded that one before. It is a plea you do not pick up much around a police station. And possibly never in a crime comic book. If Cohen had been a comic reader, he might have had a more reasonable answer. These ad lib crushers are awfully hard to handle.

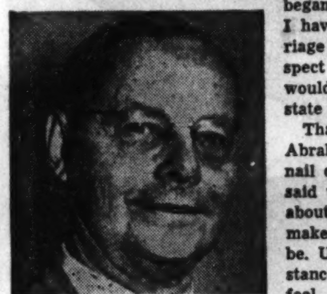
WHEN COHEN was interviewed on TV, he said he had never scragged anybody that didn't well deserve it. This seems a better attitude than Mike Hammer who is always scragging blondes, deserving or not. (I should be fair about that. A lot of them deserve it. The point is, Cohen, the artful dodger of shotgun blasts and homemade bombs, has thrown my dreamy comic world into a spin. Because if he can't get anything out of them, where do we turn? Popular Mechanics?

State of Mind

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

"I'VE been married almost a year," Mrs. U. writes, "and I've just returned from a visit to my old home. All my relatives and friends asked me, of course, if I was happy in marriage. Naturally I said I was—then I began to wonder. Bill and I have our quarrels. Marriage is not in every respect what I thought it would be. This is just a state of mind, isn't it?"



DR. PAUL POPENOE

That's about it, Mrs. U. Abraham Lincoln hit the nail on the head when he said that most people are about as happy as they make up their minds to be. Under similar circumstances, one woman will feel happy, another unhappy. In any case, we could all use a little more education on this subject.

STUDENTS OF MARRIAGE have wrestled with your question for years. A common procedure has been to ask on how many subjects you and your husband agree. The most important matters for this purpose are (1) handling family finances, (2) recreation, (3) religion, (4) demonstration of affection, (5) friends, (6) intimate relations, (7) caring for the baby, (8) table manners, (9) conventionality, (10) philosophy of life and (11) ways of dealing with in-laws.

Some married couples could disagree on a number of these points and still be happy, just because they are that kind of people. But it's a good check list for any married couple. If you differ on several of these points, start today to work toward a better agreement. It will make life pleasanter and more profitable.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

THE following question is asked by a young woman: "What does the description 'a good sport' mean to you? Does it mean that a girl must do all the things her friends do even though she disapproves of some of them? I am in my early twenties and because I do not do certain things I have been labeled 'a poor sport.' I enjoy a good time as well as the next one but must I do things that are against my principles in order to be a 'good sport'? I do wish you would comment on this as I am sure there are many young people who 'follow the crowd' simply because they do not want to be labeled as 'poor sports.'"

Actually, a "good sport" is one who takes his (or her) losses with good humor and without complaint. A "poor sport" is one who does not lose good-naturedly and makes all sorts of excuses for losing. But one who refuses to do certain things that her friends do because her own conscience or good taste disapproves, is not a poor sport. She is, in fact, a person of good character. Anyone can "follow the crowd" but it takes a person of quality to stick to her principles.

DEAR MRS. POST: My daughter is going to be married soon and the reception is going to be held at an inn out in the country and I'm afraid many of the guests will have a hard time finding it. The owner of the inn has offered to give me as many of his advertising cards as I will need. These cards have a colored map on the reverse side giving directions as to how to get there. Will you please tell me if inserting one of these cards in each invitation would be proper?

Answer: To those who have accepted you could send these cards giving directions with a note saying that you feel the inclosed card may help them in finding the inn. They should not be inclosed in the wedding invitation.

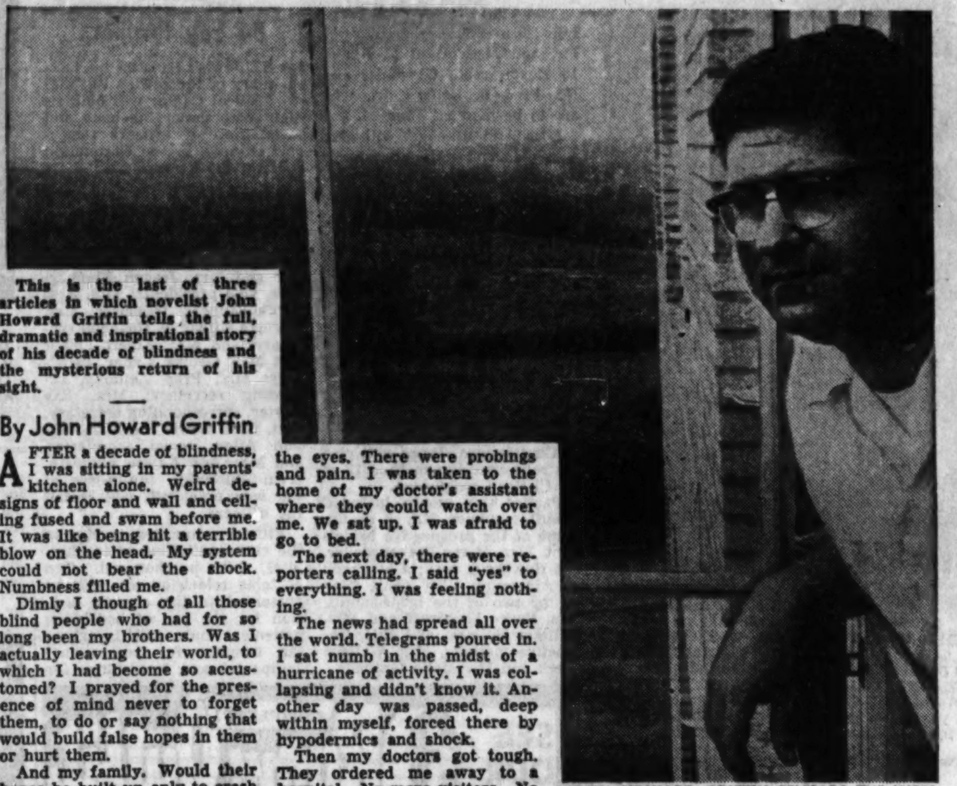
Wonder of Learning to See Again

Author Recalls Emotional Turmoil When Vision Returned, Joy at Seeing His Family First Time



JOHN HOWARD GRIFFIN BEHOLDS THE WONDER OF NATURE AS HE LOOKS FROM A WINDOW OF MOUNT CARMEL SEMINARY AT DALLAS, WHERE HE WENT AS HIS SIGHT BEGAN RETURNING. HIS REACTION TO EVERYTHING HE SEES IS "TOO BEAUTIFUL . . . TOO BEAUTIFUL."

GRIFFIN JOYFULLY HOLDS HIS DAUGHTER, SUSAN, TWO AND ONE-HALF YEARS OLD, AFTER REGAINING HIS SIGHT. HE WAS BLIND FOR 10 YEARS.

This is the last of three articles in which novelist John Howard Griffin tells the full, dramatic and inspirational story of his decade of blindness and the mysterious return of his sight.

By John Howard Griffin

AFTER a decade of blindness, I was sitting in my parents' kitchen alone. Weird designs of floor and wall and ceiling fused and swam before me. It was like being hit a terrible blow on the head. My system could not bear the shock. Numbness filled me.

Dimly I though of all those blind people who had for so long been my brothers. Was I actually leaving their world, to which I had become so accustomed? I prayed for the presence of mind never to forget them, to do or say nothing that would build false hopes in them or hurt them.

And my family. Would their hopes be built up only to crash if this weird thing should pass and leave me again in obscurity?

Another thought struck me and almost twisted by brain. Was ever a man in a stranger position? My own wife and children—people who were my life—and yet if I saw them in the street, I would not even know them!

I felt my brain tossing it out, refusing to believe. Desperately I clung to consciousness, struggling not to collapse, struggling to hang on to light and movement.

Then the doctor was there. I could not find him with my eyes. I saw only a vague patch of blue there at the corner. The effort to keep my eyelids open was exhausting.

His voice was deathly calm. "Are you really seeing?"

"I think so," I heard myself saying, as though it were someone else's voice speaking for me.

"What color is my suit?" he asked gently.

"Blue, I think . . ."

He gave me a shot and talked. I no longer remember the words, for my mind was blotting out, trying to become unconscious.

I sat, holding myself up, drained of all strength, all intelligence. The shot made me withdraw into the deep calm of myself, far into myself. It closed out the world. I heard myself asking him what it was.

"A light sedative. I want you to be aware of everything. This is an experience few men can ever have."

Bleared light swam slowly across my eyes. I didn't try to explain to him that it was too much of a blow, that I didn't want to be aware of it. I wanted to be unconscious, to leave this terrifying thing.

The phone rang. I heard my mother's voice, calm in deep anguish, asking me what was happening. I couldn't speak. The doctor talked to her.

Later I heard a car door slam. Nerves simmered up from numbness.

"Tell me who it is," I said.

"Your mother and dad."

There were movements around me. Faces were close to mine. They were kissing me, talking in low tones. I had to pull back to consciousness, to reassure them some way.

"Can you actually see me?" my mother asked.

"I can see you have on a green dress," I mumbled.

I couldn't control my eyes enough to see their faces. I would see a portion of their clothes and instantly the ceiling and then a side wall and then haze.

Talk went on around me. I retreated into stupor until the sound of another car aroused me.

My wife and children had arrived. I staggered up from my chair. My daughter came running in first. For the briefest instant I concentrated beyond my strength and saw blondness and radiance there looking up at me.

My wife was in my arms, her face beside mine. I glimpsed black hair.

My son was tugging at my pantlegs. I reached down, felt his short-cropped hair, but could not see him. That first bleared view of my daughter had been like looking at the sun—blinding me to everything else. It was there in front of my face during the next dim days. The effort of seeing her, or perhaps the emotion, shattered me.

I moved and talked, but I was unconscious. There was talk of a brain injury, of medicine to increase circulation in the eyes. There were probings and pain. I was taken to the home of my doctor's assistant where they could watch over me. We sat up. I was afraid to go to bed.

The next day, there were reporters calling. I said "yes" to everything. I was feeling nothing.

The news had spread all over the world. Telegrams poured in. I sat numb in the midst of a hurricane of activity. I was collapsing and didn't know it. Another day was passed, deep within myself, forced there by hypodermics and shock.

Then my doctors got tough. They ordered me away to a hospital. No more visitors. No telephone calls. I asked them if I could go and stay with the Carmelite Fathers in Dallas. They thought that would be even better than the hospital.

I got a telegram from the American Foundation for the Blind congratulating me on a fine interview I gave one of the New York papers by telephone. I had no recollection of having given it.

Father Augustin, prior of Mount Carmel Seminary, came to get me. Then a feeling of blankness and safety came over me. I recall nothing else until a monk awakened me and told me it was Sunday.

MY last recollection of sight, 10 years before, had been in a Benedictine monostery in France. My slow return to sight was to be accomplished in a Carmelite house—a house of peace that was to contain the most intimately dramatic events of my life.

I recall only one experience during those first sleep-filled days at Mount Carmel. I woke up and saw the shadowy figure of a large man standing beside my bed. I spoke to him. He remained quiet, motionless. I spoke to him again and when he didn't answer, I became frightened. I finally reached out and touched plaster. I learned later that it was a life-sized statue of St. Joseph which the seminarians had put in my cell beside my bed.

Many people have wondered what it might be like to see again after such a long time of blindness. Sight does not return full-blown suddenly. You have to learn to see again, like a newborn infant. You have to learn to use muscles, to focus. The adjustment back to sight was as complex as my adjustment to blindness had been.

At the outset, sight was more of a burden than a help. Nothing looked as I remembered. I could not get around well. Instead of sounds to guide me, there were now a confusion of door-facings, windows, statues.

I was put in training glasses to help me focus. As the first days passed and I could see more clearly, sight became an obsession. To help me use my eyes, the fathers brought me books of great paintings to look at. My first clear sights were the great masterpieces of painting. It was an exalting experience. For days thereafter, everything I saw looked as though it were a painting.

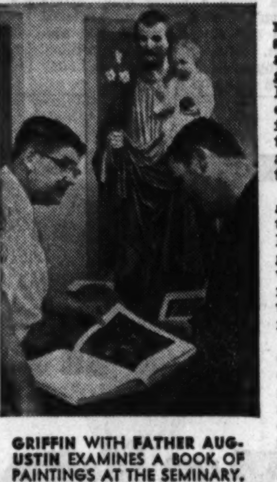
THE monks were living portraits on canvases. I would stare out to the rain-misted pastures of rye, intensely green, with Holstein cattle grazing them and see it as a masterpiece. Always I ended up saying hopelessly in my heart the same old things: "It is too beautiful . . . too beautiful."

The simplest mechanics of living had to be learned over again—how to eat, to walk, to look at people. I could not remember that I could see, and that seeing I could do many things that I had put out of my life forever. For example, one day it struck me that I had not yet looked at myself in the mirror. I went and looked into the face of a stranger, a man now graying and lined. It had never occurred to me that 10 years would make such a difference in my appearance.

I lived in a half-dream, unable to throw off the effects of shock. One day the doctor suggested that I play table tennis as an exercise for my eye muscles. For days I had walked past the recreation room and seen the seminarians playing this game, but it had never occurred to me that now I would be able to do such things.

At first the ball was only a white streak, and I was missing it wildly. But before long I was hitting it and hearing myself laugh spontaneously for the first time since this had happened.



GRIFFIN WITH FATHER AUGUSTIN EXAMINES A BOOK OF PAINTINGS AT THE SEMINARY.

Each discovery of things which the sighted take for granted was absolutely miraculous to me. By noon each day I would be exhausted from nothing more than the intense excitement of seeing new things.

One day Father Augustin took me out in the car. Even hovels seemed beautiful, but I gasped at the new homes of stone and glass, fitting close to the earth. I longed to go and look inside of them, to see how they were furnished, how the people in them looked. I made him drive at a snail's pace, so avid was I to see every tree, every shingle.

People's clothes and cars astonished me. But most of all, the people themselves. When I had lost my sight, people wore gold-rimmed glasses. Now they were wearing great thick-rimmed ones that made even the gentlest old lady like a fierce intellectual to me.

Women were so beautiful I could hardly bear it, and I was constantly nudging Father Augustin's arm and saying: "Look at the gorgeous girl. Honestly—aren't they the most beautiful things?"

After a couple of weeks, I was allowed to return home in secret. When I walked into my house, a small blond boy came toddling up to me and put his arms around my neck. I was thunderstruck to see that I had such a magnificent son; and that my wife was as beautiful as I had thought.

All evening we sat on the couch and watched our children, watched them in all of their moods, watched the play of expression on their faces. And I realized that I had before only the palest concept of how my children really were.

AT that moment the full wonder of sight's precious meaning swept over me, and I promised myself never to let vision grow stale, never to take this fabulous gift for granted. The full strength of years of sickness and blindness backed up my resolve, and I knew it was worth having gone through it to realize the true meaning and value of sight. It was worth it to read a whole world of innocence and wisdom in the clear eyes of my children.

Now, several months have passed. Gradually the world returns to normal, although I shall be under treatment for a long time. But I have not yet become accustomed to sight. I still feel as though I have an extra hand now that I don't have to carry a cane.

There is much I haven't seen. Everything is new, fresh. I am not selective in what I see. I continue to stare and to say in bewildement that all of it is "too beautiful . . . too beautiful."

Contract Bridge

By Sam Fry Jr.

THE somewhat esoteric jargon of bridge players includes such high sounding phrases as "grand coup," "Deschapelles coup," "double squeeze," "strip and end play" and so on. Don't let these terms get you down. They are nothing more or less than fancy titles for logical and not-too-complicated maneuvers in the play of the cards that should be in the repertoire of any average-to-good player.

We know you've all heard of "safety plays." The safety play family is a large one. There are dozens of them. The safety play is a play made to insure the fulfilling of your contract even if in making it you deliberately sacrifice any chance of an overtrick or two.

Here's our favorite safety play. Call it the reductio ad absurdum of safety plays, call its perpetrator an obvious subject for extensive psychoanalysis, or accuse us point blank of having made up the whole hand. Anyhow, here it is.

Our candidate for the bridge hall of fame sat South and he wound up as declarer at three no-trump. West opened the king of spades and after holding up once South perforce won the next spade lead with the ace. South saw he had nine sure tricks to guarantee his contract. South also saw, with somewhat of a sinking feeling, that he could take a diamond finesse and if it were successful he would make four no-trump. The sinking feeling was caused by South's realization of his own great yen for taking finesses to make overtricks, and that, if this particular finesse lost, he could easily go down at three.

After winning the spade ace South started running his good clubs. On the third round he had to discard from dummy. Without a moment's hesitation, before he could change his mind, he discarded the queen of diamonds from dummy. In one master blow he had successfully removed all temptation to take the diamond finesse and thus insured his contract. This is definitely our type safety play.

Former St. Louisans At Picasso Exhibit

By Marilee Chadeayne Martin

NEW YORK, May 28.

IN celebration of the seventy-fifth birthday anniversary of Pablo Picasso, the Museum of Modern Art is holding a new exhibition of the great painter's works, as part of the New York Summer Festival. The show opened Wednesday and will remain on view until Sept. 8 when it will be removed to the Chicago Art Institute and later to Philadelphia.

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.
MRS. RATHBONE . . . ATTENDED PICASSO CELEBRATION.

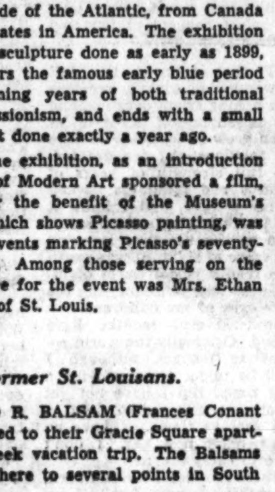
More than 7000 New Yorkers, including many former St. Louisans, attended the Modern Museum members' opening Tuesday evening. A private preview of the show was held the previous night for lenders and museum directors, and was the occasion for many dinner parties. Among those on hand for the Monday night gala opening were Mr. and Mrs. Perry Rathbone, who came to New York from Boston. Perry Rathbone, formerly director of the City Art Museum in St. Louis, is now director of the Boston Museum.

The Picasso show, the most extensive exhibition of Picasso's works ever to be shown in the United States, includes more than 300 paintings, sculptures and drawings assembled from 80 public and private collections in Paris, Oslo, Zurich, Basel, Lucerne, London, Madrid, Barcelona and Cannes, and on this side of the Atlantic, from Canada and from 25 cities in 14 states in America. The exhibition begins with paintings and sculpture done as early as 1899, when Picasso was 18, covers the famous early blue period and Cubism, the intervening years of both traditional studies and abstract-expressionism, and ends with a small bright canvas of a bullfight done exactly a year ago.

Two weeks prior to the exhibition, as an introduction to the show, the Museum of Modern Art sponsored a film, "Le Mystere Picasso," for the benefit of the Museum's Film Library. The film, which shows Picasso painting, was the first in the series of events marking Picasso's seventy-fifth birthday anniversary. Among those serving on the members' benefit committee for the event was Mrs. Ethan Allen Hitchcock, formerly of St. Louis.

Spring Holiday for Former St. Louisans.

MR. AND MRS. ALDO R. BALSAM (Frances Conant Richards) have returned to their Gracie Square apartment after a three-week vacation trip. The Balsams flew to Mexico and from there to several points in South America, returning a week ago. Another trip, all by air, was made in the opposite direction—to Europe—last week by Frances McPheeters, another former St. Louisan living in New York.



Miss McPheeters's first stop was Morocco, where she visited relatives. From there she went to Italy to be the guest of a former school friend. This week she goes to England, where she is to attend meetings of the English Speaking Union, with which she is associated here in New York. Frances, who is a daughter of Mrs. Samuel B. McPheeters of St. Louis, will return to New York next week.

Meanwhile, traveling to Europe by steamship are newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Neale, who were married a week ago yesterday in New York. Mrs. Neale was Mrs. Xavier M. Audibert (Rosamund Frost), one-time St. Louisan, daughter of Mrs. Sterling Frost and the late Reginald Frost of St. Louis, and niece of Mrs. Samuel W. Fordyce. The Neales are headed for Italy to spend a month while Mrs. Neale, well-known authority on food and wine, is to collaborate on a book on gastronomy with Count Manolo Borromeo in Rome. The book will treat of Roman cooking and living and will be extensively illustrated with photographs of homes and famous Roman families. Mrs. Neale and the count previously published an article together in Vogue magazine. Mrs. Neale is the author of three books on art as well. For several years she was managing editor of Art News and later served as copy chief on House and Garden magazine. She has done many free-lance articles on food and wines.

Late Summer Visit in Austria.

FROM Italy Mr. and Mrs. Neale will go to Austria for some climbing at Schloss Velden am Worthesee, and will make a side trip to Yugoslavia. Meeting them in Austria early in July will be Mrs. Frost, who now lives in Lakeville, Conn., and Mrs. Neale's 8-year-old son, Philip Audibert. The group will remain in Europe until September when they will return to Lakeville. Mr. Neale, who has a farm in Gordonsville, Va., is a nationally known authority on Black Angus cattle and recently has been raising an experimental herd of the famous breed.

Among guests at the Neale-Audibert wedding, who were limited to members of the families, was Count Jehan de Noue, chief of protocol at the United Nations, a cousin of the bride. Count de Noue frequently has visited his relatives in St. Louis. Another cousin of the bride from St. Louis, John Harney, was on hand for a cocktail party for the bride and bridegroom the day before the nuptials. John was in New York on one of his semi-annual trips.

Returning to the United States from Italy last week were Mr. and Mrs. William Barrett Oakes (Nancy Naunheim), who had lived there since their marriage two years ago while Bill Oakes served as a lieutenant in the Air Force. Now discharged, he and Nancy are looking for a house in Scarsdale, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Oakes, also make their home. When the ship, the Independence, docked, waiting at the pier were not only Bill Oakes's parents, but Nancy's as well, Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Naunheim of St. Louis. The family group then drove to Scarsdale for a reunion. Mr. Naunheim has returned to St. Louis. Mrs. Naunheim stayed in the East for a longer visit.

One of the last benefits of the spring season was a cocktail party-tea dance Thursday in the grand ballroom of the Biltmore Hotel, given for the benefit of the Memorial Center for Cancer and Allied Diseases. An active participant in the affair was Ruth Pratt, former St. Louisan who has had an apartment in Manhattan for several years. Ruthie Pratt served as a member of the May Fair Junior dance committee. The society supports a public educational program, including special center projects and tours, and, in addition, maintains a trifles and treasures thrift shop and separate gift shop, for the benefit of the center.

Comment on Disarmament Conference

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK.

IT is encouraging to note that in high places of government the United States evidently has considered seriously the Russian offer made in the London disarmament conference.

It has been reported that Harold E. Stassen, the President's assistant on disarmament, returned to London armed with a flexible bargaining authority. He has been instructed, of course, to guard the interests of the free world, but he will be allowed to come to an agreement on Soviet proposals that do not seem to be injurious to the United States.

There also seems to be a real interest in putting a limit on atomic arms. This, it seems to me, would include limiting, or at least reducing, tests of atomic bombs. Such restrictions certainly would relieve the minds of a great many persons.

A GROUP of graduate students from International House came up to Hyde Park for a picnic over the weekend. We talked for about an hour, after which they went over to the Memorial Library, and I went over to have lunch with them.

I think my women readers will be amused to hear that I spent most of last Saturday moving around the furniture in the house. I felt I could arrange it more advantageously. That should make my male readers groan, for I know how most of them hate a change in the house.

I was tired, too, of putting things away in the attic where nobody uses them. So I found somebody who could use some of these things, at least as a loan, and this delighted me.

MY GUESTS were willing beasts of burden, helping lift, carry and otherwise move the furniture, until we decided we had done a fairly good afternoon's work. Then we got into the car and drove to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau's, there enjoying a well-organized house and peaceful evening.

Medical Center Group Selects New Officers

By Fay Profilet

THE Jewish Sanatorium Auxiliary of the Jewish Hospital Medical Center will hold its eighteenth donor luncheon and installation of officers tomorrow at noon in the Coronation room of the Kingsway Hotel.

Mrs. Irving I. Lending, who served as president in 1950-'52, will again head the officers. Others to be installed are: Mrs. David Stellar, Mrs. David Glazier and Mrs. Joseph Zimmerman, vice presidents; Mrs. Sam L. Goldenberg, treasurer; Mrs. Herman Millstone, financial secretary, and Mrs. Albert Fisher and Mrs. George Lyner, assistants; Mrs. Fred Lending, recording secretary; Mrs. Ray Carter, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Leon Lewis and Mrs. Vernon Allen, social secretaries, and Mrs. Ann Kaiser, chaplain. Irvin Dubinsky, son-in-law of the new president, will install the officers.

Fifteen volunteers, serving in the chronic division of the hospital, will be honored. Ten portable television sets will be presented to the chronic division for the use of bedridden patients; funds will be given the hospital for recreational equipment and furnishings for a wooden deck to be erected for the use of chronic and rehabilitation patients, and $500 for the chronic division's recreational program. The principal project of the auxiliary is to provide for the personal needs of patients not furnished by the hospital.

Martha Carr's OPINION

Dear Martha:

I HAVE a dear friend whom I have known since our college days and I have learned to accept and pay little attention to her principal fault, the habit of complaining about every small inconvenience or irritation. To those who see her seldom, it really is a bad habit, but I know she has many other fine qualities so I try to overlook this. I was widowed for several years and during that time I saw her a great deal since she too is a widow. But then a year ago I was married again. My husband is a fine man and has been very courteous and considerate of all my friends, but he simply does not like this particular woman and refuses to stay at home if she is to be there. He says he hears so much complaining during the day at his work that he can't stand to sit through an evening and listen to her. I hate to hurt her feelings, but I feel I can't ask her in deference to him. What is your opinion? WORRIED.

I don't blame your husband a bit. No one enjoys hearing someone complaining constantly and any man deserves a respite from bickering and fault-finding when he comes home in the evening. But on the other hand, I think it's too bad to hurt her, especially as she probably is lonely and needs your help and companionship. Perhaps you can plan to see her during the day, and while you're at it, why not see what you can do to cure her of this bad habit? When one falls into that pattern of thinking, it doesn't do much good, I know, to suggest that she count her blessings, but as an old friend, you should be able to suggest that she try not to voice her criticism of everything, even if she can't keep from critical thought.

Dear Martha:

OUR DAUGHTER is 23 years old and is employed in a downtown office. We live pretty far out in the county, and I will admit it's hard for her to get to and from work. She has the idea now that she would like to have an apartment in town. Her father thinks it's all right, but I can't help feeling quite uneasy about it. She is a fine girl and I trust her to behave herself, but do you think she would bring down criticism on herself for such a move? MOTHER.

I don't see why. If she moved to another town altogether, she would have to find separate living quarters, and as long as she is mature and trustworthy and her parents are not dependent on her, I see nothing wrong with this idea. In fact, it's far more practical than trying to travel so far to and from work every day. Of course, she may realize after she has been there a while that there are responsibilities about keeping up a house or apartment that she never dreamed of, and she may want to come back. If so, make her welcome. But meanwhile, give her a chance to grow up and find her own way.

IN ANSWER TO Lonesome: There are many organizations in the St. Louis area for men and women of 50, where they where men and women in their fifties can meet new friends. Just drop me a note, giving me your name and address, and inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and I'll be glad to mail you a list.

The Little Woman

By Clarissa Start

WE'RE having fair weather this year. That is meant to be a pun because everyone and his brother and especially his mother is holding a fund-raising fair. But climate-wise we're having fair weather, too. We do every year this time except on the day we plan the first outdoor party.

CLARISSA START

You would think that anyone who has spent this many years in St. Louis or this many years anywhere would give up but not matter how often my spirits are dampened, I never fail to view a misty morning and predict, "It'll clear up soon."

I WELL REMEMBER the first time this fickle season betrayed me. It was school picnic day and I'd made plans to go canoeing in Carondelet Park with a fascinating if myopic eighth-grader. Came the day and came the rains, accompanied by sullen leaden skies, the kind that don't clear up. As we marched in the parade before returning to the school yard, I wept bitterly.

"My mother will be so upset," I explained to a friend.

My mother couldn't have cared less but it was the only face-saving reason I could think of for a sophisticated 11-year-old to cry. I tried not to notice when we passed our corner and mother waved gaily.

NOW I AM a gardener and again the weather is an enemy. Every gardener knows it isn't enough to raise flowers; you want to show them off. Each year I plan a party when the garden is at its best and each year it rains.

This year the party was set for a Saturday and on Friday it rained. Good, I thought, it'll clear up by morning. Friday night we went to a fair for South Webster Pre-School. Saturday morning it was still raining. The skies had that sullen, leaden look. Oh well, maybe it'll clear up, I reasoned cheerfully as I carried the lawn chairs out. The thing to do is think positively.

A comment from my husband indicated that he was thinking negatively. A few minutes later the man scheduled to mow the lawn called and he was not thinking positively either. But by 10 o'clock the rain had stopped so I pulled out the power mower and did a quick trim around the barbecue pit. The sun came out. See, I thought triumphantly, positive thinking. I made a quick circle and headed for the garage. Even so, the mower got wet.

AT TWO O'CLOCK the sun peered through the watery sky. We went to the Northwest Webster Improvement Association's Fair. As we headed home with a gardenia plant and a tin of brownies, someone said, "Isn't it nice that it cleared up?"

"Isn't it?" I said brightly, as a drop of rain fell on my nose.

By four it cleared again and we started the fire and dried the chairs. By the time the guests had arrived, the sun was making a game effort and all of them assured us they didn't mind the wet grass at all and of course we could eat out of doors. They admired the flowers which didn't look too bad considering the amount of mud on them.

Dinner was a success though hot coffee was unusually popular. Everyone relaxed. As I was clearing things away in the kitchen I became aware of a sudden swift movement toward the house. Chairs, guests, plates, tablecloths. All quite wet.

Personalized Pattern

A Dress Cut for Sloping Shoulders

THERE is a difference between a narrow shoulder and a sloping one, a difference that Muriel King makes a beautiful point of in this shirtwaist model, especially cut to follow the line of the slope.

A neck-to-hem button band separates the pleats that turn outward and end in an inverted pleat in the center back of the skirt. The bodice, pleated only in front, has a back vent on the dipped yoke, and a gentle blousiness.

For the best effect choose chiffon or other sheers (and buy an extra half yard to make a deep 18-inch hem), thin silks or cottons.

You'll find all the couturier detail simple to handle because the pattern is cut by hand with precise perforations for accurate matching and features exclusive designer measurements. From this chart select the one size best for you.

16	38	28	39 in.	17¼ in.
18	40	30	41 in.	17½ in.

The Urge to Belong

By Angelo Patri

SOMEWHERE along about their eighth or ninth year and on for a few years to come, boys and girls begin to feel a longing for association with their own kind. The grownups no longer offer complete satisfaction.

Those big people do not seem to understand things as their playmates do. They aren't interested in such things as baking potatoes in a tin can fireplace; they don't seem to have a listening ear for secrets like where there is a good place for a hut or where there is a good stand of violets, or how Mrs. Friendly makes the nicest things to eat. The grown-up audience is failing them so they hunt out sympathetic companions.

NOW COMES the gang for the boys and the secrets for the girls. The boys look for some sort of shelter which they can build and furnish and where they can talk and talk and eat all by themselves. Just to be together is enough but to have a hut, to call a meeting, to have passwords, this is the essence of happiness, one grand feeling never to be known again.

The little girls form close groups and make a point of shutting others out. That shutting out business is important to them as it gives them a feeling of importance, something they greatly feel the need for at this stage in their growth. They meet at each other's houses, whisper and giggle and say, "Don't tell," and for the life of them they couldn't tell what it was they were not to tell.

What these youngsters are doing is satisfying their longing to belong somewhere, to some people, in some place where they can fit in comfortably. They do not find it at home. Home is for big people who are forever telling small people how to behave, implying they don't know just now. They don't find it in school. Teachers, too are big people, very important, who keep telling children to learn, learn how, learn better, keep learning. Plainly they do not fit in there. So they get together and fit into their common life of wishing, hoping, working hard to get somewhere so as to be Somebodies.

THIS IS WHY parents, teachers, youth leaders look with kindly eyes at the clubs, the secret societies, the trios and the duets of childhood. These children are trying to learn how to belong to each other and the important phases of living which are still beyond them but beckoning them forward day by day.

This is why the Scouts, the Campfire Girls, the boys' clubs mean so much to the children and why the grown-up people ought to look kindly upon these associations, help them financially, help them personally. They are supplementing home and school where that help is most needed.

Words, Wit And Wisdom

By William Morris

The Readers Write.

QUESTION: I attended a birthday party with some friends recently and, when the time came for refreshments, the hostess entered the living room and said, "Come into the dining room, everyone. The candles are lighted." On the way home, my friends were talking about it. They said she should have said, "the candles are lit."

ANSWER: Both "lighted" and "lit" are in perfectly good use as past tense and past participle of the vert "to light." "Lit" is probably a bit more common in the past tense, as in "Tom lit the fire." Similarly, "lighted" is perhaps more common as the adjective and past participle, as in the sentence in question, "the candles are lighted." But either form may be used.

QUESTION: Not long ago I read that the word "turquoise" has another spelling "torquoise" that is acceptable today in common spelling. I. W. Zelman.

ANSWER: "Common" spelling or not, I find no justificatio for spelling "turquoise" any way other than the way it has been spelled for centuries. Not even the "reformed spelling" fanatics, who attempted to revise the spelling of thousands of words early in this century, have tried to meddle with "turquoise."

Refrigerator Butterscotch Cookies

Two cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ cup shortening, 1¼ cups brown sugar, firmly packed, 1 egg, well beaten, ½ cup chopped nut meats, 1½ teaspoons vanilla extract.

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cream shortening, add sugar slowly, and cream until fluffy. Stir in well-beaten egg, nut meats and vanilla extract. Add sifted dry ingredients. Shape into rolls 1½ inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper and chill in refrigerator. When hard enough to cut, slice very thin. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) about ten minutes. Yield: About 4 dozen cookies.

Vinegar Varieties

Know your vinegars! There are many types available and each has a distinctive flavor. Vinegars are made chiefly from cider, wine, malt, grain or spirit.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

Marinated Tomatoes

Ingredients: Ripe tomatoes, minced onion, minced parsley, French dressing.

Method: Cut a thin slice from each end of tomatoes. (Save ends to add to stock or stew.) Cut stem ends out of tomatoes. Slice about one-fourth inch thick. Lay tomatoes in serving dish sprinkling each slice with onion and parsley and dribbling with French dressing. Refrigerate from one-half to one hour.

Note: For French dressing, use two or three tablespoons of olive oil to every tablespoon of wine vinegar (white or red) and season with salt, pepper, prepared mustard and a suspicion of sugar.

Television Notes and Gossip

THE "Wide Wide World" series on NBC-TV has been signed again by the same sponsor for next season, its third on the air. Dave Garroway again will be the host and narrator. "Wide Wide World," presented every other Sunday afternoon, has an audience of 25,000,000 to 30,000,000.

The National Father's Day Committee has named Dinah Shore "Father's TV Favorite" and the "21" quiz expert, Charles Van Doren, and his father, Pulitzer Prize winner Mark Van Doren, as the "Father and Son Team of the Year."

Nancy Kelly, will star in "Circle of the Day" on KWK-TV's "Playhouse 90" Thursday night, was once voted "America's Most Healthy Youngster" by an organization of newspaper photographers. That was when she was five. Three days after she won the title she came down with the measles.

The entire "Today" show tomorrow morning on KSD-TV will originate at the Wykagyl Country Club in New Rochelle, N.Y., where the Palm Beach Golf Tournament is being held. A feature will be a "hole-in-one" contest in which 16 top golfers will compete for $2100 in prizes. As an added feature, a one-man helicopter will be demonstrated.

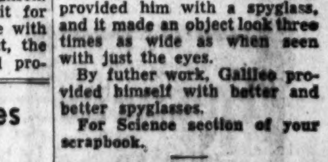
Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

IF YOU have two lenses around the house, you may enjoy playing with them. Let us say that one is small (an inch or so in diameter) and the other is a double-convex lens, three or four inches wide. Hold the larger one at a distance of about two feet in front of your eyes, and the smaller one near one eye. By moving the lenses a bit, forward or backward, you will be able to adjust them. They may provide you with a telescope of a sort, without a tube.



GALILEO AND TWO OF HIS SPY GLASSES.

ACCORDING to an old record, a youth who worked in an optical shop in Holland was first to prove that a telescope could be made. One day, we are told, he was playing with lenses taken from spectacles, and was astonished to find that he could use two of them to see a distant object. The weathercock on top of a church steeple seemed to come closer.

That youth, Hans Lippershey, is said to have reported the incident to Zaccharias Jansen. The two are given credit for making the first telescope with a tube. If that is correct, the little country of Holland produced both the first telescope and the first compound microscope.

THE original telescopes, or spyglasses, in Holland were employed as toys. After the idea of the invention traveled across the Alps, the telescope became useful in the science of astronomy.

A 45-year-old professor in Italy received a letter which told about the invention. His name was Galileo, and he set about making an instrument. At one end of a lead tube he placed a convex lens, at the other end a concave lens. This provided him with a spyglass, and it made an object look three times as wide as when seen with just the eyes.

By futher work, Galileo provided himself with better and better spyglasses.
